Lutheran Church Here Votes To Re-locate

VIRGINIA BEACH — The congregation of the Church of the Good Shepherd voted Sunday night to sell the present ocean front site on 18th Street and Atlantic Avenue and move to a 4-acre site on Laskin Road.

The new lot, located between Linkhorn Park and Friends Schools, was purchased by the church in 1954 for $12,000.

Plans for the new building should be completed by spring and construction will start soon after, the Rev. John D. Keister, pastor, said.

The congregation voted to move the church site because of limited parking and expansion facilities.

The Rev. and Mrs. Keister came to Virginia Beach in October of 1954 and established the first congregation in November and held meetings in the Community House. The same month the congregation bought the Laskin Road property.

The church was officially organized in February, 1955 with 105 confirmed members and 186 baptized members. They moved into the present church, which they bought from Galilee Episcopal Church, and held the first services there on Oct. 7, 1956.

"Since the building has always been a church," Rev. Keister said, "we hope it can again be sold to a church group."

General Election Set For Tuesday

VIRGINIA BEACH — Twenty-four mail ballots for Tuesday's election have been received by the Electoral Board of Virginia Beach which might indicate a large turnout at the polls.

"You can usually tell how heavy the voting will be by the number of mail ballots," J. T. Crosswhite, secretary of the board, said. "For the primary in the spring we only had a dozen such ballots."

The polls will open Tuesday at 6 a.m. and remain open until 7 p.m.

Virginia Beach precincts are located in the following places:

No. 1—The Virginia Beach Fire Department.

Friday Meeting May Shed Light On Merger Plan

By RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS

VIRGINIA BEACH — Three meetings scheduled Friday and Monday by the study group of a possible consolidation between Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach should reveal to the public what the 11-man committee has accomplished in the past few weeks.

The committee, headed by co-chairmen J. W. Wood and Sidney Kellam, will give a "progress" report to a group of about 100 invited city and county citizens Friday at Alan B. Shepard Convention Center at 11 a.m.

Both Groups

The County Board of Supervisors have called a special meeting Monday at 2 p.m. and the Virginia Beach City Council has scheduled a special meeting in the council chambers the same day at 2:30 p.m.

There doesn't seem to be much doubt that a rough draft of a proposed city charter and other details of a consolidation plan will be presented at both meetings.

Norfolk City Council spoke out against the proposed merger last week with full page ads in the daily papers.

Addressed to "our friends and neighbors in Princess Anne County," the ad stated that the present proposal to combine the county and beach "for the purpose of establishing a first class city casts serious doubt over this area's future."

The ad went on to point out that Norfolk has invested several hundred millions of dollars over the past 50 years to provide services such as water supply system, parks and recreation, fire and police protection, garbage and trash collection, street construction and repair and many other services.

$1,000 Per

In order for the new proposed city to provide these services, the ad said, each person in the county would have to contribute $1,000.

The Council stated they had no intention of interfering with the rights or desires of any group of citizens. "We do, however, feel a sense of duty in expressing our belief that the proposed merger will not be helpful to the present progressive vitality of the Tidewater area or beneficial to the individual citizens of Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach."

The ad was signed by W. F. Duckworth, mayor and president of the council, N. B. Etheridge, vice mayor, Sam T. Barfield, L. L. Layton, Roy B. Martin Jr., Linwood F. Perkins and Paul Schweitzer, all councilmen.

The study group met Monday morning with representatives of both governing bodies at which time Kellam made a statement.

Town & County Ladies
This is going to be another close race, after Wednesday night's bowling, there are three teams tied for first place, Hilltop Market, D. E. Bonney Co., and Team No. 1 are all tied. Pat Bocumini rolled a fine set, she had a 201 game and 535 total, which was high for the evening. The happiest girl of the evening was Mary Bolton. Mary rolls for Beach Travel team and in her second game, she rolled all spares, nice going Mary. One thing worries me, where is she going to put the patch?

Hawks Hungry

BEACH ELEVEN FACES HOLLAND

Its Homecoming this week at Virginia Beach High School and that spells trouble for the Holland football team, who will face the local Seahawks in the Virginia Beach stadium Friday night. Kickoff time is set for 8 p.m.

Besides the Homecoming flavor reports out of the Seahawks camp is that the squad is hungry for victory after dropping last week's game to Smithfield, a team they felt they would whip.

The Seahawks were listless in the Smithfield game and never threatened against the Packers. The winners won on touchdown passes from Senior quarterback Eddie Smith to Gordon Nelson and Bill Chapman, respectively.

It was the second district loss for the Seahawks, who have been an in and out team this year.

But, Coach Boyer and his staff hope the Homecoming incentive this week will make the team go. The spirit this week has been good and the squad vows it will bring home a victory for the Homecoming encounter.

Friday's game will be replete with festivities. Miss Nani Swertfeger will reign as Homecoming queen and her Royal Highness and court will be presented in halftime ceremonies.

Hottest Team

Cavaliers Defeat Suffolk Handily

The Princess Anne Cavaliers convinced one and all last Friday night that they are the hottest football team in the Eastern District with a sound 40 to 4 thrashing of Suffolk's Red Raiders. They dropped their first two games of the season, but have been terrific since that time.

The new look Cavaliers have the most potent air attack seen in some time in the Eastern District. The combination of Buster O'Brien throwing and Chuck Carr on the receiving end is the key to the Princess Anne attack.

In the Suffolk game O'Brien tossed five scoring passes to hike his season's total to 17 in the six games. Carr has caught nine touchdowns and in the Raider game he caught five for scores.

Suffolk could do little with the bigger Cavaliers. The best effort was in the third period when they reached the Princess Anne eight yard line, but fumbled.

The Cavaliers gained 257 yards through the air and only 92 on the ground, although they ran the ball very seldom.

Thunderbird Bantam Girls And Bantam Boys

This past Saturday the Bantam Girls and Boys really got in the swing. This girls league has eight teams with four on a team, while the Bantam Boys have a six team league. Judy Newton was elected president; Randall Malbon, vice president; Carol Fiedler, secretary. Congratulations to these girls. For the young men, Kevin Logie, president; Eddie Kirby, vice president; and Charles Wilson, secretary. Congratulations to these boys.

The U. S. Atlantic Fleet's service force complements the major striking forces by supplying necessary services.

PLAZA BOWL

Plaza Classified Ladies League Annie Price, of Frank's Beauty Salon team lead our league this week with high game of 181.

Betty Jugo of the Master Painting Co. team had high series of the evening with a 490. Master Painting Company also had high team game of 579, and Birchwood Forest had high team set of 1665.

Most of the girls are bowling fairly consistent and the team standings are still running close which mean a good league.

Birchwood Forest took four points from Frank's Beauty Salon. Rozanne Redd had high series of 468 and also bowled three consistent games in the high 150's for the winners. Dee McLaughlin and Annie Price each had a 429 series for the losing team. Team No. 1 took 3 points from Team No. 2, with Joyce Atwood having high series of 444 for the winners and Rose Vina 451 series for the losing team.

The Hit or Miss team and Master Painting Co. split two and two with Betty Jugo of Master Painting Co. having high series of 490 and Peggy Mayo of Hit or Miss with high series of 406.

Annie Price, Pat Bocumini, Rozanne Redd, Rose Vina and Nell Santivassi of our league compose the Plaza Bowl Ladies Traveling Team. These girls bowl as a league with seven other teams from the Tidewater Area and bowl in a different establishment each Sunday afternoon at four o'clock.

Information as to which house the league bowls in each week can be obtained by calling the Plaza Bowl, 341-1313. We are proud to have five of our girls on the traveling league. Anyone wishing to come out and watch some top women bowlers in action are invited to do so.

Kinnach Ford Military League

Told you I could count on this league every week for some good scores. This week George Jenko, bowling for the Cougars rolled a 215 game and high set with a 587. Robert DeLeasa rolled high game, for the night. The Phantom were high for the night with 2484, winning four points over "T-Birds."

BALL & CHAIN

This league seemed to be having trouble tonight with their bowling, although Lee Amundson rolled a nice 190 game, and had the high set with a 544. Noticed Penny Fitzgerald beat her husband in total pinfall. What happened, Jack?

BAYSIDE BOWL

Bayside Classified
Whiteway Laundry led by Troy Davis' 239-651 defeated "7" Seas 24-14 and gained a first place tie in doing so. Troy Davis needed a turkey in his last frame to enable his team to win the last game and gain a tie in total pins. This year's BFAA City Match game Championship demonstrated in championship form and proceeded to bust the pins for his three strikes. Mike Cimmino with 214-588 led the losers.

The spotlight of the night was on Jim Vrabec who after this night of bowling has the city's highest sanctioned set for the season. Jim fired a 250-246-223—for a 728 total, his first 700 series as he along with Ed Krause with 225-574 and Paul Holder with 213-597 led the Va. Beach Transfer team to a clean sweep over the Bayside Barber Shop team led by Joe Riley's 200-581.

The Admiralty Motel team, definitely on a winning binge and a major threat to take this league made a clean sweep over the Verdonck team as Jim Caldwell 217-595 and Al Hammett with a big 247-675 led the way. Don Truett led Verdonck with a 213-590 set.

THUNDERBIRD BOWL

How does this grab you? I keep repeating how important it is to complete recap sheets with both first and last names—come into work this morning, go over last night's sheets and the league I bowl in only half the team captains filled in the first names. Not only our Town and County League goofed, but the Thunderbird Major League did the same thing. Figures doesn't it? Do as I say, not as I do. Found out that this saying holds true when your instructing too.

Five of us here at the Thunderbird recently completed the certified instructors course (passed too) which was sponsored by Hampton Roads bowling proprietors Association. This course was most interesting and thorough, covered the beginner but was basically for the advanced bowler, so now we feel we are qualified to help our more advanced bowler. Thursday we have had some of our ladies turn out for instruction and would like to see many more come in. You ladies keep Thursday's in mind and come in. Ann Pawid will be happy to help you, and she is here on Thursday at 10 a.m.

Glad to see John Shomer back from his buying trip, carried his bowling ball with him and didn't have a chance to use it. The lay off didn't hurt him, and came in and rolled a 188.

Hope by this time next week Chissey Wilson is home from the hospital and feeling real good. Just the fact that her team won two points from Hilltop should make her feel better.

Pioneer Mixed
Team No. 2 is still maintaining their first place position. They are ahead of Lincoln National Life Ins. Co. by three games. This is going to be a close race. Jim Stanley bowling for Emrhue Ford had the high game with 223. Bill Horner had high set for the men with a 597. Ann Pawid was high for the ladies, with a 191 game and 534 set.

Fire & Policemen's League
Virginia Beach Fire Department was high team of the night with 2483 total. Andy Holland led this team to a three point victory over Munden Grocery. Andy rolled a 211 game and a 544 set. Herm West, for landrys Potltry had the high game of the night with 214.

Dam Neck History Recalled As Station Gains 20th Birthday

DAM NECK—On Friday, the U. S. Fleet Anti-Air Warfare Training Center at Dam Neck will celebrate its 20th anniversary with an Anniversary Luncheon at the Commissioned Officer's Mess. Other special events including a birthday cake in the Enlisted Mess. The center was established in November 1941 at the present site, about five miles south of Virginia Beach.

The Commanding Officers of Training Activities in the Norfolk area, and other military and community officials will attend the luncheon to be hosted by Captain R. R. Green, USN, Commanding Officer. Rear Admiral Phillips D. Gallery, USN, (ret.) will be the principal speaker and special guest.

The center has experienced considerable expansion in the past two decades and has undergone several changes in its mission as well as its name.

Two Buildings
When Lt. Phillip D. Gallery, USN (now a resident of Alexandria, Va.) arrived in November 1941 he found only two frame buildings under construction. This was the modest beginning of the Anti-Aircraft Training and Test Center, Dam Neck. Four gunners mates were assigned to begin training gun crews on the firing line as soon as the 20 and 40 millimeter guns were installed. December 7 created an atmosphere of urgency and growth in size, equipment and number of trainees was rapidly accelerated. In the first two years the gun line, operating from noon until midnight, trained more than 200,000 men and 25,000 officers.

Similar training centers were activated on the East Coast during WWII but were disestablished at the war's end. Dam Neck continued as, and still is, the Navy's only live firing range for training ship's gunnery crews.

Crucial Year
The year 1949 was a turning point. The decision was made to keep Dam Neck as a permanent activity and a five-year, multi-million dollar program was launched to construct permanent buildings and expand training facilities which now included radar and combat information center team training. The base was renamed the U.S. Fleet Air Defense Training Center (FADTC), to reflect its expanded scope of training.

Before the completion of this expansion, the U.S. Naval Guided Missiles School, now the major tenant activity, was established at Dam Neck, July 1, 1952. Today their student enrollment rivals that of the combined gunnery and CIC courses taught at FLTAWTRACEN, for an overall daily average of students on board between 600 and 700 officers and men.

Courses related to Anti-Air Warfare continued to be added to teach both defensive and offensive doctrine and techniques and last year the center was again re-named to reflect this change. The Fleet Air Defense Training Center (FADTC) became U. S. Fleet Anti-Air Warfare Training Center as of 9 September 1960.

Dam Neck History

An unknown artist staying at a Virginia Beach resort hotel in 1890 strolled down the beach looking for an interesting landscape. A few miles south of Virginia Beach he found a picturesque "Chapel by the Sea" with two tall windmills in the background. His water color is the earliest known visual record of the area now occupied by the U. S. Fleet Anti-Air Warfare Training Center. The two mills at Dam Neck stood on either side of the present road that leads into the center and about 300 yards from the ocean shore. Much of what is known about Dam Neck's early history was reconstructed from interviews with long time residents and descendants of earlier residents. A principal contributor has been Louisa Venable Kyle who was fascinated by the history of windmills in Virginia. They became her hobby. She has written a number of articles on the subject for the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

Was Station
In the later part of the 19th century the Virginia coast was covered by a series of life-saving stations manned by the Coast Guard. One of these was at Dam Neck. The eight families from the life-saving station plus farm families in the area were the congregation of "the Chapel by the Sea", an Episcopal church. It was a mission of the historic Eastern Shore Chapel at Oceanana and the same rector held services at both churches.

The church at Dam Neck was built almost identical to the plans of Eastern Shore Chapel except wood was used instead of brick. The lumber was salvaged from the three-masted barque "Agnes Arion" which was wrecked near the Dam Neck life-saving station in April 1889. The barque was enroute from Rio de Janeiro to Baltimore.

Capt. Bailey T. Barco, officer-in-charge of the life-saving station supervised the building of the church. Captain Barco owned one of the two mills at Dam Neck which he had bought and renovated in 1880. The mill is believed to have been almost one hundred years old then. It was built of heavy cypress timbers and shingles called "shakes" which were whip-sawed and hand hewn by slaves.

The box-shaped mill room with pyramid roof was perched 30 ft. above the ground and rested on a pedestal which permitted rotating the entire structure to bring the windmill blades into the wind. The blades were canvas-covered ribbed frames 25 ft. in length which swept almost to the ground. A hoist was used to lift the bags of grain up to the mill room and to lower the flour after the blades and giant mill stones powered by sea breezes had done their job. The canvas sails on the blades were furled when the mill was not in use. By unfurling only part of the sail the speed could be regulated.

Both mills at Dam Neck were severely damaged by a storm in 1894 and were abandoned. The sands of time have literally covered all tracks of the old foundations.

Also missing is the Dam Neck Mills Coast Guard Station which along with many similar stations fell into disuse with the advent of better roads and mechanization including high-speed cutters and aircraft.

In 1924 the Chapel by the Sea was no longer used as a church and Dr. Francis Stienmetz, rector of Christ Church, Norfolk, bought the building. It was moved a short distance and remodeled as a recreation camp for girls.

At least one vista of the almost forgotten past is, however still identifiable. It is the grave yard near the target drone workshop. The small plot containing half a dozen visible gravemarkers is neatly enclosed by a white board fence. The grounds are maintained by the Public Works Department.

Epitaphs on the tombstones indicate the burial place was used at least 46 years before the chapel by the Sea was built. Their reason for being there is unknown. It is possible they represent a family burial ground of the Robinsons. There were no public cemeteries at this time. The oldest legible epitaph reads:

Elizabeth Robinson
Born
March 26 Day 1787
DCD
June 14th day 1843

History of Princess Anne Is Outlined For Dam Neck Fete

(The following article appears through the courtesy of "Mount 'N Missile," Dam Neck's weekly paper, and with the permission of its author, Princess Anne County Circuit Court Judge Richard B. Kellam, who wrote it for the 20th Anniversary edition.)

By Judge Richard B. Kellam
Princess Anne is so rich in history, and so situated and endowed with beauty, it is difficult to put in a short article historical facts which will interest readers.

The area we now know as Princess Anne comprises the approximate center of the lands granted in the charter of 1606 and 1609 by King James of England to Sir Thomas Gates and others. The natural advantages of the area had much to do with its development.

Although Captain John Smith first set foot in America in Princess Anne County he stayed only long enough to plant a cross and then sailed on up Chesapeake Bay and the James River to establish the first permanent English settlement in the new world at Jamestown in 1607.

In 1634 when the Colony was divided into eight counties, Princess Anne was part of Elizabeth City County. In 1637 the Duke of Norfolk was granted the area South of the River comprising the area of Norfolk, Nansemond, Princess Anne County and the City of Norfolk, Portsmouth and South Norfolk, to be known as New Norfolk County. Later it was part of lower Norfolk County and then in April, 1691 was established as a separate county and named for Anne, second daughter of James II.

The social, political and economic life of the community centered around the Gentlemen Justices appointed by the Governor of the Colony. These Gentlemen Justices were the Executive and Judicial body of the County and in many instances the Legislative body.

Among other things these Gentlemen were chargeable with raising the Public funds and directing how the funds were to be expended. Funds for the operation of the county were raised from residents who were listed as "tithables" each tithable being assessed a certain number of pounds of tobacco. Because of the difficulty of raising tobacco in Princess Anne, in 1755 the Houses of Burgesses granted special permission to Princess Anne and Norfolk Counties to pay their public debts in money instead of pounds of tobacco.

Offers Much
The natural advantages of Princess Anne are not surpassed by any area in America. Its seasonable climate, its frontage on the Atlantic, its many lakes, bays, rivers and canals have all assisted in its development. Though its principal industry may be described as farming, many of its inhabitants earned a livelihood from fishing in the Ocean, Bays and Rivers, from oystering and clamming, and duck hunting on famed Back Bay. Much of the Ocean Coast line has been used for the establishment of summer homes and for the famous Va. Beach, and more recently Sandbridge Beach.

Many famous landmarks are located in the County including the old lighthouse at Cape Henry. As early as 1752 the House of Burgesses ordered a lighthouse to be built at Cape Henry, with the requirement that ships entering the coves be charged according to their tonnage for the cost of keeping the light.

Because of its location, Princess Anne suffered from invasion by its enemies. Battles of the Revolutionary War were fought here, and Lord Dunmore established headquarters for the British troops at Kempsville. It was again invaded by the British in the war of 1812, and by the Federal Soldiers in the Civil War. Fortunately, none of these invasions destroyed much property, and the old records from the courts had been earlier moved inland for safe keeping.

The seat of government of the court is located at Princess Anne. Anyone interested in colonial beauty would enjoy visiting the office courthouses, constructed in 1821-22, and re-modeled in 1909. In 1960 a new wing was added as a second courtroom, modeled after the colonial courthouse at Williamsburg. Since much of the early activities of the county centered around the county seat, the governing body of the county kept pace with events in the county by moving the county seat from time to time. First from its location on the Lynnhaven River, where there was a port of customs was established, then to Kempsville, also at the port of Kemps Landing, and then to its present location at Princess Anne. There you will find in the Clerk's office the records of rare beauty, and intrigue, recording the early wills, deeds and court trials, among which are the records of the trial of Grace Sherwood, tried for witchcraft.

Since 1940, what was formerly a rural section and rich farming area, one which boasted of the finest agricultural land of the East Coast, has been and is still being turned into an urban area. Many military installations have been established here. Its population increased from 19,000 in 1940 to approximately 100,000 today, without taking account of 30,000 lost to Norfolk City by annexation in 1958. The amount of new construction has been even more surprising. In 1960 permits were issued for construction totaling $38,000,000. To state it another way, the cost of operating the government of the county, including schools, was about $7,000,000 in 1960 as compared to $500,000 in 1950, and when compared with about $16,000,000 in 1903, it sounds even more amazing.

CAVALIER GARDEN CLUB
VIRGINIA BEACH — The Cavalier Garden Club met recently at the Princess Anne Country Club. Mr. John Traweck gave an interesting talk on "Basic Principles of Decorating." A discussion was held with Mr. Traweck answering questions from members of the Club.

Mrs. Gilmore Tilbrook also gave a talk on the progress and activities of the Council of Garden Club. Arrangements in the theme of "Autumn Treasures for Winter Pleasures" were made with Mrs. Rueben F. Trant winning a Blue; Mrs. Walton G. Saunders, Red; Mrs. L. O. Clark, Yellow; Mrs. Crockett Henry, honorable mention.

EDITORIAL SPEAKING

Consolidation Moves Ahead

From all indication the 11-man study committee on consolidation of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County into a single city is moving rapidly and it is expected that a proposed charter for the new city might be presented to the governing bodies of the county and city next week.

We believe that the study and proposal should move ahead without delay for the proposed consolidation procedure will afford an opportunity for residents of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County to determine whether or not they share such a view of their future.

Unlike annexation of territory, in a plan of consolidation such as is proposed for Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County the people are given the right to vote and choose their future course. This is not so in annexation.

If the people of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County decide to pursue their future under their own political identity, there need not be, and should not be any resulting adverse effect upon the scope of cooperation possible among the various political sub-divisions of the area in any Metro plan for providing services and promoting their mutual interests. To suggest otherwise is pure propaganda.

We respect the right of our many good neighbors and we believe that Norfolk City officials should protect the rights of Norfolk. By the same token we believe that the people of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County have a right to protect their interest and that right should be respected by others.

We believe that intelligent analysis of problems, unselfish cooperation and respect for the rights and interest of others must exist among all political units if Tidewater Virginia is going to realize its full potential.

Good relations have existed between the political subdivisions of the area in the past and these relations should continue in the future, regardless of what the people of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County decide. However, we do firmly believe that the decision on consolidation, is a matter for the people of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County, and for them alone.

WHAT OTHERS ARE SAYING

Enjoyable Competition

The Rural Electric Cooperatives are never bashful when it comes to singing their own praises. They make a particular point of emphasizing the low rates offered to their customers.

However, without taking anything away from REA achievements, certain facts need emphasis. One is that they pay no federal income taxes as, under the law, they are regarded as non-profit operations. Another is that they can borrow money from the federal government, through the Rural Electrification Administration, at a 2 per cent interest rate—whereas the Treasury must pay up to twice that on its borrowings.

The Kentucky Utilities Company, a typical taxpayer, investor-owned enterprise, recently had something interesting to say about this. If it had the same tax advantages now enjoyed by the REA co-ops, it could have given its 54,159 rural customers all of the electricity they used last year—and paid each of them $9.23 a month to take the service.

Putting it another way, if it enjoyed the same tax and money costs as do the REA's, it could have reduced the rates to all of its customers, rural and other alike, by 28.8 per cent.

Kentucky Utilities adds: "Eliminate the tax differential and we, as an electric company, would enjoy competing with government-owned or government sponsored power suppliers rate-wise and vote-wise." And taxpayer, business-managed utilities all over the country would enjoy that kind of honest competition too.

When Competition Tightens

"Looking for a $200 movie camera? Need a new auto tire? In the market for a living room rug? Look around on your next trip to the local supermarket, and you may well find all these seemingly-unlikely items close by the frankfurters and coffee.

Thus writes Clarence B. Newman in the Wall Street Journal. His article goes into detail concerning the new and varied ventures that are being conducted by a steadily growing number of the country's chain stores. The objective is to offer more goods, more attractive goods—and to bring in more customers.

The reason is an interesting one. As Mr. Newman puts the case, "Behind the upheaval is a set of circumstances familiar in many another industry which has been forced to vary its product lines: Tightening competition, rising costs and falling profit margins on what in this case are literally the industry's bread-and-butter items. But the competitive squeeze has been especially tight among the food chains, because their mass-volume and low-price merchandising policies have never allowed them a profit margin wide enough to stand much shrinkage."

The food chains' profit margins, actually, are next to non-existent, so far as the consumer pocketbook is concerned. It's common for these mass distribution systems to earn as little as one per cent on their volume, after all the bills are paid. That means, if you buy a $10 bag of groceries, the store keeps just a dime. And the profits made by other chain merchandisers are relatively small—a few cents on the sales dollar.

So the new innovations come along, all designed to gain patronage. The result is, we get better service, a broader range of goods to select from, and more value for our money.

Hornets Highlight Beach Midget Football League

The Hornets of Coach Harrell Copeland defeated the Wolfpack, 18-0, to highlight action in the Virginia Beach Midget Football League play last week. Chipper McQuillen and Steve Irvin scored on long runs after Chris Dobbs had intercepted a pass and returned it 30 yards for a touchdown.

A stout Wolfpack defense stopped all of the points after touchdown short. Mo Wolcott and Jack Clement along with Bill Pendleton were all outstanding for the Wolfpack in a losing cause.

In the other game of the day the Bulldogs, playing inspired ball, held the highly favored Blue Devils to a 0-0 tie. Coach Henry Entwistle had high praise for Earl Austin and Johnny Milneron defense and Johnny Maddox and Buddy Mathews on offense. Bill Mayo and John

SURFSIDE '61

By RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS

Members of the Junior Woman's Club of Princess Anne County really did themselves proud Friday and Saturday with their "Out of This World" cabaret follies—one of the best shows of its type to be presented in this area in many a day.

To spotlight one act during the hour and a half show would be impossible for each of the 14 presentations, ranging from foolishness to song and dance numbers, were excellent. Certainly one of the most unique and original acts was a dance by the "Martian Gentlemen," consisting of Al Craft, Bill Gietz, Hughes Palmer and Bill Myers, though it would be hard to identify them since the only part of their anatomy seen by the audience were their misdeeds. Huge black top hats covered them to their rib cages, short coats, with dangling arms, were fitted across their hips and painted faces decorated their misdeeds so that they gave the effect of "well-dressed" (?) freaks. Their dancing ability might not get them to Broadway but they had the most eye-catching "faces" in the show. Only one thing concerned me—how did one "Martian" keep the cigarette in his "mouth."

Heavenly Legs

Many a penny was collected through the club's "Lunar Legs on Heavenly Bodies" contest during the past few weeks. Several posters, featuring pictures of six pairs of legs, were placed in Cape Colony Club, Nick's, Kitchins, Beach Theatre, Surf Rider and other spots about the beach asking the public to vote for its favorite pair of legs.

Owners of the legs and the winner of the contest were revealed during the program and it was an eager group of men who waited for the "unveiling." Shirley Fentress (No. 6) took top place honors with Pat Gamage (No. 2) as runner-up. The other legs belonged to Eileen Christian (No. 1), Mary Mason (No. 3), Barbara Gietz (No. 4) and Barbara Almond (No. 5).

What Now?

Barbara Almond spent three weeks learning to walk across the stage in her role as Scylla, Goddess of Sex—a sink that developed sore muscles and a few raised eyebrows. This week the walk was causing her some concern: "Now that I've got it, what will I do with it?"

Bye-Bye Blues

Mrs. David (Betsy) Maxwell will leave the Virginia Beach scene in a blaze of glory this week-end after a double performance with WBOP announcer Bob Gheza... first in the follies as a hip-swinging gal and second as a pretty sport in Virginia Beach Little Theatre's production Tuesday and Wednesday of "Blithe Spirit."

Betsy, who has made quite a name for herself through the Little Theatre and her outstanding performance this summer in Sandpiper Playhouse, will accompany Dave and their sons to Connecticut where they will make their home while he is assigned to the New York office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Dave was transferred to Washington from the Norfolk office six months ago and during his absence Betsy threw herself into theatrical work. What does she plan to do now? "Find a big old Connecticut home, redecorate our Early American Attic ('my mother's and Dave's mother's attic') furniture, made drapes and try out all the recipes I've been collecting for the past six months."

And speaking of transfers... very noticeable in her absence from the follies was Mrs. J. L. Poole (Nancy), the fireball club-member who had to resign recently as general chairman of the show when her husband, Jess, was transferred with United Airlines to New Jersey.

Fashions?

Some pretty outlandish outfits paraded across the stage on the persons of some of this area's most distinguished models in the Fashion for the Space Age act. Imagine the audience's surprise when Dr. Les Gore, the dentist with a sense of humor, paraded across in lingerie (of a type) and City Councilman Frank Tarrall showed up in the latest lady-in-waiting fashion. City Sergeant Buddy McChesney "chickened out" before show time but having courage to go on were Elmer Tarrell, Bill Phillips, Bob Simpson, Nicholas Kostopolos and Mason Gamage. Nick Kostopolos, incidentally, proved what real "show people" are made of by opening the doors of his Saxony Motel to the producer, Tom Stokes of New York, for the entire three weeks he was here, providing rehearsal space in the motel's dining room and turning the room over to the club for an "after the show" celebration Saturday night.

One of the unexpected punch-lines came Friday night when fashion coordinator Alice Brewer White, who presented merit badges to a few long-suffering husbands, commented that "no amateur show would be complete without Tommy Gwaltney (who furnished the show music)." This to the man who only recently signed a big recording contract and has three highly successful jazz festivals and albums to his credit.

Cars Hit, Too

Also raking in people over the week-end was the fabulous Automotive Trade Fair held at Princess Anne Plaza under the sponsorship of the Virginia Beach Automobile Dealers. Kiddie rides and cotton candy actually took a back seat to the lovely 1962 model cars on display for it was difficult to tell who was more enthused over them—the youngsters or their parents.

Of special interest was the car of tomorrow, sponsored by Emphas Motors, a dream in yellow and crystal fiberglass and chrome that cost Ford Motor Co. about one million dollars to develop. Emphas salesman Ronnie Pope explained that when the car becomes marketable it will cost the buyer about $15,000 and should be available in about 10 years—when the highways are ready for it. Since the car works mostly by electronics, the reads must have a cable underneath to direct it.

Imagine getting out of the car at work and sending it home to the garage where it will remain safe and sound until you "ask" it to pick you up at 5 o'clock.

The entire show—from the fastest car in the world to the Rose Hall fashions to the scooter-poopin' Jeeps—was a credit to the sponsors and beneficial to the community.

The Junior Women were so impressed with the response to the follies they might undertake another one next year and perhaps make it an annual affair—let's hope the same is true of the Automotive Trade Fair.

Deaths

VIRGINIA BEACH — Capt. Clarence Nelson Hinkamp, 77, USN (ret.) of 171 N. Bayshore Drive, Bay Colony, died last Thursday in Portsmouth Naval Hospital and funeral services were held Monday in Eastern Shore Chapel, London Bridge.

The Rev. Edmund Berkeley, rector of Galilee Episcopal Church officiated at the service and burial was in Eastern Shore Chapel Cemetery. Maestas Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Frances Miller Hinkamp, formerly of Washington, now of Bay Colony; a son, Capt. M. N. Pieter Hinkamp, USN, a student at the Naval War College, Newport, R. I.; and a granddaughter, Miss Margaret Hinkamp, a senior at Emma Willard School, Troy, N. Y.

Outstanding Career
A native of Milwaukee, Capt. Hinkamp had a long and distinguished naval career, much of it in the Newport, Washington and Norfolk areas.

After graduation from the Naval Academy in 1907, he made the famous cruise of the "Great White Fleet" around the world. He also was a submarine pioneer.

During World War I he commanded a group of minesweepers operating out of French ports and won the Navy Cross for this service.

He went many years in command of destroyers on the West Coast and at Asiatic stations. He next was executive officer of the light cruiser Trenton, then took a course at the Naval War College.

He came to Norfolk for first of several tours of duty prior to World War II. He commanded the battleships Wyoming and Texas, the latter during the neutrality patrol in 1941.

During World War II he spent most of the time as director of training for the 5th Naval District and administered and commanded the executive school system for officers and the fleet. He retired to Bay Colony after the war after 13 seagoing commands.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor, Sun-News:

The Woman's Club of Princess Anne County appreciates the publicity you gave the Antique Show and Sale which was held at Virginia Beach, Virginia, October 13, 14, 15.

The show was a tremendous success, and much of the success is attributed to the cooperation extended the Club in publicizing its project.

MRS. (EARL) GRACE DUVAL

Editor, Sun-News:

In view of the vast amounts of violence making the news headlines today, it is indeed gratifying to Jehovah's Witnesses in Virginia Circuit No. 1 to find that our local papers still find space to print articles that are uplifting.

We thank you for the coverage you gave our convention in Norfolk. Please express our appreciation to all your staff.

in answer to Norfolk's criticism. "There is no thought on the part of the commission to study any type of government for spite. We are neighbors to Norfolk, Norfolk County, South Norfolk and Portsmouth and when this is all over I hope we will still be neighbors," he said.

"I want to say very frankly I have no criticism of Norfolk—they see their responsibility to their city. But they should have no criticism for the City of Virginia Beach or the County of Princess Anne."

"This is not a spite government. It is what we hope will be a progressive move on the part of the City of Virginia Beach and the County of Princess Anne."

Co-chairman Wood personally endorsed Kellam's statement. Other committee members include Frank Dickinson, Clayton Q. Nugent, Lee Bonney, Roger L. Riggs, A. L. Bonney, Charles Buriage, Alton Williams, D. W. Gregory and Noland Chandler.

WHY WE CARE — As hair stylists, we are artists—and we wouldn't be in the beauty field if we didn't believe in creating an art form. We accept each customer's individual needs as a new challenge and a new opportunity for us to do our very best. We study carefully to learn how to correct certain tiny flaws in your appearance as we study your hair. This again brings psychology into the field of beauty. ## Virginia Beach Chosen By State Citizens Bands

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Virginia State Citizens Band Radio Association, with a membership of nearly 800, will hold its annual convention at the Alan B. Shepard Convention Center next August.

Arrangements for the meeting were made in Williamsburg over the weekend by Bill Lillyman, director of convention sales for the center, and Roman Harris, president of the Virginia Beach Chapter of the Virginia State Citizens and Radio Association.

Virginia Beach took the convention away from three competing cities, they reported.

Also at work this week on soliciting national conventions drawing over 7,000 persons were Lillyman, Burkes Hammer, executive manager of the Cavalier and James Powell, executive manager of the Sir Walter Hotel.

Since both hotels are closed for the winter season, both managers are joining the city's convention bureau to solicit the larger groups to Virginia Beach.

LOCAL YOUTH ON SCHOOL HONOR ROLL

LT. Colonel Roy W. Haynes, Headmaster at Fishburne Military School, Waynesboro, Virginia, recently announced that Cadet Albin R. Mailhes, Jr., of Virginia Beach, Va., was on the third honor roll for the month of October.

Cadet Mailhes is in the senior class and is in his third year at Fishburne Military School.

Cadet Mailhes is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albin R. Mailhes of Bay Colony, Virginia Beach.

GUIDING STUDENTS IN FUTURE WORK BIGGEST PROBLEM

(This is the fifth in a series of articles to appear each week on the men and women who serve as principals of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County Schools.)

By RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS

PRINCESS ANNE—What vocation or profession should I choose? This is the major problem facing high school students today, Princess Anne High School principal J. Warren Littleton said. And their indecision often causes high school principals their greatest concern.

"My major problem is trying to interest students in doing their best, to understand the important meaning of work and encourage them to choose a field before leaving high school," he said.

School Helps

A student who remains undecided until his senior year is helped by the school in many ways — advice from guidance counselors, assistance from the principal and teachers in selecting the best curriculum and conferences with parents.

Students are more serious today than they were a few years ago, he said. Their reading selections prove this. A few years ago comic books were seen throughout the school. Today students carry paperback editions by authors such as Tolstoy, Faulkner and Dostoevsky.

"One student even asked me why we had the abridged edition of 'War and Peace,' I asked him if he wanted the unabridged edition. He did, so we got it for him. He is the exception, rather than the rule, but it still shows what type books students today look for."

A larger percentage of students also go to college now than in the past and pursue such fields as the sciences, chemistry and physics.

Don't Force

"College is important," Littleton said, "but parents often push a youngster into college when he is not prepared to go. If he is not mentally equipped to face college, he should not be forced to go. We still need trained technicians and some youngsters are more adapted to that field."

Baptist Church Expansion Plan To Be Explained

VIRGINIA BEACH — Plans for expanded church facilities will be described at a congregational loyalty dinner Wednesday it was revealed today by the Rev. H. Wadell Waters, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Va. Beach.

Guest speaker for the occasion will be James R. Bryant of Richmond, executive-secretary of the Va. Baptist Foundation. Members of the local congregation will also participate in the program.

The present church, building, located on thirty-fifth street at Holly Road, was erected in 1951, the pastor stated, and is no longer adequate for the worship and educational program of the growing church. Complete facilities for all departments of work are envisioned including a new sanctuary.

The church is planning a building fund campaign later in the month and the loyalty dinner has been scheduled to acquaint the membership with the details of the building program and campaign.

T. G. Adams is general chairman of the campaign. Mrs. W. D. Sessions is chairman of the loyalty dinner arrangements.

MRS. JARRET WILL BE P-TA SPEAKER

VIRGINIA BEACH — Mrs. T. Roy Jarrett of Richmond, Virginia's "Mother of the Year," will speak on "The Home in a Changing World" Monday at 8 p.m. at a meeting of the Linkhorn Park School P-TA.

Welcome Wagon Club Comes To Aid of P.A. County Family

PRINCESS ANNE — Somewhere in the county last week was a mother and three children, whose father and husband had deserted them many months ago, with no money to buy food. Rations had been slim for several days but by Sunday there was no food.

Monday morning the County Welfare Department, contacted a group of women who had left their name with the department in the event a case came up badly in need of help.

This is the case, the department told them. The woman receives only slightly over $100 per month from the county from which she must pay over $50 rent, plus utilities and ration the little that is left to buy food for she and the three children.

This week the group of women — the Welcome Wagon Club — took the woman under their wing and have agreed to provide food until the county can increase her relief check.

The group believes it will take at least $20 a week to buy food. This money will be raised by a bake sale, the sale of candy and a bingo game, all planned within the next two weeks. Until this money can be provided the clubmembers will chip in and buy the groceries.

Only a few short weeks ago the newly formed Welcome Wagon Club nearly disbanded. Though the members were brought together by the county Welcome Wagon Hostess, Mrs. Howard Hendron, the club itself is not commercialized. In fact, the members voted to devote their efforts to welfare work.

But so many persons throughout the county thought the club was commercialized they neglected to devote time and energy toward its motives and it seemed doomed.

Then Monday told a different story. The destitute mother and children saved the club just as they saved her. Now they have a purpose. And they hope it is only the beginning of many future welfare projects.

Though funds for the woman will be raised through the above mentioned projects, the members hope to establish a clothing and toy supply, as well as cash, for other welfare cases.

Persons wishing to donate clothing, toys or money are asked to call Mrs. E. C. Blount, at 497-0116 or Mrs. Rod Puffer at 497-8831.

The MIXING BOWL ...

IT'S Fun TO COOK

By LUCILE CLARK
SUN-NEWS FOOD EDITOR

For the very latest in food fads and fables... for practical, down-to-earth recipes that please both palate and pocketbook, read the "Mixing Bowl" by Lucile Clark each Thursday in the Sun-News.

Frozen Sirloin Dinners Give Man-Sized Portions

FOOTBALL practice is over! You can just hear the chatter as the players head toward home. One foot barely gets in the door when there's a roar from your hungry footer, "what's for dinner?" To-night frozen prepared chopped sirloin beef dinner takes top honors. Let's see why.

First of all, this dinner contains body-building foods... a man-size portion of chopped sirloin of beef... in rich beef gravy... tender green peas with creamy butter... and an always popular favorite with men and boys... French fries. Secondly, it all tastes so good, served piping hot, in the aluminum container or transferred to a plate.

To complete your entire serve some carrot and celery sticks...

something raw is good to munch on. For dessert... a surprise you made in the morning... rich creamy pudding. Use this recipe:

Choc-Fruit-Popmint Pudding
1 package (4 ounces) chocolate pudding and pie filling mix
1 cup evaporated milk
1 cup water
1/2 cup crushed peppermint stick candy
Cream thick, heavy or whipped.
Follow directions for making pudding, using evaporated milk and water for the liquid called for on the package. Cool to lukewarm. Fold all but 1 tablespoon candy into pudding. Spoon into 4 sherbet glasses. Chill. Garnish with remaining candy. Serve with cream, if desired. Makes 4 servings.

1/2 cup milk
Dash lemon juice
Confectioner's sugar

Filling

1/2 cup flour
3/4 cup sugar
Pinch of salt
2 eggs
2 cups cream
1 teaspoon vanilla
Beat eggs until light and add the sugar gradually. When well blended, add the melted shortening. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Add to the egg mixture alternately with the milk, add flavoring. Have two 8-inch layer cake pans greased and lined with waxed paper.

Pour batter into pans and bake at 375° about 25 minutes. Cool few minutes. Remove from pans and pull off waxed paper. Split layers, and spread with filling.

To make the filling, mix flour and sugar and salt. Beat eggs well, add the cream which has been scolded. Stir slowly into dry ingredients and cook in double boiler stirring all the while until thick and smooth. Cool in vanilla.

After spreading the split layers with the cooled filling, top with other piece and sprinkle with confectioner's sugar.

Hot Gingerbread

1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg
1 cup molasses
2 1/2 cups cake flour
1 1/2 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ground ginger
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup hot water

Cream the butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Add well beaten egg and molasses. Beat well. Sift cake flour with soda, salt, ginger and cinnamon. Add dry ingredients to creamed mixture, beat until smooth. Lastly, add hot water and beat again thoroughly. Pour into well-greased and floured pan (9x2-inch pan) and bake in 350° oven about 45 minutes. Cut into squares and serve warm. Gingerbread is so good served with whipped cream into which has been blended crushed and well drained pineapple.

Rules On Wheat Plan Explained

Farmers who divert more than the minimum 10 per cent of their acreage to conservation uses under the 1962 wheat stabilization program will not lose wheat acreage history by such action, Russell Dudley, Chairman, Princess Anne County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said today. His statement was issued in an attempt to clear up any possible misunderstanding of program provisions by farmers.

The Chairman explained that the wheat stabilization program provides that full history credit be given producers on all the acreage they divert under the program. This history credit will apply in the establishment of all future farm, county, and State wheat allotments. A similar provision now applies to wheat acreage history on farms retired under the Conservation Reserve Program.

The 1962 allotments sent to wheat producers by county ASCS offices before the recent marketing quota referendum reflected a 10 per cent diversion in wheat acreage. This diverted acreage will be devoted to approved conservation uses, for which payments will be made to offset income loss during the period of adjusting production to needs. Cooperators may divert additional wheat acreage under the program and receive larger payments. Any wheat acreage diverted under the program must be in addition to the normal conserving acreage on the farm.

Mr. Dudley further pointed out that in 1962, as in the past, producers who do not comply with their allotments will be subject to marketing quota penalties on their excess production and also to loss of acreage history, which will result in reduction of their future allotments. Marketing quota penalties were increased by Congress for the 1962 wheat crop.

Farmers who comply with the wheat stabilization program will be eligible to receive price support on their 1962 wheat crop as well as payment for the diverted acreage.

'Europe In Autumn' Beautiful Sight To Virginia Beach Home Builder

This is the third of several stories by Mrs. Dale Fairless Witt, who recently toured Europe with the Virginia Beach Travel Service-WBOF sponsored "Europe in Autumn" tour, reporting on building trends and other interests in various key cities. Mrs. Witt took the trip in her position as president of the National Association of Home Builders Women's Auxiliary and as a consultant for Viking Construction Corp., builders of King's Grant.)

By DALE FAIRLESS WITT

The trip from Copenhagen to Vienna was a smooth ride in a caravelle plane. The food was delicious and constant with one lunch after another. Kathryn Hardy dropped a pill into the seat in front of her and asked the gentleman, who politely stood up in cramped quarters while she groped frantically for the elusive aspirin. After at least ten minutes of groping unsuccessfully, she informed the gentleman, that "It's all right, I have plenty", at which time the plane lurched and the poor man staggered into the aisle.

The airport was a sight to behold, with its massive beds of blooming begonias, and other plantings, pools, and very modern architecture. Here we were welcomed so warmly and what a pleasure not to worry about our baggage, which was taken care of under the supervision of our tour director, Mr. Adenbrook.

We were transported to the hotel in glass domed buses. Along the way we passed through fields of agriculture and many cemeteries. What a contrast, from the colorful buildings of Denmark to the contrast gray of the buildings: grey stucco over bricks that look like they'll crumble if you touch them. Perhaps later, we will see better construction.

Elite Entertainment

Highlight of the first night was when Tony Carra (he wrote the music and played zither for the "Third Man" theme music) sat with us, after the restaurant closed, and played by candlelight for an hour.

OCTOBER 10

Continental breakfast of delicious rolls, jellies, mounds of butter and coffee are brought to your room by the maid. The coffee and chocolate topped with whipped cream are delicious.

In the morning we met our guide, who we found out, is a Princess "Helen Croy" of Austria, and she led us through Schoenbrunn Palace, which is unbelievably beautiful. Those who have been to Versailles of last year's tour, said this castle was the most majestic. It is filled with memories of the sad things that have happened: ghostly presence of bygones when Maria Theresa and her 18 children lived in all its splendor, in a bygone era. Here we found many, many crystal chandeliers, elaborate wall paper, and many, many pictures of the family, the balls, and weddings, all showing as many as a hundred individual faces. The furniture was saved from the Russians by moving it to the hills. Complete rooms were dismantled and later returned their present beauty. Maintenance is so very good in contrast to some of the other historical spots. These rooms are still used to entertain dignitaries of state, such as the recent dinner of President Kennedy and Khrushchev held in the grand ballroom, a smaller version of the ballroom at Versailles. The room, where Napoleon's son died of Tyberwe understood it, the only part not destroyed by the bombing. This is where Mrs. Khrushchev slipped vodka while chatting with Mrs. Kennedy.

Dinner this evening was at the "Balkan Restaurant", complete with Turkish costume and flaming swords. The food was delicious, shish-ke-bob with egg plant salad, thick sweet Turkish coffee, and baklava for dessert (thousands of calories).

Walking in Vienna is hard to find! Everywhere, in the bar, on the radio, in the night clubs, one hears nothing but American jazz music, so we visited Vienna's world famous jazz center, "Fatty George's Saloon", which is under the shadow of St. Stephens Cathedral. This spot, whose decor is that of a Mississippi River Boat, jumps every night with a modern jazz quartet which is currently Milton Jackson on piano and on Vibes, Next Lionel Hampton will be the reigning favorite.

Wednesday—October 11

Today at 9:15 we were off again with our most charming guide, a true lover of Vienna, but all of her relatives live in the states. First we went past St. Stephens Cathedral, which looked very ethereal without the accompanying jazz of the night before, which is so close. The church was completely destroyed and is being reconstructed, with the exception of one tower; the original architect jumped from after he designed the church and the church issued an edict that this tower should never be finished.

We drove along the "Ring" as they call it here, a horse-shoe shaped, three mile long boulevard (which at one time was a wall and the fortification of the city), which has many historical buildings and gardens.

The areas that are in the business section are often mixed in with the residential apartments and homes. There is a great housing shortage, as is all of Europe for housing; and our guide pointed out that the United States is supposed to be sending over some prefabricated houses. In the older homes, several families live in one house and in the large apartment houses built by the government; some people live for as little as $1.00 or $2.00 dollars a month, if they are poor or know someone.

During the last election the communists were completely defeated and the socialists took control. One of the present housing groups that is like a small city and one of the outstanding examples of housing to the present Socialists embarrassment bears the name of "Karl Marx". We found in the Russian zone, very little restoration and a statue of a soldier that is guarded night and day to keep the Viennese from destroying it. The treaty stated that it was to remain and the local citizens have dubbed it "The Unknown Plunderer". Just off the circle drive workers are excavating the ruins from ancient Roman times. They have found records to show that in 180 A.D. Aurelius died here.

The famous hospital of Vienna, where many an American doctor has studied, is over 200 years old and is very much in need of replacement, but still doctors from all over the world come to study here.

Next to the hospital is a rose garden containing over 1200 varieties of roses, a beautiful sight! Within a block is the jail where over 12,000 Austrians were beheaded.

When we passed the Imperial Hotel the guide told us it took three years to clean it after the Russian Occupation. She had served in the underground and had worked with the Americans

In France. Water for Vienna comes from high in the Alps and Austria exports electricity.

Still everywhere you see the grey, grey, of the stucco over the bricks and blocks. The more expensive homes prefer the concrete floor to hardwood. It appears with all of the balconies and the corrugated steel in grey that anodized aluminum in color would have a good market here and maybe brighten the city a little.

Leaving the city we drove high into the hills to a restaurant for a cup of coffee (most of us cut the coffee half and half with milk), a few to had a glass of new "wine". Called new wine, as the wine is only good for one year and since this is the case, when the wine is right anyone that has it (by hating a green shrub in front of his house) tells everyone that it passes that he has some to sell and then he is not required to have a license — many green shrubs in the hills.

Beethoven's homes in Vienna numbered several and at the one we visited, an old lady was selling the English translation of his last letter—very touching in that he explains why he stayed away from people after he went deaf and how his friends wouldn't allow him to tell his friends to "speak louder, please".

From high in the mountains we could see a huge monastery, built by a wealthy man of Vienna, on the spot where his wife threw her handkerchief. The country is 99% Catholic and the monastery plays a very important part in the community living.

Down from the hills to drive along the "New Danube"! This is the artificial Danube used for commerce, while the original Danube is used for recreation with many boats, gardens, and the famous ferris wheel along its banks.

Brainwashed with culture we finished this part of the day in French Pantry Shoppe called "Demela". Tomorrow on to Lucerne!

Records are made to build on, not to stand on!

On October 1st a gentleman named Roger Maris set a new major league record for the number of home runs hit in one season. Mr. Maris could probably sit back now and rest upon his laurels, confident that his record will stand for a few years anyway. But he won't do that. From the first chill day next April when the baseball season opens until the last game of the year, he will be trying to clout that baseball out of the park enough times to break his own record.

That's how we play the game at the Norfolk and Western, too. In the past few years we've set a few new records of our own. Like owning more cars per mile of line than any other major railroad . . . exporting more coal from our piers in Norfolk than is exported from any other port in the nation . . . maintaining an operating ratio (a major measure of efficiency) that is the envy of every other railroad . . . winning the Harriman Railroad Safety Award for seven years.

With records like these, we might be excused if we sat back and rested for a while. But at the Norfolk and Western, records are made to build on, not to stand on. We are determined to run an even better railroad and to give shippers even better service. To accomplish this the N&W has recently:

- 1 Purchased 30 more locomotives, increasing its total to 578 units.
- 2 Authorized construction of another 1,000 jumbo-sized 85-ton hopper cars to join the 2,000 already completed or in production.
- 3 Ordered 100 "damage free" boxcars specially designed to protect cargoes, and 100 new 70-ton pulpwood cars. Both types will shortly join the N&W's fast-growing fleet of 25 different types of special purpose cars.
- 4 Started construction of a new $25 million coal pier in Norfolk that will be the nation's largest and fastest coal-loading pier . . . will lease a huge new $16 million general cargo pier to be built by the Virginia State Ports Authority.
- 5 Spent $624 million since World War II to modernize and improve, including over $41 million in 1960. Some $57 million has been authorized already this year.

Such refusal to be satisfied with today's achievements is typical of the N&W's dedication to better service—typical of the challenging, venturesome spirit that keeps the N&W always going forward to set new records.

MAN DENIES FINDING GOD

EXTRA!
Read All About It

Has Harrison Y. Kahlandorf, 43, found God? Some observers say yes. Mr. Kahlandorf says no. The circumstances are these: Four months ago Mr. Kahlandorf was indifferent to religion. He was also weary of worry, and hungry for hope. One Sunday he "just happened" to go to church.

The Christian Truth came to Harrison Y. Kahlandorf as good news... and it began to change his life.

Does all this mean that Harrison Y. Kahlandorf has found God? Some observers say yes. Taking issue with them, Mr. Kahlandorf told our reporter: "It was I who had been hiding... God found ME!"

The Church for all... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a substance of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four main reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of the community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs its moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Notes from Your COUNTY AGENT

Swimmer

County Agent and Assistant
Speak to Aragona P.T.A.

On Monday night, October 23, Dick Cockrell and I were invited to talk for a few moments to the Aragona P.T.A. about the Extension Program as a whole, with emphasis particularly placed on the 4-H Club Program, and how it could be of assistance to the people of Aragona Village.

In many areas of our county, the 4-H Club program is experiencing a change, in order to keep up with changing trends in the schools that have made it more feasible for the Club Program to operate outside of the school system. Crowded conditions, sterner academic requirements, and less emphasis on extra curricular activities, along with other factors that are changing around our school system have made it necessary for us to begin a 4-H Club program that is centered, primarily, around clubs within a particular community. In Aragona Village, as well as in other communities throughout the County, we feel sure that an active and successful 4-H Club Program can be carried out without interfering with the school program. In any community or area where there are several children who have a definite 4-H Club interest or who have a 4-C Club need, it is possible to organize a 4-H Club for that particular group. In order for this to be done, parental interest must be shown, as it is necessary for us to have the backing of the parents, and in many cases, assistance from them as leaders or as helpers with a 4-H Club group. For any 4-H Community Club to organize, there must be one person who is willing to work with the children and serve as a leader. Our staff feels a definite responsibility to each 4-H Club leader and it is our intent to work through the leaders to the children with any information, individual instruction, literature, or other services that we may be able to offer.

We feel that the 4-H Club Program provides opportunities for boys and girls to develop knowledge, skills, attitudes, wholesome character, and in general, qualities of good citizenship by a few of the following things: The youngsters learn to plan and serve democratically; they learn to cooperate with others in work and play; they learn to conduct meetings according to parliamentary procedure; they learn to accept responsibility; they learn to participate in meetings, and activities providing social growth in group activities; they learn to acquire useful skills and they cultivate good habits for healthful living. We feel that this 4-H Program can offer something to the youngsters, in that they have the opportunity to get practical skills and knowledge that sometimes are not available in mass groups or within the classroom. Each youngster in the 4-H Club has an opportunity to become an officer in his club.

if he is so elected. If not an officer, he has an opportunity to work with the officers to make his club better. He has a chance to take a project individually and to work with the project. This is his own personal work from beginning to end. He is taught how to keep records and he keeps records daily or as the case may be needed. The Club member can tell exactly how much progress has been made on his project, and when the project is completed, as a final reward, the best projects from each club are selected and awards are offered to these children, as well as awards on a higher level to the winners of groups who have been brought together for a County-wide contest. This procedure can go to an infinite height, for after the County-wide contest comes a district contest, then a state contest, and the winners from each state have an opportunity to take part in national competition. We feel that with these objectives, the 4-H Club members have something to work for. They also have an opportunity to learn how to do things, and how to develop their character through experiences such as these.

Perhaps some of you are now wondering exactly how a 4-H Club could be organized and could function successfully in your community. Well, this is not a difficult task, if there is 4-H Club interest or potential in your community. First of all, there must be interest among the children, there must be enough children who understand 4-H Club work and who are willing to go forward, and to work hard with the 4-H Club program in order to develop it. Next, there must be parents and there must be people in the community who are willing to work with these children to show interest with them and to try to develop them through the 4-H Club program. Most important of all for a successful community 4-H Club is an adult leader who has shown interest and is willing to take the time and to work with the children and to help develop them through the program. We feel that this adult leader has in his or her hands the responsibility for the success of the Club. This responsibility, however, does not have to fall in the hands of one adult. Several parents or other interested people in the community may wish to get together and work with the 4-H Club members. This is definitely the right road to a successful 4-H Club Program.

We would like to have the people in Princess Anne County look around through their community, talk with their friends and neighbors, and see just how much interest there would be in a 4-H Club program locally. If you need literature or information as to what the 4-H Club Program is in a more detailed explanation, we will be glad to make this available to you. The entire staff of the County Extension Office will be happy to give special attention to any calls or visits from anyone who may be interested in discussing a Community 4-H Club.

4-H Club Junior Steer and Heifer Project Meeting Held
On Wednesday night, October 25, a meeting of all the 4-H Club members who have a Junior Steer or Heifer Project was held at Princess Anne Courthouse. The purpose of this meeting was to bring the 4-H Club members up-to-date on the overall steer and heifer program to tell them individually how each person was progressing with his individual project, and to initiate an overall group outlook to the progress that is needed to be made.

I have worked periodically with Mr. Cockrell on his visits to the 4-H Club members who have steers and heifers and both of us are quite pleased with the progress that is now being made. Each club member is taking pride in his animal, and feels a personal responsibility to make an all-out effort to do a good job. It is indeed a satisfying experience to visit these 4-H Club members and watch them work with their animals. Each club member is responsible for the entire care and handling of the animal. Every visit has revealed here between the 4-H Club member and his animal. In most cases, the child can take the steer or heifer and make many performances with it that no one else would be able to do.

In addition to feeding out the animal for market, each youngster has learned to train his animal for a show that comes before the sale in May. Each day the youngster combs and brushes the hair coat on his animal and spends much time with him, training him to walk, to stand properly, and the other things that are required to make a good show of an animal. I believe that it would be a rewarding experience for anyone who is interested to visit one of these 4-H Club members and see the fine job that he or she is doing with their livestock project.

4-H Club Lamb Project Shows Much Progress
Five 4-H Club members in Princess Anne County are feeding out a pen of ten lambs. By December, these lambs will be ready for market, and on December 13, a Show will be held in which each of these Club members will be able to participate. Immediately following the Show, the lambs will be sold at an auction.

We would like to encourage the people of Princess Anne County to consider buying a lamb at this show and sale. We have made arrangements with a slaughter house to slaughter the animals and prepare them for a freezer if it is so desired. We are told that the reason many people do not care for lamb on the table is because they have never had lamb that was prepared properly. If you are in the same boat that I am in, perhaps the only lamb that you have ever seen on the table was either leg of lamb or lamb chops. The American Lamb Council, from Denver, Colorado, tell us that many of us are missing out on the best part of the lamb. They have supplied us with many bulletins and menus that show how to prepare cuts from all parts of the lamb that are very appealing to the table and make a very delicious meal. The American Lamb Council plans to send in Home Demonstration Agents and other personnel to work with us in educating the public as to the many different ways that lamb can be appealing and desirable for the table.

This Lamb Sale will be held at a time when most of us will be tired of that old Thanksgiving turkey, and perhaps not looking forward to another turkey for Christmas. We believe that a lamb would be a solution to the house wife who has a problem of wanting a change in her menu that will provide something that the family is not tired of for the Christmas season.

Consider the idea of buying a lamb for Christmas and in doing so, not only will you be helping our 4-H Club members, but you will make available to yourself a new tasty treat for your family that is not at all impractical.

Pasture Seeded This Fall Not Available For Livestock Until Next Spring

I have had several calls from people concerning what kind of pasture should be seeded for their livestock, when it should be seeded, and when it will be available for use. I would like to say that most pasture mixes whether permanent or temporary, if sown at this time of the season, will not be available until next spring. It may be possible to sow ryegrass and have some foliage for the livestock during the winter, but if this ryegrass is in a mixture with other pasture seed, the entire pasture will be ruined by the livestock walking over it before the seed is germinated in the spring. It is best to seed a fall pasture and keep the livestock off of it until it has come out in the spring of the year.

There were four serious crimes committed every minute last year, and almost twice as many crimes were recorded in 1960 as a decade ago. Robbery and burglary, larceny theft, and auto theft, in particular, have maintained a steady upward trend, increasing 18%, 14% and 9% respectively in a year. Approximately three hundred million dollars in money and property was stolen last year, a large portion of which was taken from business establishments and residents.

Annual Report Of City Released

VIRGINIA BEACH—"Pulling Together—Key to Progress" is the theme of the city's annual report, released this week by city manager W. Russell Hatchett. The booklet report was compiled by Hatchett and designed by Mrs. Laura Lambe.

Ending with the fiscal year, June 30, 1961, the report includes statistical information, pictures and other information to give residents an over-all look at the city's activities. The books are available at City Hall. The city took in $2,387,596.88 through general property taxes, charges for current services, revenue from other governmental units, special taxes, licenses, permits, privilege fees, other local taxes, fines and forfeitures and other miscellaneous income.

The same amount went out for the following expenditures: schools, $482,026.96; water and sewer, $308,901.07; public safety, $248,727.15; tax anticipation notes, $280,000.00; public works, $248,336.58; general debt fund, $173,934.81; general government, $142,961.65; beach erosion, $96,451.60; beach erosion debt, $78,300.00; recreation, $63,645.87; advertising, $53,728.73; health and welfare, $44,797.07; other, $48,102.69; and excess revenue, $170,677.80.

Bond Issues

Out of the $960,000 bond issue, $697,000 has been expended and $263,000 remained on hand to cover the completion of the capital improvements, including an elevated water tower at 47th Street, widening of 17 street and laying storm drains at north end of the city.

With education taking the biggest part of the city's income, the report points out that the two schools have an enrollment of 1550 students and teacher pay scale starts with a salary of $4,000, among the highest in the state.

Renovation of Willoughby T. Cooke Elementary School cost the city $390,000. It provided an all-purpose auditorium, additional classrooms, library, new

Democrats Gain 3-1 Victory Here

Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County voters gave the Democrats a 3 to 1 victory in Tuesday's general election, a result not unexpected.

Almost 5,000 turned out in the county and just under 1,000 voted in the city.

The totals were just a few hundred short of those in the hotly contested Democratic primary last July.

The county margin of victory for the Democrats was estimated at 3 1/2 to 1. Two precincts, Capps Store and Creeds, were still unreported late Tuesday.

There are 20 precincts in the county and two in Virginia Beach.

The Republicans made their strongest showing as expected in the North Virginia Beach precinct of Cape Henry where Harrison garnered 226 votes to Pearson's 114.

The margin was slightly less in another well-to-do precinct, Linkhorn Park—153 for Harrison to 70 for Pearson.

In the predominantly Negro precinct of Seatack the vote was 51 for Harrison, 37 for Pearson.

In Virginia Beach Harrison got 752 votes to Pearson's 174. P. B. White, unopposed candidate for House of Delegates, led the field with a vote of 4,374 in the county and 497 in the city.

In the rural southern half of the county, the down-the-line Democrats chalked up some impressive margins: Brooks Bridge, 88 for Harrison to 9 for Pearson; and Courthouse, 177 for Harrison to 42 for Pearson.

One rather surprising aspect of the voting was the number of questions voters asked precinct workers concerning the proposed merger of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County.

A worker in that stronghold of Republicanism, relatively speaking, the Cape Henry precinct, said:

"Everybody who asked me about the merger said they were for it 100 per cent. There were no exceptions and almost every voter had something to say about it."

A referendum on the proposed merger is expected early next January.

Beach Band On WTAR-TV

The Virginia Beach High School Band will play three selections and several student and faculty representatives will be introduced on television Thursday, Nov. 16 at 1:05 p.m. on Mildred Alexander and Warren Hull's WTAR-TV show "Get Together."

Among those participating will be the principal, the band director, president of the student body, president of the Beta Club, the Homecoming Queen, captains of the football team, head cheerleaders and others.

Old Donation Oyster Roast Set Nov. 18th

Old Donation Episcopal Church will hold its annual Oyster Roast and Bazaar on Saturday, November 18th, from 12:00 to 3:00 P.M. at the parish house.

This year it will be more of an unusual event than ever as oysters are scarce and oyster roasts will be few and far between. You will also find the bazaar plentifully stocked with those homemade pickles, preserves, jellies, marmalade, chutney etc.; the bake sale offering cakes, pies, cookies, candy, plum puddings; the needlework and craft department will have articles to tease that Christmas spirit and the plant sale is, as usual, a joy to those who long for the real home grown things such as farm fresh vegetables, plants, pine straw, dried flowers and other suitable materials for winter arrangements.

Last, but not least, the "white elephant", a veritable curiosity shop. We expect to have many more articles of interest this year as our membership has grown. Be sure to remember 18th, 1961.

Banks Dinner Set Tonight

The testimonial dinner honoring Sidney Banks is scheduled to be held tonight (Thursday) at the Princess Anne Country Club and reservations have been received from more than 115 persons.

A social hour is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. and dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m.

The dinner has been planned by a special committee, who conceived the idea when it was learned that Banks had disposed of his Cavalier Hotel interests and had indicated that he would devote most of his time in the future to his Florida holdings.

Members of the committee are Sidney S. Kellam, Frank A. Dusch, Alvin R. Malin, Fred A. Haycox and James Powell.

Proposed Baptist Church Addition

First Baptist Church Announces Expansion Plans at Loyalty Dinner

VIRGINIA BEACH—At a congregational loyalty dinner Wednesday evening, attended by 250 members of the First Baptist Church and their families, plans were announced for the erection of expanded educational facilities and the building of a sanctuary.

Participating on the program were James R. Bryant of Richmond, executive secretary of the Virginia Baptist Foundation, E. Guy Robertson, Reece M. Simmons and Mrs. J. R. Jeter of the local church, and the pastor, Rev. H. W. Adams, building committee chairman, presided.

Planned Facilities
Plans for the new construction were drawn by architect George Van Leeuwen, designer of the existing building at 35th Street and Holly Road. They provide for the housing of a fully graded program of religious education, music and dramatics including dining facilities for 200 and necessary staff offices and utility and storage areas. 811 can be accommodated in the proposed air-conditioned building.

The exterior of the building will consist of red brick trimmed with limestone—to match the existing structure—and a terra cotta solar screen harmoniously combined in a restrained, dignified style of contemporary architecture in keeping with the

Merger Action Expected Friday

VIRGINIA BEACH—Though no action on the proposed Virginia Beach-Princess Anne County merger was taken by both governing bodies Monday, as expected, it is possible the vote will come Friday when the Board of Supervisors meet at 9 a.m. and the City Council at 2 p.m.

Monday's closed session at Alan B. Shepard Convention Center ended in apparent deadlock on issues after nearly five hours of discussion.

Many details of the proposed plan were disclosed, however, last Friday by Sidney S. Kellam, co-chairman of the 11-man study committee, before a group of more than 100 civic and business leaders.

By January
If the two governing groups give their approval on the merger plan Friday it is possible city and county residents will vote on the proposal before January 9, 1962 when the General Assembly meets.

The new charter and plan will be advertised for 28 days after the Supervisors and Council approve them, and the Princess Anne Circuit Court judge must set a referendum date before the public can go to the polls. A possible merger date has been set for January 1, 1963.

Plans for the new city, which would extend along the Atlantic coast from North Carolina to Chesapeake Bay, incorporate 250 square miles and rank about 13th in population in the state, include:

The city will maintain the name of Virginia Beach with the present city of Virginia Beach becoming a borough of the same name. The present Seaboard District, seat of the county government and proposed location of the new city's city hall, will be re-named Princess Anne borough and Virginia Beach will maintain some of the municipal services.

Manager, Mayor
A council-manager form of government will be set up with the council naming the manager, the mayor coming from one section, the vice-mayor from the other.

The new city could be required by law to operate on a budget which must show where the revenue to finance it is coming from.

Elections will be held in June with each supervisor and councilman serving a four-year term. The posts of treasurer and commissioner of revenue are the only duplications in the two political groups and it is possible one will step in as assistant to the other. The supervisors and councilmen will merge to form a 11-man governing body—five from Virginia Beach, six from the county.

It is understood that nothing will change in the present supervisor-councilman set up for at least five years. After that time a change may be made if recommended by seven members of the new council. After 10 years the change must be made with each of the seven boroughs—Seaboard, Pungo, Back Bay, Blackwater, Lynnhaven, Kempsville and Bayside—electing its own representative.

The new city's General Assembly representation will increase from one to two representatives, depending on the population growth.

Could Annex
Kellam pointed out Friday that if the county and city do not merge by 1963 it is possible the county may lose the Kempsville and Bayside districts to Norfolk through annexation. Norfolk took in 13.5 square miles in 1959.

He also stated that he did not believe that Norfolk could cut off the county's water supply

Cavaliers Away, Hawks at Home

Princess Anne's winning Cavaliers journey to Portsmouth this week to do battle with Woodrow Wilson while Virginia Beach's hapless Seahawks entertain Southampton here. Both games are scheduled for Friday night.

Fresh from their 4th straight victory after losing the first two games of the season the red hot Cavaliers are looking to Woodrow Wilson to be victim number five in their current winning streak.

Princess Anne hurdled Craddock last week by a 20 to 12 score. The game was not as close as the score indicates, but the Cavaliers did abandon their potent air attack in the second half and scored heavily along the ground.

The Seahawks suffered another defeat last week falling by 15 to 7 to Holland in a ragged contest played on the Virginia Beach gridiron. The Hawks seem to be a mystery team. The material looks good on paper and they have played well at times. It's pretty safe to say that the local boys don't have the desire to win. It's just that simple. Both games are set for 8 p.m. Friday night under the lights.

Gun Facilities Now Open to Area Clubs

PRINCESS ANNE — All shotgun, rifle and pistol sport now have access to gun facilities, thanks to county resident R. F. Trant, Jr.

Trant is owner of a 35-acre farm on which is located the Princess Anne Gun Club and the Princess Anne Rifle and Pistol Club. Both clubs operate from the same clubhouse, which is on the Seaboard-Camp Pendleton Road near Gate No. 3, Camp Pendleton.

National Supports The Princess Anne Gun Club was formed in 1958 and one year later was host to the 1959 World Championship Skeet Tournaments promoted by the National Skeet Shooting Association and Virginia Skeet Shooting Association. In 1960 the Club was host to the same tournaments. These two years the tournaments drew the largest and most largest entries in the recent past history of Skeet Shooting if not in the history of skeet, reversing a trend of at least eight years of declining entries.

In 1961 the World Championships were held in Reno, Nev., and entries declined approximately 25% from the 1959 entry at Lynnhaven. These facts tend to indicate that a resort area such as Virginia Beach, which offers recreation to the families of the participants, is an ideal location for events of this kind. In 1959 and 1960 entries came from nearly every state including California and Washington as well as Puerto Rico and Canada.

Following the World Championship of 1960 the Club had to relocate due to the sale of the land in Lynnhaven. Offers Much The new Princess Anne Gun Club now has five regulation Skeet Fields in operation and one regulation Trap Range. Thus offering residents and tourists both Shotgun Sports within minutes of anywhere in the city and county.

R. B. Pinnox is manager of the Princess Anne Gun Club & E. T. Hamlet is Secretary. The Club is affiliated with the National Skeet Shooting Association and the Amateur Trapshooting Association, the two governing bodies of all Shotgun Shooting in the United States. The Princess Anne Rifle and Pistol Club was formed in 1961 and is a 100% N.R.A. associated Club. This means that every member of the Club is also a member of the National Rifle Association as well as the Virginia State Rifle and Pistol Association, the governing body of all Rifle and Pistol Shooting in the U.S.

The Club has in operation a 40-point Pistol Range at both 25 and 50 yards. Two registered tournaments have already been held.

Three Tournaments During the year the Princess Anne Gun Club holds at least three open tournaments which draw entries from Virginia, Maryland, North Carolina, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York.

The Rifle and Pistol Club plans tournaments during spring, summer and fall at the rate of one every two or three weeks. These tournaments draw from all areas under 300 miles from Virginia Beach. These facilities, even though not completed entirely are at present as nice and more complete than any clubs in the area it serves.

As the pace of life in our nation accelerates, so apparently does our crime rate. According to the F.B.I.'s latest annual report, crime is increasing four times faster than our population growth. There were four serious crimes committed every minute last year, and almost twice as many crimes were recorded in 1960 as a decade ago. Robbery and burglary, larceny theft, and auto theft, in particular, have maintained a steady upward trend, increasing 15%, 14% and 9% respectively in a year. Approximately three hundred million dollars in money and property was stolen last year, a large portion of which was taken from business establishments and residents.

and the swirl of the occasion, showing the crowd that the team was not just putting Tasha Price in the deep freeze. However, they should have stayed right there and with arms raised, celebrating the up-hill on first place they had won since the first night of the season. But by the time the crowd had seen a 550 gear, Team Ice cream peddlers took over top place in the parade. Team success was by far the most important factor in second position led by Don Schaefer and his wife, who had a 550 gear, and Artie Watkins with a 550 and a 528 set. Jim Johnson, riding for the last time, had a 550 and a 528 set, and a 500 set. The other match of the night saw another clean sweep by Chubby and his wife, who had a 550 gear and the big pump with a 508 gear and 545 series.

Ann's name is on the list. Marie Smith rolled 815 in 1960, and now Ann's 600 this year.

The UCF Scores Again

The United Communities Fund campaign that closed last Friday was a resounding success and went well over the top for the twenty-third consecutive year. This is a record, unmatched throughout the United States.

The final figures, as released by UCF headquarters showed that the drive raised a total of $1,524,197 against a goal of $1,494,097. This is truly a remarkable feat and much of the credit must, and should go to the hundreds of volunteer workers.

A final tabulation shows that Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County divisions finished near the top among the some 64 divisions in the campaign. The Beach-County effort was so strong that four of its divisions finished in the first seven top producers.

Leaders among the Virginia Beach-Princess Anne groups were the City of Virginia Beach, Princess Anne Schools, Virginia Beach Schools and Princess Anne County. All of these divisions went well over 100 per cent of their quotas.

The UCF drive was one of the most successful in history and the beach and county groups played a vital role in that success. It was a wonderful display of giving and working.

Saturday's Is Veteran's Day

Once again the calendar has reached the eleventh month and once again we approach the eleventh day of November, a date that is annually designated "Veteran's Day" throughout the Nation.

Mayor Frank A. Dusch has proclaimed Saturday as "Veteran's Day" in Virginia Beach. This day has been set aside for the purpose of paying deserved tribute to our veterans, who as former members of our Armed Forces, have, by splendid sacrifices on their part, made possible the peaceful existence of our Nation.

Citizens have been asked to participate in this observance in patriotic exercises and to display the American flag. In this way a demonstration of respect for, and gratitude to, our veterans can be displayed to the world.

We join in a salute to our veteran's on Saturday—VETERAN'S DAY, 1961.

UCF Campaign Goes 'Over the Top' Again

VIRGINIA BEACH—Final reports on the area-wide United Communities Fund drive, which ended Friday, show that Virginia Beach went over the top with 110 per cent of its $4,450 goal, according to J. B. Wood, general chairman of the local drive.

All three units in the general solicitation—hotels and motels, small businesses and restaurants—met and exceeded their quotas with the hotel-motel group bringing in the largest increase.

Division Chairmen

The three divisions were headed by Roy Neil, hotels and motels; Jack R. Haden and Earl Slatum, small businesses; and Gene Joyner, restaurants.

More than 50 volunteer workers called on over 200 business firms throughout Va. Beach during the drive, Wood said.

Wood gave the workers and businesses a pat on the back for "showing a true community spirit in supporting the drive." This is the first time Virginia Beach has ever met and exceeded its quota.

Hornets Score Over Bulldogs

VIRGINIA BEACH—Led by fullback Mike Doolin who scored two touchdowns and was a defensive stalwart the entire game, the Hornets scored a decisive 26-0 victory over the Bulldogs in the Beach Midget League last week.

Chip McQuillen and Buddy Sidwell accounted for the other touchdowns with Steve Irvin scoring both of the points after touchdown on off tackle bucks.

Gary Price, Ronnie Armsworth and Pete Nixon were singled out as defensive standouts for the Hornets, while Coach Henry Entwistle had high praise for the entire second string of the Bulldogs.

In the second game, the Blue Devils unleashed a powerful single wing attack that shattered the Wolfpack. John Donohoe connected on a pass play to Bill Mayo, good for 50 yards and a touchdown.

John Donohoe, again in the spotlight, scored on an 8-yard run off tackle. Bobby Nixon and Dale Brady accounted for the PAT's. The defensive play of Mike Strickler and Moe Wolcott as his brightest spots of the contest.

This weeks schedule calls for the Wolfpack to meet the Bulldogs and the Hornets play the Blue Devils in the second game. All games are played at the Virginia Beach Memorial Stadium. The public is invited to attend.

since the county recently spent $78,000 for a water booster pump on Virginia Beach Boulevard and Norfolk had contracted to connect 4,800 more county homes.

"Norfolk has plenty of water. They charge us double. Do you believe that they dislike us enough not to make a profit?"

It was also recommended in the merger plan that the present 11 members of both school boards hold their three year terms and eventually merge into a 7-member board.

The estimated total cost of the building project including construction, equipment, furnishings and fees is placed at $375,000 by the Building Committee. The congregation will conduct a campaign this month to raise $225,000 of this amount.

SURESIDE '61

By RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS

No matter how you look at it, it was just naturally a quiet Halloween . . . not much soap on the windows, no dented fenders, no missing lawn furniture and no gangs of youngsters leaving a path of destruction in their wake.

"It was nothing we did," Police Chief Reeves Johnson said. "The youngsters were just quiet. I'd like to think the teen-agers here had a change in attitude toward personal property. At any rate, we had no problems at all and the Police Department is proud of its young citizens."

One of the reasons the youngsters were not rampart through the city was the merchant's Halloween party at the Alan B. Shepard Convention Center. Each year this party draws more and more costumed children who would probably be parading the streets and creating havoc if they were not occupied at the Dome with the awarding of prizes and other festivities.

Sponsored by local merchants and the Virginia Beach Volunteer Fire Department, the party is one of the nicest affairs provided children during the entire year. Neither the merchants or firemen or the Fire Department's Ladies Auxiliary receive enough credit for their efforts but when the Police Department reports as little Halloween damage as it did this year perhaps the party sponsors realize what a worthwhile project it is.

MORE SPIRITS

Halloween cut down attendance at the Little Theatre's production of "Blithe Spirit" Tuesday night but the crowd turned out Wednesday.

In perfect keeping with the spooky season, the show really brought out the ghosts and during the final act the spirits went wild—not in the audience, on the stage.

Pictures flew off the walls, dishes fell off the shelves, pillows sailed through the air and the entire stage seemed to go to pieces. It was a mess. Of course it was meant to be a mess and the special effects committee of the Little Theatre is to be congratulated on such a realistic display of spiritualism.

This is the story of near-heartbreak for a young girl who learned first hand how valuable it is to be honest.

Caroline Newman, 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gaither Newman of Ivy Drive, had been saving her errand money for months to buy a parakeet.

Finally Monday afternoon she went to town with her mother and bought the bird. As she sat in the car, filled with the excitement of a youngster with a new pet, she curiously, not cautiously, opened the box to take a peek at her new friend. The parakeet eyed the opening and made a hasty escape out of the car window. The bird perched briefly on an overhead awning but all Caroline's coaxing couldn't lure him back to the box and he flew down the street.

When Mrs. Newman returned to the car from shopping, it was a fearful daughter that greeted her with the sad news. Being an understanding mother, Mrs. Newman returned to the store with Caroline and bought another bird.

As they walked back to the car a young man passed by with a fluttering bird frantically biting his hand.

"There's my bird," Caroline screamed and the young boy returned the parakeet to his happy owner.

Lonnie Comer, a William and Mary student employed late afternoons and evenings at 31st Street News, was the hero of the day.

While waiting on a customer in the magazine and book store he spotted the lost bird near the door. He tried to catch it but it flew across 31st Street and came to rest on a telephone booth on the corner of Atlantic Avenue.

Realizing that the bird had escaped and would die if not captured, Lonnie raced across the street, climbed the telephone booth and grabbed the parakeet.

It's hard to say who was more relieved when the bird was returned to its rightful owner: the bird, who surely would have died out of captivity; Caroline who was broken-hearted over losing her pet; or Lonnie whose hands were being bitten and clawed by the excited bird.

Now the two birds reside in a box labeled "Home of Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Keel" on Ivy Drive. And what are the reactions of the three major characters in this little drama?

"I always wanted two birds anyway," Caroline said.

"He (Lonnie) is the kind of boy who would have returned a wallet full of money as quickly as the parakeet," Mrs. Newman said.

"I was glad to return the bird. He was eating me up," Lonnie said.

T. Cooke School.

Hatchett gave a verbal "blue ribbon" to several groups "who have enriched our community with cultural development, protective services, city beautification and intellectual stimulation."

Included are the new General Hospital of Virginia Beach, the Virginia Beach - Princess Anne Library and its bookmobile, the Virginia Beach Art Assn., the Council of Garden Clubs, the Virginia Beach Little Theatre, the Virginia Beach Rescue Squad, the Volunteer Firemen, the Beach Patrol and "the many civic clubs, organizations and individuals who have contributed to the growth and progress of Virginia Beach."

Hatchett pointed out that "round-the-clock peace of mind" is provided through the protective services of the Police Department, Fire Department, the Rescue Squad and the Mosquito Control Commission.

The city has received two awards for these services — the Governor's Highway Safety Committee award in recognition of outstanding service in highway safety and a commendation from The American Automobile Association for its outstanding record of no pedestrian deaths.

human eye, seeing through the camera how the eye reacts to light.

The firm already has one 1-year contract from a station and as soon as they have a few more they will produce more films.

Until then, the four men are waiting for their dream to become a full-scale reality.

Science Film Venture

VIRGINIA BEACH — A little money, plenty of initiative and a dream has launched our local men into the television field — filming science shows on Videotape.

Involved in the venture are W. V. Vail, of Bay Colony, his brother Dink Vail of Norfolk, Norman W. "Dix" Horton of Virginia Beach and Alvin H. Jacobson of Thoroughgood.

Three pilot films of a 15-minute "Science News Report" have already been completed & aired on WTAR-TV. The audience response has been so enthusiastic that the group have prepared three more scripts for filming and have 25 in the planning stage.

Top Ratings

Aired on Sunday afternoons opposite such youngsters-catching shows as "Topper" and "Jim Bowie," the science show still drew a top Neilson rating for that time slot.

Known as the United Astro Productions, Inc., the film producing firm came into being last winter after its four constituents met in a wind blown street corner and stumbled onto the idea.

Only a few months before the chance meeting, Jacobson's advertising agency had solicited the noted Dr. Roy K. Marshall to film television commercials for Car-Matic Motor and Transmission Exchange Shops, owned by Bill and Dink Vail.

Dr. Marshall, who won national acclaim to his soft-shell commercials on the Ford Hour a few years ago, came to Norfolk from New York to film the Car-Matic commercials.

Commercials Worked

Shown over WAVY-TV, the commercials met with such favorable response that Car-Matic sales jumped 38 per cent the first six months and they opened their fourth Tide-water shop in Newport News.

It was a discussion on the success of this series of commercials that prompted the four men to look into the possibility of a 15-minute program.

Armed only with their dream, the support of a few interested people and very little money, they made a pilot film, narrated by Dr. Marshall produced by Jacobson entitled "A Trip to the Moon." It was previewed at WTAR before a selected audience and enthusiastically received. Stock was sold in the organization giving them enough capital to produce two more films, "Journey to the Center of the Earth" and "Life on Other Planets."

Announcements were sent out to television stations all across the country and the three films were sent for previewing to those requesting them. Again the response was enthusiastic and most of the summer was spent promoting the three pilot shows.

Grasping the idea

After the shows were aired on WTAR-TV the station, Car-Matic and the Jacobson Advertising Agency were deluged with letters praising the films. Teachers wrote in wanting to know when the next shows would be presented so they could inform their classes, students said they enjoyed the shows because they were helpful in their science studies and women with little education background wrote that shows were teaching them science in a language they could understand.

The three scripts ready for production, one is a Christmas film on the scientific explanation of the Star of Bethlehem and another is a study of the

WHY WE CARE — As hair stylists, we are artists—and we wouldn't be in the beauty field if we didn't believe in creating an art form. We accept each customer's individual needs as a new challenge and a new opportunity for us to do our very best. We study carefully to learn how to correct certain tiny flaws in your appearance as we study your hair. This again brings psychology into the field of beauty. If we make you lovelier this will bring you confidence. It will also draw admiration for you and give you a new sense of well being and happiness.

Record Surplus Auction Sales
Set For Norfolk November 16th

NORFOLK — More than $4 million worth of surplus military equipment and supplies will be sold at public auction here Thursday, November 16, at the Golden Triangle Motor Hotel. This is the largest military auction sale ever held in the Norfolk area.

The sale will offer individual buyers and small businessmen hundreds of items from trucks to movie cameras and from boat anchors to bulldozers.

The U.S. Navy Consolidated Surplus Sales Office, Norfolk, is conducting the auction as part of a continuing effort to rapidly dispose of millions of dollars worth of surplus military property. Similar auction sales in other areas of the country have been highly successful, according to Commander R. E. Hazen, Officer in Charge of the Norfolk CSO.

Many of the items are in very good condition. They can be bought for much less than their original cost to the government, past sales indicate.

All items to be sold will be available for inspection 21 days before the sale date at various military installations in Southern Virginia, North Carolina, & West Virginia. Inspection of all equipment, is urged by CSO officials.

Free catalogs detailing all of the items are available upon request. Many of the articles are pictured in the catalog. Color slides of all items will be used to help buyers during the auction.

Bidder registration at the auction will begin at 10 a.m., Wednesday, Nov. 15, the day before the sale at the Golden Triangle Motor Hotel. The auction will begin the following day at 9 a.m. and continue until all items are sold.

By the conclusion of the auction sale, successful bidders must furnish a deposit of 20 per cent of their bid price in cash, certified check, cashier's check or money order. No mail bids will be accepted.

Catalogs may be obtained by writing Officer in Charge, U.S. Navy Consolidated Surplus Sales Office, Department N, Building 224, Naval Supply Center, Norfolk, Va.

K of C Group Sees

The Virginia Beach Knights of Columbus were shown "Rx for Life" by Mr. Joseph Bogdan at their November 1 meeting. This Red Cross film graphically illustrated to the men the urgent need and varied uses of whole blood. The Knights are sponsoring the November 13 visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile to the Alan B. Shepard Convention Center. Donors are urged to join the thousands who have given blood in the past to meet the blood needs of this area. The Bloodmobile visit will be from 12 noon to 6 p.m.

Plans for the K of C Second Annual Fall Dance were also completed. This dance will be held at the Convention Center on Friday, November 17, from 8:30 p.m. to 1:00 a.m. Mr. Frank J. Ferringno and Mr. Ralph DeMarco, the dance committee, announced that tickets had been distributed to all members but that a good supply was still available.

Tickets may be purchased from any Knight of Columbus or the committee members at $2.50 per person, $5.00 a couple. Music for this dance will be provided by Jack O'Neil and His Orchestra, and a surprise entertainment is also being planned.

MRS. HARPER HEADS BABY SITTING AGENCY

VIRGINIA BEACH—There is a new voice behind the well-known Virginia Beach-Princess Anne Baby Sitting Agency these days. It is Mrs. Amy Harper, a doctor's widow and registered nurse, who took over the business October 18 from Mrs. Mabel E. Twiford.

Mrs. Harper bought the business from Mrs. Twiford who decided to retire after nearly five years as "mother's helper".

Mrs. Harper was registered in nursing from Episcopal Hospital in Philadelphia and resided for 35 years in Washington, Pa., where her husband had his practice. She moved here two years ago to make her home with her son, Arthur W. Harper, in Aragona but now makes her home, and her business office, on 24th Street with her daughter, Mary.

Nearly 70 sitters are employed by the agency and serve all parts of the city and county. The office hours are from 9:00 A.M. to 6 P.M. Monday through Saturday.

The agency was organized over eight years ago by Mrs. D. J. Beeler.

Aragona School

PRINCIPAL'S OFFICE IS QUIET DIGNITY

This is sixth in a series of articles to appear each week on the men and women who serve as principals of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County Schools.

By RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS

ARAGONA VILLAGE — To step into the office of Aragona Elementary School Principal E. Lee Land is to step into another world — away from screaming children, hurrying teachers, ringing telephones and the excitement that surrounds all schools during busy hours.

The office is quiet and softly lighted with an atmosphere of serene dignity. The walls are painted a light beige, a deep pile matching rug covers the floor, framed copies of art decorate the walls and the furniture is comfortable modern Danish.

Conference Room. Why did Land choose to decorate the office this way? To accomplish exactly what he has done — create a place of dignity where he can confer with parents and students who are troubled.

"No matter how irate parents may be," he explained, "When they walk into this office they lose some of their anger. They calm down. And we can talk quietly, without unnecessary emotion."

Land is principal of a school located in the heart of the most congested area in Princess Anne County—Aragona Village. Out of necessity the school must serve not only as an educational facility but also as playground, recreation center and social hall.

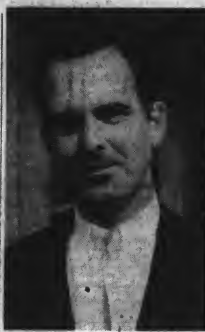

Big Family Because of the position the school holds in the community, Land finds that he often must serve as both mother and father to the 1320 students — a job he frankly admits he enjoys. "Here, in this school, we must instill in youngsters a desire to better themselves. To do this we set high scholastic standards. And I think my office helps them appreciate nicer things."

Having been principal of the school since it was built five years ago, Land has seen the area grow and watched the problems a congested area must inevitably face.

"These are a proud people," he said, "and this community has done an excellent job of working out its problems."

During the first years, the school was caught up in many of the community conflicts and at times the road became pretty rocky.

"The school almost split down the middle a few years ago when a group of parents found we discussed evolution in the classroom. Just because we discussed it didn't mean we were teaching it. But the majority of the parents stood behind us and it worked out all right."

Since Land spends most of his afternoon coaching one of the school's football leagues, this leaves little time to enjoy his own hobbies. But when he does find time he enjoys golf and plays a pretty good game "for a week-end golfer."

Was Minister

Before he went into the education field eight years ago, Land was a minister with a seminary degree in theology and philosophy to his credit.

He gave up the ministry for teaching "because adult minds are already set in what they want to believe . . . young minds are still pliable and receptive to new ideas."

A native of Princess Anne County, Land is the father of two children, Ricky and Sharon, and lives at Virginia Beach. He attended Creeds School, graduated from the University of Virginia and holds a degree in education administration.

TESTIMONIAL DINNER ATTRACTS MORE THAN 100 PERSONS TONIGHT

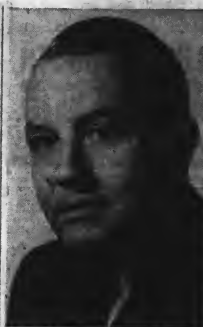

More than 100 friends and neighbors of Sidney Banks are expected to gather this evening (Thursday) at the Princess Anne Country Club in tribute to the popular hotel man, who is credited with the design of the famous first tee of the Princess Anne Country Club golf course.

The testimonial dinner for Banks has been planned and arranged by his close and good friends here. The idea was born several weeks ago when it was learned that Banks had sold his interest here in the Cavalier Hotel and that he would, in the future, devote most of his boundless energies to his Florida holdings.

Sidney S. Kellam, a friend of Banks for many years, will serve as toastmaster, or master of ceremonies, at tonight's dinner. Mrs. Banks will accompany her husband to the dinner and their daughter, Mrs. Heywood Tate, and her husband, are also expected to be in attendance.

Kellam's job as master of ceremonies will be both easy and difficult. It will be easy in that there is so much that can be said of the deeds of Banks. It will be difficult in that with so much material at hand it will not be easy to cover all the good deeds of the man.

For instance, Banks has given his time, energy and money to help such organizations as the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce, the Virginia Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Virginia Travel Council, the State Chamber of Commerce, the Ocean Highway Association, the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce, the Junior Woman's Club of Princess Anne County, the Cape Henry Woman's Club, the Rotary Club, the Kiwanis Club, the Lions Club, the Red Cross, and every garden club in the area. And, there are many others that could be mentioned.

SIDNEY BANKS

Sportsman

Banks financed, promoted and pushed the first major golf and tennis tournaments to be played in Virginia Beach. He also pioneered the development of a golf course. He is credited with the design of the famous first tee of the Princess Anne Country Club golf course.

Kellam may speak of the work Banks has done on the development and improvement of the Ocean Highway Association, or he may speak of Banks' contribution to Virginia Beach in the press and public relations fields.

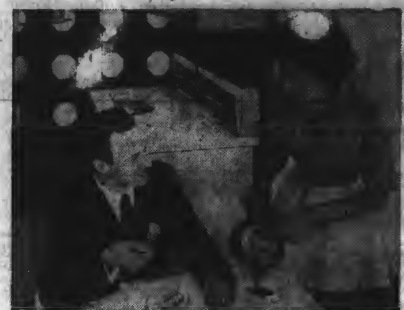

He may refer to the fact that Banks pioneered the promotion of Canadians visiting Virginia Beach. He has been a pioneer and promoter of the first order in many fields.

It is safe to say that if all contributions and good works of Sidney Banks were enumerated it would take much longer than a single evening.

Banks' many friends hope that the testimonial dinner tonight will demonstrate to him, in a small way, the feeling of this community for his many contributions in the past to its progress and development. No one man has done more than has Sidney Banks.

CHESS CLUB MEETING
A Chess Club meeting will be held Thursday, November 9th at 8 p.m. at the Princess Anne Gun Club, Virginia Beach. All those interested bring chess set with them. For further information, call Mrs. Paul Hirtz, 340-0898.

IS YOUR RESPONSIBILITY

THE FIRST RULE OF SAFETY IS...

Slow Down — And Live!

OBEY THE SCHOOL PATROL

2000 MILES OF AMBULANCES [4 ABREAST]

TO TRANSPORT 2,000,000 AUTO VICTIMS

A grim parade, bumper to bumper—and a grim reminder of the colossal toll in injuries charged to recklessness on our highways and city streets. A gruesome addition would be the 45 miles of hearses, four lanes wide, bearing the dead in the wake of the injured.

Look at your watch—every time it ticks off fifteen seconds someone, somewhere is injured. Every fifteen minutes one more life is sacrificed to speed and recklessness.

Late in 1951 the millionth victim was killed in 52 years of recorded highway fatalities. Authorities predict that if the present rapidly growing casualty lists are not curbed a second million will die in half that time.

Is the driving public so calloused to life blood spilled on the highways that it has developed an immunity to sane thinking and acting in this American tragedy? Are you one of those "good drivers" who shrugs off facts and figures and surreptitiously gives the Kiss of Death to those about to die?

Consider carefully—slow down—you may join the big parade sooner than you think.

The MIXING BOWL... IT'S Fun TO COOK

By LUCILE CLARK
SUN-NEWS FOOD EDITOR

For the very latest in food facts and fables... for practical, down-to-earth recipes that please both palate and pocketbook, read the "Mixing Bowl" by Lucille Clark each Thursday in the Sun-News.

This year, 1961, marks the 275th anniversary of the first rice harvest in America. Rice was brought to Charleston in 1686 by Captain John Thurber, a New England brigantine master who was homeward bound from Madagascar. He gave a small bag of rice, about a peck, to Henry Woodward, Carolina's first settler, who was an adventurer, explorer and planter. He found that rice was a natural for the Carolina lowlands. Within 50 years, this first bag of rice seed had firmly established the plantation tradition and way of life in South Carolina. The plantation system was adopted a century later by cotton planters who patterned their agricultural social and economic order after that of the rice planters. South Carolina at one time had 450 rice plantations.

The culture of rice gradually spread westward until in the 1880's it reached Texas and Louisiana. In the early 1900's it spread to Arkansas and Mississippi where the chief domestic rice production of the nation now takes place. The U.S.A. will harvest more than 5½ billion pounds of rice this year... all having its beginning in the little bag of rice seed planted near Charleston in 1686. Rice is America's most useful food.

Along with its great fields of rice, herds of cattle and oil wells, Texas is known for its wonderful hearty cuisine. Here, combining two of the foods for which the state is famous — beef and rice — is Texas Three Ring Rice. It's a complete meal in one dish — a layer of rice, then peas, and next a deliciously seasoned ground beef, all turned out in a bright and pretty ring. A tomato and egg sauce made quickly and easily with a tomato soup base completes the dish. A crisp green salad and plenty of hot coffee complements the meal in the Texas manner.

You know that the people who grow rice are experts at cooking it, too. Their method, which always results in light fluffy, separate grains of rice is as simple as 1-2-1. Combine 1 cup uncooked rice, 2 cups water (or better still bouillon) and 1 teaspoon salt in a saucepan. Bring to a boil. Stir. Cover and simmer over low heat for 14 minutes (without looking).
The rice should be tender and all the liquid absorbed. Then it's ready to use plain — or in any favorite recipe.

Texas Three Ring Rice
2 medium onions, chopped
¼ green pepper, chopped
1 small clove garlic, minced
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1½ pounds ground beef chuck
1 8-ounce can tomato paste
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon chili powder
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 pimiento, cut into strips
2 cups cooked rice
1½ tablespoons melted butter or margarine
1 package frozen peas, cooked
1 10½-ounce can tomato soup, undiluted
2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
Parmesan cheese
Saute onion, green pepper, and garlic in butter until tender.
Add ground beef and cook until brown. Stir in tomato paste and seasonings.

Arrange pimiento strips attractively in the bottom of a 2-quart ring or other mold. Combine rice and melted butter and spoon into mold. Top with cooked peas, then beef mixture.
Press each layer firmly with back of spoon. Set mold in a shallow pan of hot water. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 to 40 minutes. Turn out on plate.
In a small saucepan, heat tomato soup and add hard-cooked eggs. Serve over mold and sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Makes 6 servings.

Be On A Diet And Enjoy It, Too
During the Newspaper Food Editors Conference in Chicago the "Rice Council for Market Development" introduced a new,
Low Cholesterol Menu.*
Here's one—

Stuffed Celery***
Chicken a la King*
Curried Rice*
Green peas and mushrooms*
Spiced peach
Tomato aspic — Low-calorie
Commercial French dressing
Toasted rye rounds
Fruit sherbet
Coffee Tea

You can have your chicken
a la king and your low fat diet, too — that is if you prepare it with a special sauce of chicken broth laced with wine. Put it in a pretty rice ring decorated with servings of peas and mushrooms and you have an ideal main dish.
The rice can be cooked in chicken broth or bouillon, instead of water, which adds wonderful, rich flavor but no calories or fat.

The stuffed celery, spiced peaches, tomato aspic and fruit sherbet which complete the dinner are also low in cholesterol and fat. Unlike so many diet meals, this one's planned for the entire family to enjoy with the Dieter.

tage cheese
2 tablespoons minced green onion

Dash of Tabasco
Salt and pepper to taste
8 (4-inch) pieces of celery

2 cups diced cooked chicken
1 pimiento, cut in strips
½ teaspoon kitchen bouquet
Salt and pepper to taste
Curried Rice

Combine chicken broth, green pepper, celery and onion in a large saucepan. Cook until vegetables are tender.

Blend together dry milk, flour and wine. Stir into hot broth.
Cook and stir until thickened.
Add chicken, pimiento, and seasonings. Heat through. Serve over Curried Rice*. Makes 4 servings.

Curried Rice

2 cups chicken broth
1 cup uncooked rice
2 teaspoons curry powder
1 teaspoon dried minced
onion
1 teaspoon salt
Combine all ingredients in a saucepan. Bring to a boil. Stir.
Cover and cook over low heat until rice is tender and liquid absorbed, about 14 minutes.

Green Peas and Mushrooms
Combine 1 (10-oz.) package frozen peas, 1 (8-oz.) can sliced mushrooms and 1 bouillon cube in a saucepan. Cook until peas are tender. Drain. Makes 4 servings.

Here's another low-caloried

HOMEMAKERS' ITEMS

Americans have become largely a race which eats in the kitchen.

While grandmother might have raised her eyebrows at this informal custom, it has its practical uses.

Gone is the day when every house had a dining room. As family life and activities have changed, meals and their serving have become more informal and varied. According to inclination and spaces available, meals in one home might be served at different times in the kitchen, in the dining room, the living room, the family room, on a porch, or outdoors.

Currently, more family meals are served in kitchens than in any other space in the house, and facilities for kitchen meals, if well-planned, can be helpful and satisfactory.

A few years ago many houses and apartments acquired breakfast nooks or dining alcoves. Unfortunately the old style nook was not very comfortable or easy to use, and its popularity waned. Then breakfast bars and stools became the rage. In some kitchens the breakfast bar can be practical, especially for breakfasts and snacks. But the bar has become a fad with some families rather than a practical space provided for meals.

Many families prefer now to have kitchens planned with a good space allowance for a table and chairs, enough to seat the family and one or two extra people. This is a convenient, comfortable use of space. It is flexible, being adapted to different numbers of people as the occasion demands.

If the kitchen is too small for both adequate work space and comfortable eating space, don't sacrifice the work space. Move meals to some other space nearby. Don't make the mistake of insisting on meals in the kitchen, making it impossible to either work easily or eat comfortably.

There is some revival of interest in providing more houses with separate dining rooms. It's a matter of individual taste. But serving some family meals in the kitchen is a practical custom — if ample space is provided.

ICE CREAM TRENDS

In the eating line, you may be interested to know that the popularity of ice cream has been increasing in the past decade. Consumption of ice cream and other frozen desserts was 17.2 pounds per person in 1950, 18 pounds in 1955 and 18.4 lbs. in 1960.

The most recent survey by the industry showed that 17 million households report serving ice cream every day, and one in three households now has ice cream on hand at all times.

There are numerous reasons for this increasing use of ice cream. As household refrigerators have provided compartments, packaged ice cream is purchased and stored at home like other frozen foods. Ice cream has thus become a ready-to-serve convenience dessert for the home. As a convenience food it appeals to employed homemakers whose numbers have greatly increased in the last 10 years. And the retail price of ice cream, on the average, has dropped so that it has become an even more attractive buy.

Ice cream sales show a shift in buying patterns. Then years ago only 8 percent of all ice cream was sold in prepackaged half gallon containers. Today, more than half of all ice cream sells in these larger packages. Here again the larger frozen storage space in home refrigerators has permitted larger-size purchases of ice cream. This saves shopping time and makes for more convenient use at home. Retail prices of half-gallon containers of ice cream have dropped in the past 10 years—while other food costs have risen about 13 percent.

Just the opposite trend has taken place for hand-packed ice cream in pint and quart containers and ice cream served in cones and dishes. Ten years ago nearly all ice cream went over the counter via the ice cream

Fashion Show Luncheon Next Tuesday At Cavalier Club

VIRGINIA BEACH — Highlight of the November program of club activities for Cavalier members and their guests will be a fashion show luncheon Tuesday at The Cavalier Beach & Cabana Club.

Clothes in a holiday mood by Naivette Shoppe of Virginia Beach and Norfolk will be modeled by Pat Atkinson, Joy Skinner, Pat Jensen and Selma Gulzer. Mrs. Oscar Warner will give the commentary on these glamorous "at home" and party fashions. Shoes ensembled with the clothes will be from Hofheimer's of Virginia Beach.

Keyed to the festive theme of the fashion show will be the decorations in "The Captain's Table" and the "Neptune Room" where the event will be staged. The Cavalier's wintertime program was launched this past weekend with special emphasis on activities for the ladies.

Every Friday during the month of November has been designated as Bridge Day. Contract Bridge instruction will be given gratis from 11:00 to noon by Ellis Butt, an eminent authority and columnist.

From 12:15 to 1:00 P.M. a special luncheon will be served after which members and their guests are invited to play. Mr. Butt will be on hand until 3:00 to answer questions. The club will present a price each Friday during the month to the high scorer.

The Cavalier Beach & Cabana Club is the setting for club activities while the Cavalier proper is closed during the winter months.

Asst. Home Dem. Agent

Modern packaging has been given much publicity during the past few weeks. Size, labeling, and type of packaging — all have come under fire.

All this raises some interesting questions: Just how much are we influenced by the package around something to buy? Is the package important enough to make or break a product in the market place?

A report by a commercial research company throws some light on this subject. The company went to the people themselves—people like you and me—to find out how much the package influences our shopping choices. The answers were revealing.

About one in ten said they switched brands often because of changes in packaging. About seven in ten switched brands occasionally because of some change in package design. Finally, fewer than two in ten claimed they paid no attention to the package as they made a buying choice.

So most of us are influenced to a greater or lesser degree by the package. Package color, design, and size all play a part in helping us choose one brand over another. If a package more pleasing to our eyes comes along, we very well may make a change to that brand.

From all this, it is obvious that packaging is extremely important to a product, especially a new one. Before a product can succeed, we have to try it and the package evidently has much to do with our trying it. After that, the product may succeed on its own but the research indicates the package still is important.

In view of this great power found in packaging and the strong competition among products for our dollars, it would hardly be surprising if some manufacturers were to resort to confusing packaging. It might be more surprising if none did so.

Yet, to adopt the view that all packaging is bad or misleading would be unfortunate. Packages have an important role to play in today's marketing. They protect the product; they make possible easy handling; they provide space to tell us what's inside. The proof of its importance to us is in the influence we say packaging has in our shopping.

Is it a good idea to store hop—go from store to store to stock up on weekend specials? Does it mean savings in the food budget? It is worth the extra time and energy?

Like so many questions that have to do with family money management, questions about the economics of store hopping can't be answered just "yes" or "no." You have to make up your own mind based on your own values.

However, it pays to sit down periodically and re-evaluate your stand on the merits or demerits of store hopping. Perhaps the reasons you decided one way or another have changed. Perhaps your decision should change.

As you evaluate and re-evaluate your decision, a few simple guideposts will help. Each extra shopping stop takes time. It takes longer to park twice than once; it takes longer to travel the aisles of two stores than one; it takes longer to go through two check-outs than one. If you do much store hopping, this can add up to considerable time.

How much can you save in dollars and cents? Let's look at two actual cases. Not long ago, a local store was selling broilers for 28c a pound while other stores in town were selling them for 29c. One lady came in and bought 12 broilers with an average weight of about 3 lbs. each. This was all she bought. Thirty-six pounds of broiler meat times six cents a pound—the savings she made amounted to $2.16. This is a good return for 15-20 minutes of time—over 6.50 per hour.

A second lady also bought meat, and only broiler meat, but she bought only one 3-lb. broiler. She saved 18 cents. She spent 18 cents. She spent 12 minutes in the store. Her return was about 90 cents per hour.

Store hopping can pay or it can be a fairly costly way to save money. Which it is for you depends on how you shop and what value you place on your time.

428-8911*Virginia's Art

By Leslie Cheek, Jr.

Director, Virginia Museum of Fine Arts

The nationally known director of the State Museum describes the great masterpieces of art in the Museum's collection—the cultural heritage of all Virginians. This is one of a series of articles which will appear each week during the Virginia Museum's 25th Birthday year.

The Wise Young Man*"RICHARD BUCKNER BOLLING" BY THOMAS SULLY

When Richard Buckner Bolling of Petersburg was a student at Princeton, he spent what may then have seemed a large sum of money to have his portrait painted by Thomas Sully (1793-1872). To us it seems absurdly small, for it was only $30.00!

We know this because the artist himself kept a record book of his commissions, jotting down the price paid and the dates between the start and finishing of each painting. Since this portrait was painted in two days, Richard Bolling must have it executed during a brief leave from his duties at Princeton.

At the time of this portrait—May 28, 1825 to May 28, 1825—Sully was in Philadelphia, but he had lived and worked in Richmond for several years after 1799. Indeed, the Old Dominion can claim him with special pride, for his training under his brother Lawrence in Richmond enabled him to paint his first portrait in oils in that city in 1801.

Before that he had been trained as a miniature painter. Dissatisfied with his early studies and ambitious for his future, he left Richmond for further study with Gilbert Stuart and eventually went to England where he studied with Benjamin West and Sir Thomas Lawrence.

This energetic little man—his passport of 1837 describes him as five feet six inches high—recorded over 2600 paintings executed throughout his long life. Many of his sitters were so pleased with his work that they came back to him for later portraits.

In many of them his energy shines through, and in many of them he has also caught the character of the sitter to a remarkable degree. This is particularly true of the Bolling portrait, a gift to the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts from Mrs. Richard Walker Bolling, which is full of the dash and excitement of youth as well as being a very full expression of the individual portrayed.

In 1832 Richard Buckner Bolling had himself painted a second time by Sully. This wise young man, having spent his $30.00 so well six years previously was wise enough to sit again to this splendid portrait.

Notes from Your COUNTY AGENT

By E. R. "DICK" COCKRELL, JR.

The grandmother was all aglow one Sunday because her grandchildren were coming for a week's visit with her. To express her delight she put five dollars into the offering plate. The next Sunday, her grandchildren had just life. She put in ten dollars!

Bayville Royal Leslie, registered Guernsey bull, owned by Bayville Farms, Inc., Norfolk, Virginia, has become a Resummarized Sire, according to the American Guernsey Cattle Club. "Leslie," now has 85 daughters with 162 official production records. Their average production is 10,047 pounds of milk and 481 pounds of fat, when converted to a twice-daily milking, 305-day, mature equivalent basis.

This fine Guernsey bull was bred by C. F. Burroughs, Norfolk, Va. This bull's sire was Quail Roost Raymont and its dam was Peg's Nanette's Nancy, that posted an official production record of 13,237 pounds of milk and 681 pounds of fat.

"Leslie," also has had 101 of his registered daughters classified with an average rating of Desirable.

HEPTACHLOR CAN STILL BE USED ON ALFALFA

Heptachlor, effective weapon against the destructive and widespread alfalfa weevil, can still be used on Virginia alfalfa fields this fall.

Acceptance for use of heptachlor at a rate not to exceed one pound per acre up to November 15, to control the weevil in the eastern United States, has been granted by the Federal Registration Branch of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

This extension of the area of acceptance and final date at which application can be made is based on additional information obtained about residue during the past year.

The pre-October 15 application was preferable, but farmers who could not get the heptachlor on by that deadline likely can still get some protection. It is important, to apply the material in time to kill the adult weevils before they deposit eggs. Treatments applied after eggs have been deposited will not prevent infestations of the weevil next spring.

Sprays of heptachlor using the emulsifiable concentrate form are not recommended in Virginia for 1961. Tests designed to more fully evaluate the effectiveness of the spray treatment will be made this year.

The heptachlor application before November 15 will not leave a residue on hay the following spring.

DEMAND CONTINUES GOOD AT FEEDER CALF SALES

Demand for light-weight steer calves continued good as the 1961 fall series of feeder calf sales moved into its third week in Virginia.

K. C. Williamson, beef cattle marketing specialist at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, reports that some of the heavier steer calves, weighing over 450 lbs., were off slightly in price. Steer calves weighing from 300 to 450 pounds were in good demand, with Choice and Good grades bringing $29 to $32 per cwt. Mainly, they were going back to Virginia farms. The heavier steer calves weighing from 450 to 650 pounds went mainly to feed lot operators in the eastern cornbelt area and north to Maryland and Pennsylvania at prices ranging from $25 to $28.

Heifer calves were off slightly in price, averaging from $4 to $5 per cwt. under steer calves. Most Fancy and Choice heifers weighing from 350 to 500 pounds sold from $24 to $25.50 per cwt. Heifers grading Good and weighing from 300 to 500 pounds went to the feed lots at prices from $22.50 to $23.50.

The sales last Wednesday, November 1 at Charlottesville, and Thursday, November 2, at Culpeper, and Friday, November 3, at Staunton were the last of the season.

Last fall, $4,000,000 worth of calves, and $2,500,000 in yearling feeders change hands at the 30 scheduled sales in Virginia. Consignments are accepted only from producers and each sale operates under a definite health plan.

One of the secrets of the success of the Virginia sales is their chronological and geographical arrangements. Buyers can follow the circuit from one sale to the next in most cases with a minimum of time and travel.

FARMERS GET INSTRUCTION FROM VO-AG TEACHERS

Last year 135 groups of young farmers and 218 groups of adult farmers received instruction from teachers of vocational agriculture in Virginia.

More than 8,000 farmers in the state were members of such groups last year. This strongly indicates that Virginia farmers need and want instruction that will help solve their problems.

Farmers in the same community likely have many problems in common. This being the case, it is usually helpful for a farmer to discuss his problems with his neighbors. He should also get information from other available sources.

Vocational agriculture teachers in the state often invite local farmers to help plan and conduct a series of meetings to study farm problems and attempt to find solutions.

What better way is there for farmers to find solutions to problems than to share their experiences, discuss the information their teacher of agriculture is able to provide, and seek solutions together?

When a farmer relates his experiences to neighbors and perhaps shows them the result of a new practice, it helps them decide whether or not to use the practice. Research shows that usually a farmer decides to try a new practice only after seeing it successfully used on the farm of a respected neighbor or relative and talking with the other farmer about it.

By summarizing his records and studying the summary, a farmer may determine those practices that were profitable and those that were not. But after determining his problems, the farmer will often benefit from counseling with his neighbors as to solutions to these problems.

Take Good Care of Equipment

Pamper your irrigation equipment with careful winter storage. Good care and maintenance of irrigation equipment is a "must" for continued usefulness. Take up pipe used for irrigation and stack it neatly in an out-of-the-way location during the winter months. When stacking the pipe, remove the gaskets or seals and store them inside a building. This protects the gaskets from weather and rodents, and permits inspection of each gasket for wear and leaks. All pipe needing repair should be marked or laid aside to be repaired during the winter.

Inspect all sprinkler heads for worn parts. Any sprinkler head which has been used more than five years should be carefully inspected. It's nearing the end of its useful life.

SWINE BRUCELLOSIS IS STILL A DANGER

Swine brucellosis is still around—and costing the swine industry about $10,000,000 each year. The disease can be eradicated; and here, as with other diseases, the best treatment is prevention.

Do not wait until symptoms appear in the herd. Blood test all adult animals regularly. This is the only sure way to determine if infection is present. A Herd is validated brucellosis-free after all animals 6 months of age or older pass two consecutive negative blood tests, 90 days apart. Herds are validated for 12 months and can be re-validated brucellosis-free if the entire herd is blood-tested annually and found to be free.

Buy boars, and other replacement breeding stock, only from validated brucellosis-free herds. If boars must be bought from non-tested herds, blood test all new additions at the time of purchase, and again 30 days later. Keep new hogs isolated until both tests show them to be free of infection. This will provide some protection against introducing the disease in the herd.

No effective treatment for swine affected with brucellosis has been developed. Some antibiotics may lessen the severity of the disease, but they will not cure it, and the cost would be prohibitive. Nor can vaccination be used to prevent brucellosis in swine. Vaccine plays an important part, however, in protecting cattle.

The loss to the swine industry's pocketbook isn't the only factor of concern. Human brucellosis, or undulant fever, is hard to diagnose—especially in mild cases. However, 892 cases were documented in the United States in 1959. Most of them were caused by contact with infected swine. The bacterium causing the disease spreads from one hog to another and from hogs to man. It also spreads from hogs to cattle and then to man. Most human cases of brucellosis come from direct contact with infected hogs at the time of abortion, farrowing, or slaughter.

Proper Housing Important At Lambing Time in Flocks

Proper housing and equipment for sheep at lambing time can make the job easier, cut lamb losses, and increase profits.

Sheep need housing for only a short time during the year, before and after lambing. For this reason, sheepmen sometime during the year, before and after lambing. For this reason, sheepmen sometimes fail to get buildings fixed to be most useful and efficient.

Buildings for sheep need not be fancy or elaborate. The main requirements are that the building keep the sheep dry and out of drafts.

How much space is needed per ewe? Normally about 15 square feet will do. This will also give room for lambing pens to be set up in the building during lambing season.

Housing should be available two weeks to a month before lambing time, depending on the weather. Ewes exposed to cold rains and extreme weather near lambing time may produce dead or weak lambs. It is also important to be sure ewes do not crowd through narrow doors or gates or cross alleys or ditches.

Many lambing difficulties are caused by ewes climbing, jumping, or crowding through such narrow passage ways. Check the sheep barn and correct any conditions that might cause lambing trouble.

Running water is an asset in a sheep barn. A ewe will drink up to 1½ gallons of water a day around lambing time. If clear, fresh water is not available the ewe may not walk any great distance to get it, particularly if there is snow on the ground.

Milk has a high percentage of water and the milk production of the ewe will depend on the amount of water she gets. It is not necessary to warm the water for sheep in the winter, but keep it from freezing.

Fewer lambs will die if the ewes can be housed in small groups, particularly just before lambing. If the flock is large, arrange the barn so ewes can be penned in groups of 20 or less. This will help prevent new lambs from getting run over by other sheep or, in the case of twins, from being mixed up or disowned.

Lambing pens will help save lambs. They should be about five feet square and should be set up in the warmest part of the sheep barn.

Heat lamps for part of the pens can be profitably used on weak or chilled lambs. Put the ewe and her lambs in a pen just as soon as possible after the lambs are born.

A strong single lamb and its mother may not need to stay in pens four or five days.

Arrange the barn so ewes with lambs can be handled and fed separately from ewes that have not lambed. Ewes nursing lambs need considerably more feed, but too much feed, particularly grain, before lambing can be harmful.

Allow plenty of feeder space for sheep, both before and after lambing. Since sheep require only a small amount of feed each day, if ample feeder space is not provided, some sheep will get more feed than they need, while others will get very little or no feed.

Think It's Easy To Build A Temple?

Ask famous author Irving Stone. After two years of living in classical lands, he and Mrs. Stone wanted to live in a temple, so they set out to build one high in Los Angeles' hills of Beverly. It seemed easy enough. They had the land and knew what they wanted, BUT. . . . This month we present the "buns," amusingly remembered by Mr. Stone.

It Costs A Fortune To Be Poor . . . page 14

Once upon a time, the children of millionaires started out on their own with a house, an income, a couple of cars, good jobs, and excellent prospects, and were looked upon as rich young people. Today, though the inventory remains the same, taxes and the cost of living have created a new sort of underprivileged class, the nouveau poor, who are finding barren, indeed, the struggle to make their kinds of ends meet.

Let Shirley Do It

Plant An Indoor Jungle Now . . . page 30

Well, not exactly a jungle, says garden authority Dorothy Jenkins, but a pleasant oasis of lovely foliage against winter's chill. Decorating with house plants that can be beautifully potted in soil or water will add much to the beauty of your house and to the joy of living in it.

Why We Live In A Greek Temple

BY IRVING STONE

Author of "The Agency and the Embassy," "Lost For Life," etc.

This is the house they wanted after studying in Greece and Italy for "The Agony

WHY WOULD ANYONE want to build a house in the hills of Beverly that looked like a Greek temple? Couldn't we be content to build in the style made famous by Southern California: Neo-contractor?

It would be easy enough to say that Jean and I were on a classical kick, because we were. During the two years that we lived in Italy, in Florence, Fiesole, Carrara, Rome, we tracked down all the ancient Roman villas we could find, as far south as Sicily, and spent days in Pompeii, sketching in the ruins of those magnificently modern houses built around sun-splashed atriums. Then, because it would have been impossible to understand the sculpture of Michelangelo without spending months in Greece studying the work of Phidias and Praxiteles, we sailed among the islands, watching the ruins of a majestic temple take shape on the horizon as we neared each new port.

"That's what I want my new house to look like," I would exclaim, "a little Greek temple on the crest of a hill, very severe, very tailored, and very elegant."

That's exactly where we have arrived, five years and too many dollars later. The road has been filled with boulders and booby traps. But let me go back; this is the third house we have built in Southern California. The journey through the first two houses is probably the shortest route to our present Pompeian, Roman, Greek villa which is decked out (no pun intended) like one of the still-standing, gloriously columned temples in Agrigento.

I am a native Californian, brought up among the ugly, narrow wooden houses glued to each other and to the sidewalks of San Francisco. Jean is a New Yorker, though born in Minneapolis. When we bought our first two acres of land on a hilltop in San Fernando Valley, in 1937, I called in my old roommate from the University of California Architectural School, and together we designed a two-story, quasi-modern house. To this day my wife has never forgiven me.

"Why," she keeps demanding, "did we build a two-story house when we had two whole acres to spread out on? Why didn't we build a rambling ranch house, with all doors opening out to the orange orchard?"

That's the kind of question I resent, because there is obviously no logical, or even sensible, answer. Yet it was a lovely house with a redwood paneled library, a lanai, and large upstairs studio. On warm summer nights we sat out under an oak, with friendly lizards scampering across our feet, and watched the valley beneath us with only one small cluster of lights at Van Nuys. When a car moved across a dirt road, it was like watching the prow of a ship plow through a black sea.

I was happy there, tending my orange orchard in the hot sun at noon, between bouts of work.

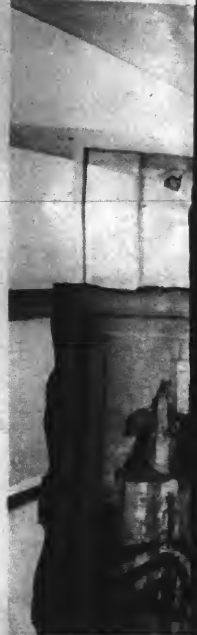

And I think I wrote some of my best books there: "Clarence Darrow for the Defense," "They Also Ran," "Immortal Wife."

Why then did we move? Because our son and daughter were growing up, the public school was meager, and the nearest children lived three miles away. We had to make appointments days in advance, then chauffeur the kids back and forth to each other's homes. Jean said adamantly:

"This is no way to raise youngsters. Either we live on a real ranch and give them animals to raise, or move into town and give them human company. Beverly Hills has the best school system around here. We're going to find a house on the flat, within four blocks of a grammar school—not five!—so the kids can go out the front door with skates or bikes and join a dozen others."

I PROBABLY would have stayed in Encino for the rest of my life, but what husband ever won an argument with a mother who was fighting for the best interests of her children? We bought a huge old Spanish fortress in Beverly Hills, on Maple Drive, with three-foot-thick cement walls and windows just wide enough to shoot an arrow out of.

It was a house in the grand manner, with an open foyer thirty feet high, a mahogany library, three fireplaces, six bedrooms, each with its own dressing room and bath, extremely large, wonderful rooms in which to entertain a hundred guests

the floor or goes to the ceiling, not even the living-room walls. Everything is suspended.*

and The Ecstasy"—very severe, very elegant, very hard to build

for dancing and a buffet supper at midnight.

Why did we ever move again? It got too big. The Cub Scouts and the Brownies had come and gone. My daughter was away at college, my son soon to be ready for the army. That is what is known as the "accordion" cycle of the expanding and contracting family.

I didn't want to sell. I fought like a roped steer.

"After all," I cried, "I've written some of my best books here, 'Adversary in the House,' 'The Passionate Journey,' 'The President's Lady,' 'Love Is Eternal,' 'Men To Match My Mountains.'"

What husband ever won an argument with a wife whose family had come down to honeymoon size? Besides, domestic help was vanishing like morning mist. Also, we wanted to go to Europe to live and to research and write "The Agony and The Ecstasy."

We sold. We moved to Italy. Two and a half years later we were back, but without an inch of land anywhere.

For a year we searched. The pieces we found were either too large or too small, too remote or too close, too expensive or too difficult to turn into building sites.

Then on a crystal clear September day an agent showed my wife an isolated knoll, the last lot in Beverly Hills, with the Los Angeles city line as its rear boundary. There was a level building area of about fourteen hundred square feet, plus a whole useless mountainside running down to the green of a golf course. Jean exclaimed:

"Don't even stop. Turn the car around, and we'll go back for Mr. Stone."

I was in the middle of a sentence, writing a scene in which Michelangelo fled Rome because Pope Julius II had banned him from the Vatican; the Pope's emissaries had just overtaken Michelangelo in Poggibonsi.

"Go away," I growled, for when I am writing an emotional scene I am as congenial as a chained mastiff.

But Jean doesn't scare easily; why should she, when I have picked up her option every February eleventh for twenty-seven years?

"Come along," she said, her eyes sparkling. "We've found your homestead."

SHE HAD. The knoll overlooked all of Southern California. To the west I looked past the campus of U.C.L.A. and Santa Monica, past the ships plowing the Pacific, to the Santa Barbara Islands, fifty miles away. To the east was the Los Angeles City Hall and the San Gabriel range behind it. Straight ahead to the south were Long Beach and the endless miles of Los Angeles extending into the San Bernardino Valley. Behind us rolled ranges of hills and deep green growths of trees that reminded my son of Tuscany. It was the last truly individual knoll left in all the hills, for the other areas had been subdivided into stepping-stone lots, pads they are called out here, and sold at astronomical prices.

With the necessary square footage in which to sink our roots, we now started on another quest: for an architect who could conceive of a Greek temple as a simple, spacious house which would embrace in its plate-glass arms a three-hundred-degree view; and at the same time be warm, personal, functional, give us compact living built around Jean's office, where she edits my books and takes care of all family business, and my own detached studio building.

I suppose we talked to ten architects, and saw a hundred and ten of their houses. Finally, we found Richard Dorman, a young University of Southern California graduate who seemed daring in his use of materials and in creating clean-lined symmetry.

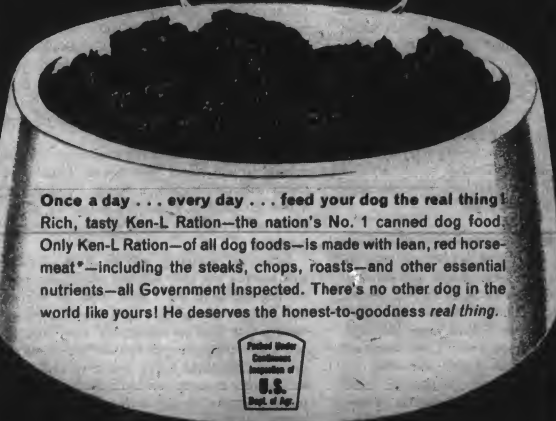

Incubation, gestation, and the birth of plans took another full year. This will sound long, considering that Jean and I knew what we wanted, and Dorman showed great skill in reshaping our ideas to get what he wanted; but every time we had a new chapter to cut and edit, we closed off the phone for three weeks. When we could pick up the receiver again, terribly excited to get back to our plans, we found that Dorman and his associate, Sidney Drasnia, had flown to Seattle to build a Hyatt House at the airport or to Palo Alto

Embarrassing Questions

"Who's Grace?"

"Who crossed off everything over $3.50?"

"How did you ever get the name 'Joy'?"

Almost two million Dauphines ago, in 1956, we introduced the first Dauphine. This month our 1962 Dauphine goes on sale. And although there have been a few changes in the 1962 model, the changes are strictly European Plan: Change a thing to make it better; but don't change just to make it look different. (So we don't spend millions re-tooling but pass the saving on to you with prices now about $200 less than last January.)

Take our 1962 Dauphine Deluxe. It appears to be practically unchanged. Yet it does have some important improvements. For one, the Dauphine Deluxe has all-new, all-vinyl interiors, more comfortable foam-rubber seats, new dip-paint exteriors. Another change? Synchronized first gear. This lets you shift into first without stopping; better in heavy traffic than former Dauphines.

But when you stop to think about it, how are you going to change things like: up to 40 mpg gas economy, 4 doors for easy in and out, and an engine designed to be practically ageless? And looks—well, we conscientiously work at keeping our lilies guiltless.

Finally, because we like to give you your money's worth, we warrant every 1962 Renault car (the Dauphine, the Dauphine Deluxe, the more powerful Dauphine Gordini, and the Caravelle convertible) for 12 months or 12,000 miles. If our Gallic common sense is the sort that appeals to you, come take a look at our new-ish cars. Chances are that they will appeal to you, too. So will the suggested P.O.E. prices—starting from $1395.

"YIELD THIS TELEPHONE—In case of Emergencies!"

This sign, crudely lettered, is posted above a telephone in a mid-western grocery, as the result of a crisis that is brewing on overloaded suburban lines.

The grocer has a "shared" phone, a party wire—one of 10,000,000 in use in the suburbs today. Above each should be placarded a warning just as blunt. For not yielding the telephone in an emergency situation may mean the difference between life and death.

"My husband was dying," sobe a 36-year-old widow, "but the man on our party line wouldn't give up the phone . . . he wouldn't let me call a doctor."

In New Jersey, a father numbly relives the twenty terrible minutes that doomed his infant son. The baby, born with a heart murmur, had suddenly turned blue, but when his father rushed to the telephone, two line sharers—his neighbors—were busy talking.

"I pleaded with them," recalls the anguished father, "I cried, 'please . . . for God's sake, let me get help.' But they ignored me . . . kept right on talking."

The infant died in his young mother's arms.

"Let it burn" chortled a neighbor's boy when a North Carolina homeowner asked for the line to report her house afire. The new redwood ranch house was totally destroyed. Outside Chicago, in Berwyn, Illinois, a "line hog" was blamed for the death of three small boys, trapped in a flaming house.

Spurred by a heavy rash of "party-line" disasters and deaths, 34 states have legislated stiff penalties—up to one year in jail, fines to $1,000—for refusal to yield a party line in emergencies.

"But you can't legislate neighborliness," says a psychologist who has been compiling a grim and growing case history of what he calls "calculousness . . . on America's new frontier of casual and congenial living."

Significantly, he points out, millions of families in rural areas have shared their telephones for years with only minor mishaps and friction (those waggish party-line jokes to the contrary).

"The trouble began," admits a communications expert, "with America's stampede to the suburbs during the last ten years."

New Jersey, for example, didn't feel compelled to legislate party-line courtesy until 1955, Rhode Island's stiff $50-$300 fine or 90 days in jail didn't go on the books until 1958. Not until 1959—after five decades of party-line usage—did Wisconsin crack down. Only this year were

Both cats need a food formulated just for cats

While one cat prefers fish and the other prefers meat, both are cats. And while a cat must have all the basic nutrients, it needs them in quantities different from those required by other animals. That's why a cat needs a food specially formulated for cats.

What of single food ingredients, such as beef liver?

No single food ingredient fills the total food requirement of a cat. While beef liver is high in protein, it is low in calcium. Fresh milk is high in calcium, low in iron. Ground hamburger is high in protein, low in carbohydrates. Chicken is high in niacin, low in calcium. It takes a special combination of ingredients to give your cat the diet it needs.

What of foods prepared for dogs?

Foods prepared for dogs are not the best diet for cats. For cats need certain amounts of the basic nutrients. Cats need more of the B complex vitamins than dogs do. This higher B complex requirement is not fulfilled in most brands of dog food. If your cat likes meat, it needs a meat food formulated just for cats; if your cat likes fish, it needs a fish food formulated just for cats.

What formulation is most desirable for cats?

A cat needs more protein for strong tissue, growth and maintenance. It needs calcium and phosphorus for sturdy bones and teeth; essential fatty acids for glossy fur; minerals such as magnesium; iodine and iron for good blood, nerves and tissue growth. Selected cereals provide nutritional benefits similar to those found in some vegetables.

It is this special combination of ingredients that goes into every can of Fuss 'n Boots cat food, both New Meat Flavor and Original Fish Formula. Continued research at the Fuss 'n Boots laboratories keeps this cat food at the highest quality level, with maximum nutrition and palatability.

Start feeding your cat Fuss 'n Boots cat food today. You'll soon see what a proper diet does for your pet. It will have brighter health, glistening eyes, sleeker fur. A friendlier and livelier disposition, too.

"no-yield" laws tossed into the legislative hoppers in Florida, Texas, and Alabama.

Although the trend toward single-party service is sharply upwards (58% of all U.S. home phones are one-party, compared to only 20% in 1948), the big Bell System alone reports it has in use nearly 12.5 million 2- to 4-party (and more) residential "shared phones." And the majority now serve our suburbs.

One telephone executive believes party-line abuses stem in large part from the phenomenon of party lines themselves—an oddity to many a suburban newcomer.

A subscriber agrees. "I used to figure party lines were dead as dodos," he said. "Maybe a few scattered farm families still had them, but that was all. Then we bought our place and moved out of the city and found ourselves sharing a line with four neighbors. It was quite a shock."

Unlike the more than 1,800,000 rural households who still share their phones, the new suburban subscriber probably doesn't know his fellow line users.

Most farm families, on the other hand, know their line sharers intimately. They probably attend the same church. Their children go to the same school. The drought or crop-price fluctuation that affects one affects them all. Not many farm wives balk at relinquishing the line when a neighbor announces, "My barn's afire!"

Nor would rural sharers break faith with their neighbors by falsely crying "fire" just to commandeer the line.

Cry "emergency" when there isn't one, and you're as guilty as the line hog. Nearly all the recent "no yield" state laws penalize one misdeed as heavily as the other.

YOUR STATE's party-line law is printed in your phone book. Typical is Arizona's, which reads:

"WARNING: It is unlawful for any person willfully to refuse to yield or surrender the use of a party line to another person for the purpose of permitting such other person to report a fire or summon police, medical or other aid in case of emergency. Likewise, it is unlawful for any person to ask for or request the use of a party line on pretense that an emergency exists knowing that no emergency in fact exists."

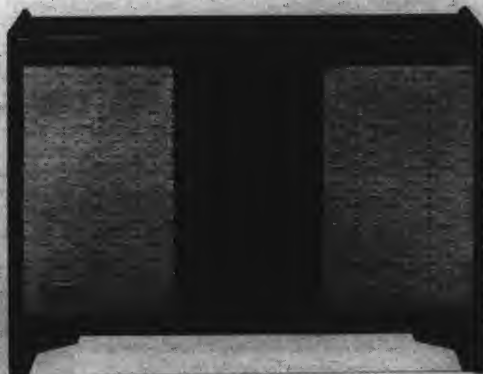

One of the great reasons for moving to the suburbs is the very natural desire to get away from the indifference of the city, the callous disregard for the other fellow, but some of the newcomers seem to have brought city habits with them. As an example, a police chief cites the "line hog" who, finally surrendering to pleas for a doctor, broke off his conversation—but maliciously left his phone off the hook, blocking the line. Because he did, the police reported, a heart victim died.

A few months later in Manorville, Long Island, a woman suffered through childbirth unattended by a doctor while her husband vainly pleaded with one of six parties on his line to let him call an ambulance. But the woman only laughed.

Can't the guilty be brought to justice under the new "get-tough laws" that are on the books of more than 60% of our states?

They can, and occasionally, are. But often, especially when a phone is shared by as many as six neighbors, it's difficult to fix blame enough to bring a court conviction.

Only in December, 1960, in fact, was the case of a convicted "line hog"—and the law under which she was fined $210—tested before the New Jersey Supreme Court. The Court affirmed two lower-court convictions of a Millburn, N.J., housewife who, despite a doctor's pleading, refused to give up the line so he could summon an ambulance for a heart patient.

AS THE DOCTOR later reported to the police, the conversation went something like this:

Doctor (breaking into the party-line chatter): "I'm a physician at a patient's home, and I must get an ambulance immediately. Please let me use the phone."

Lady, irritated: "Well, who are you?"

Doctor: "I'm Dr. B. of Newark."

Lady: "Well, what are you doing here in Millburn?"

Doctor: "I happen to have a patient here, and I wish desperately that you'd please get off the phone."

Lady: "Well, Dr. B., we never heard of you . . . and you can go to hell."

Doctor: "Now, listen, this is no joke. This is an emergency. I've never heard of people so lacking in conscience. Isn't there one of you there who has his reason?"

Lady: "Well, listen to you. You're a foxy one . . . and we're not going to get off the phone."

Only when the doctor shouted to the victim's daughter to run next door and call the police did the gabbers click down their receivers.

Outside St. Paul, Minnesota, two neighbors refused to get off their party line to let another sharer report a fire. Later that week this editorial appeared in a St. Paul paper: "Thursday, three young children died as the result of a fire in their Lexington village home. Whether they would have been saved had the fire department been reached immediately is an unanswerable question. But the fact remains the mother of the children could not get the phone line to make the fire call. Two of her neighbors apparently didn't believe there was any emergency. . . ."

Reasonable—or more likely, unreasonable—doubt has no place on a party line. An emergency is an emergency till it's proved otherwise, and 34 laws, not to mention decency, require the telephone to be yielded.

Knowledgeable people

ALAS FOR THE NOUVEAU POOR

BY PEGGY CLIFFORD

ILLUSTRATIONS BY CHARLES Saxon

The shock is greater when the children of the rich start off on their own—far less—than they had at home

CALL THEM THE NOUVEAU POOR—they are a rapidly enlarging class in this country, mostly young people, who suddenly find themselves starting out in life with a lot less money than they are accustomed to and not knowing how to behave. They are the children and grandchildren of "good families" who began adult life not only with less money than their parents had at the same juncture but less money than they themselves had access to, directly or indirectly, when they were growing up. The shock is fierce.

As children, the nouveau poor went to the best schools, had lessons in all of the proper arts, including dancing, and lived an altogether special life. They spent their summers in Maine and their winter vacations in Florida, and in between they went to Europe.

A typical young man of this class graduated from college with an interesting major in Greek behind him, a growing devotion to Impressionistic art, a love for fine wines, a solid background in sailing, and no preparation at all for the sternest fact in his life. He is poor and will be poor for a long time. Money, real money, is as far away as his eventual rise to the top in his line of work and/or a death in the family, resulting in his inheritance of a proper portion of the family fortune. The contrast with what he has known till now is confusing, the atmosphere foreign, and the prospects frightening.

His next step is to get a job, commensurate in stature and future, but not in salary, to his background. After that, he either gets married to a nouveau poor female, of whom there are lately vast numbers, or he finds a bachelor apartment for himself. Only if he is very undone on discovering his true and low status in this world will he continue to live with his parents. Living at home doesn't alter the condition, but it does make the rub less apparent . . . at least to outsiders.

If he takes an apartment, life can become a run of college days, complete with roommates and rollickous times, the joy of which is only somewhat dimmed by paying attention to office hours. But the charms of this life are narrow, at best, and so he usually gets married sooner than later, which only serves to multiply the poverty with the bliss.

TAKE, FOR EXAMPLE, Sally and Dickie Blair of Shippens Bridge, Pennsylvania, which is near Philadelphia where they were both born. Dickie's entire name is Richardson Westworth Blair, IV. He went to private schools in Philadelphia, St. Paul's Academy, Harvard University, took a law degree at the University of Pennsylvania, and is presently employed at Stuyvesant, Steele, Pierce, Clark and Blair. The male Blairs have always been lawyers. As anyone can plainly see, there's nothing the matter with Dickie. He simply hasn't got any money.

Sally is really Sarah Tyler Townsend. Her father is the ranking partner in Townsend, Rutledge, Stevens, Morgan, Osborne and Jones, brokers. She also attended private schools in Philadelphia, had two years of school in France, and returned to become the best center-forward the Ethel Walker hockey team ever had. She finished up at Vassar. While Dickie was at law school, Sally worked part-time as a receptionist in her father's office, where she encountered numerous difficulties with the switchboard owing to lack of experience. She lived at home, became a provisional member of the Junior League, and served on three horse-show committees. Now that she and Dickie are married, she has no money either.

It did not occur, even for a trice, to the young Blairs to move to any one of the numerous attractive, if colorless, developments around Philadelphia. Instead, they chose a barn in Shippens Bridge, 45 minutes from downtown Philadelphia. Like most barns within commuting distance of the city, it had already been converted into a house when Dickie's father made the down payment on it. It is furnished with a few old things which were given to them and some contemporary pieces which they bought themselves.

As in most nouveau poor houses, the entire inside is painted white, a number of the less-than-distinguished old pieces are painted flat black (and waxed), and dabs of red and blue here and there add "warmth." There are uncountable heating prints adorning the walls, and a goodly amount of silver is spread about at all times. Sally polishes it all herself and says that she enjoys it.

The only things lacking are laundry facilities and a shower in the upstairs bathroom. Dickie is a great man for showers so he is having one installed, but after a few disastrous forays at college Sally detests ironing, and so they use the costly facilities of the local laundry—wash, iron, and deliver.

Since the Blairs live so far from shopping and business areas, they need two cars. Luckily, each came to their marriage with an unencumbered car. Dickie has a sports car and Sally a convertible, which they plan to trade in on a station wagon, since they live in the heart of the station-wagon country. And they are poor!

Each of them is given an allowance of $100 a month. Dickie's salary at the moment is $350, because Stuyvesant, etc., like all law firms, is conservative even about its own offspring. Thus, their total monthly income is $750, which is reduced to approximately $610 after taxes and Blue Cross, the all-inclusive plan, which they have wisely signed up for. They pay $80 a month on the mortgage on their barn and rightfully consider themselves lucky to have it on such reasonable terms. The Blairs pay about $20 a month for insurance on their house and cars. What with cold winters and inadequate insulation in the barn, heat, the other utilities, including telephone, and general upkeep cost an average of $80 a month. Real-estate taxes, which are abnormally low in Shippens Bridge, eliminate another $40 a month. Both cars are completely paid for, but gas, oil, and maintenance cost $60 a month. The Blairs' balance is suddenly down to $320 and, at this point, they are merely existing in a warm, somewhat paid for and protected furnished shell, with telephone and transportation, but not much else that's either cheerful or diverting.

Because lawyers and lawyers' wives must be neat and presentable, the Blairs spend an average of $50 a month on clothes and drop another $40 for laundry and cleaning. Counting heavily on a constant stream of invitations, Sally keeps the food bill down to $100 a month. However, the third member of the Blair ménage, hitherto unmentioned, is a Great Dane named Cleo who eats up another $20 a month, and she is pregnant. Both Blairs have always been popular amongst younger Philadelphians and, thus, entertain quite frequently. Their liquor bill averages $30 a month. They now have a net balance of $60. Membership dues in two clubs (one tennis and swimming and one hunt) takes away another $30. A part-time cleaning lady who comes in one day a week at $11 per day takes home $44 per month, and the Blairs are now $2 in the red. In this heady era when nearly everyone lives beyond his means, they might be congratulated for so slight a debt as $2, which they can surely find somewhere.

However, not included in the Blairs' almost paid-for scheme of living as outlined above are the following: movies, books, magazines or cultural events of any sort, vacations, furniture, linens or any improvements for the barn, cigarettes, medical and dental expenses, charities, Dickie's daily expenses in the city, life insurance, hairdresser and barber, presents for anyone and, finally, that strange maw where money always disappears, which is regularly called "miscellaneous."

Conceivably, they could give up all culture, including the simpler sorts like reading and listening to records at home, cigarettes, vacations, presents, and miscellaneous, still all improvements, and turn their backs on worthy causes. Nonetheless, Dickie, whose hair is getting longer and longer from foregoing haircuts, is getting thinner and thinner from skipping lunch in the city. Sally's "pageboy" is getting a bit raggedy, too. And what to do?

They cannot temper their way of living because it is the only way they know. Their club memberships, for instance, are an integral part of their lives and always have been. Both Sally and Dickie count on their club time. It's part of the pattern that makes their life. Their divorces cost more than most people's, but they always did. Only, until they were grown and out, they never had to pick up the tabs themselves, and now it's too late for them to learn to be satisfied by cheaper pleasures. And they are not strong enough, anyway, to change modes in midstream. They are stuck with their inability to afford what they need and the nonadaptability of the situation.

"After all," as Sally says often, "we can't shoot Cleo when she's pregnant."

Which came first, Gordon's or the Martini?

When Alexander Gordon introduced his gin to London in 1769, the martini had not yet been invented. So when the martini finally did arrive—around 1850—it had ready access to Gordon's remarkable dryness and flavour, and the martini's success was thus assured. Tonight, when you ask for a Gordon's martini, you'll be glad to know the gin harks back to Alexander Gordon's original formula. Why should we tamper with a good thing, especially when it's the world's biggest seller.

SHIRLEY BOOTH

Does It Herself

Sometimes, says the celebrated actress, it's the only way to get things done BY PAT MULLEN

YOU WOULD PASS SHIRLEY BOOTH on the street without looking twice. If you saw her at a party, she'd be sitting so quietly in a corner you'd take her for someone else, someone you might have met somewhere but couldn't quite place. And if you stood behind her chair and listened—while the room buzzed with show-business name-dropping—her conversation might be about the care and feeding of temperamental poodles (she has two) or on how to make needle-point cushions, or she might even be giving a fascinated listener advice on how to remove stubborn wallpaper from over the fireplace. For these are all matters of great importance to the actress who has won every important award in the theatre.

A modest, unassuming little woman (five foot three), it is hard to imagine her doing anything more energetic than presiding over an elegant tea party. But Shirley Booth can out-perform the chameleon in taking on the coloring of her immediate surroundings.

"I can't resist sweets," says the celebrated actress, "especially fudge and rich desserts, and that puts on the pounds. But I can lose weight easily because I'm a do-it-yourself fan—with the toolbox. It's a good thing I'm handy—otherwise a lot of chores simply wouldn't get done.

"If you could see me in my Cape Cod cottage you'd know what I mean. I live in a rather small house, and it's over a hundred years old. Up there in Chatham it's very hard to get help, and over the years, through sheer necessity, I've acquired skills that the average woman—and the average man—simply does not have. I can handle a hammer and saw like a carpenter. I learned to do my own wallpapering during the war years because I had to, and now it's one of my favorite hobbies. I fixed a screen door last summer that lets my poodles out and keeps my parents in, and it's the talk of the entire neighborhood."

"SHE is the least attitudinous person I have ever known," says her longtime friend, Ralph Bellamy, "but under that gentle exterior lies a tenacity to succeed in every role she plays that is equalled only by her tremendous love for the theatre."

Her real name is Thelma Ford, and she says that life began for her at age twelve when she got a walk-on part in a traveling stock company.

parents the good news, but my father absolutely refused to let me have anything to do with the theatre or to use his name. Luckily, my mother approved, so I changed my name to Shirley Booth and carried on anyway, in secret. My father, who was sales manager of IBM, took us all over the country in his travels, and I'd have to leave jobs whenever he made the move. One advantage was that it gave me good-company experience I couldn't have got any other way. Each town we landed in seemed to have a stock company playing, or one scheduled. I took whatever they gave me from acting to painting the scenery—as long as it was connected with the theatre. That was the only life for me."

After several years of playing bit parts, Shirley Booth and her family came back to New York once more. She tried out for, and won, the part of the ingénue in "Hell's Bells." She was eighteen years old, and it was her first Broadway show. Her leading man was Humphrey Bogart.

"The next turning point in my life was when I met and married Ed Gardner. Together we wrote, produced, directed, and acted in 'Duffy's Tavern,' a ten-year success on radio. When the doors finally closed on 'Duffy' in 1942, I turned back to the Broadway stage and left it only to do an occasional movie."

Sorrow and misfortune did not pass Shirley Booth by. Like everyone else, she has had her share. Craving more quiet in her personal life after the hectic pace of the long-run radio show, she and Ed Gardner disagreed to the point of divorce shortly after "Duffy's Tavern."

A few years later, she married William H. Baker, an investment broker. They lived in complete harmony on their farm in Bucks County, sharing a happiness neither had known before. Then, in 1951, a few days before she was to open in "By The Beautiful Sea," William Baker, the love of her life, died of a heart attack. She has never married again.

GRADUALLY, she picked up the pieces and threw herself into her work, accepting parts at the insistence of her friends. Her greatest triumphs were still ahead of her. Hollywood's "Academy Award" and Broadway's "Critics Award" have since made her the most sought-after actress in the theatre today.

Is Shirley Booth a comedienne? A dramatic actress? A singer, or a player of character parts? Other performers answer that she can do anything, like the famous maid, "Hazel," whose part she plays now in the weekly TV series. "Hazel is a do-it-yourself fan like me," says Miss Booth, "and though she can change a tire and manage a bowling team without batting an eye, and I'm only learning. I understand her problems from my own experience. I don't remember when I've had so much fun as in this series."

bringing up baby*

Hints collected
by Mrs. Dan Gerber,
Mother of 5

A happy baby is a baby beloved. But baby's inner security stems from knowing he is loved. And the ways you can tell him are wonderful, indeed: by the croon of your voice when you speak to him... your thistledown touch when you care for him. A cradled arm offered... a cry for help answered. Mother love may not show up in inches and ounces but it certainly makes a baby grow inside.

A happy association with food and feeding also contributes to baby's sense of security. (Forcing or impatience on your part may cause unnecessary fears and even a distaste for food.) If mealtimes are kept pleasant and relaxed, baby will soon learn that food is something to look forward to.

Mealtime satisfaction guaranteed when you serve Gerber Strained Foods. For they're specially prepared to make baby want to beckon for seconds. Flavors are naturally good... the texture ever so nice to the tongue. In fact, they're so good baby will enjoy getting the many different nutrients he needs from the many different varieties Gerber offers. Over 50 choices—each of which makes a specific nutritional contribution.

Super supper suggestion: Gerber Creamed Cottage Cheese with Pineapple, served with Gerber Sweet Potatoes and a Gerber Fruit Just as luscious for lunch.

The experts say: physical well-being goes hand in hand with a sense of security. Happy is the baby who reaps all the benefits of adequate exercise, sweet sleep and a nutritionally sound diet. Makes sense, too. Babies with vim 'n' vigor are less apt to be fussy... more apt to take new challenges in stride.

Something scrumptious in the way of eating enjoyment: Gerber Strained Egg Yolks. Sunny in color, creamy in texture, they're delicious as can be. Nutritionally, they're high in protein... rich in vitamin A and iron.

Have you thought of using Gerber Egg Yolks to brighten baby's green vegetables or enliven his cereal?

Important: Gerber prepares over 100 baby foods: cereals, strained and junior, to meet your baby's nutritional needs. We're proud to say:

to build the Caravan Inn.

Our biggest problem was that we ran out of flat land. After we had faced our house entirely south (from our bed we watch the million lights come on in Southern California and the continuous stream of planes landing and taking off at the airport), we had to cantilever my studio over the side of the mountain. I am writing these lines behind an enormously heavy four-by-six-foot walnut desk with nothing under me but hundreds of feet of space. When I asked Dorman what I should do if my studio fell off the cliff, he replied:

"Take out a lifetime membership in the Million Mile Flight Club."

Ground was broken in mid-November, while Jean and I were in New York reading galleys on "The Agony and The Ecstasy." The early months of building were quite pleasant. At that point the mistakes don't show. We had expert crews of rough framers and plasterers. Plumbers and electricians, however, have always been our nemesis. While the house on Maple Drive was under construction I found a huge plumber sitting on the floor of my bathroom, his back against my tall electric heater, puffing on a fat Havana cigar. When I asked him what was going on, he replied:

"This is my midmorning cigar break."

OUR BIGGEST building headaches have always come because the workmen refused to read, or believe, the blueprints. As early as our Encino house we had seen the carpenters look at the plan which showed no header dividing the hall and living-room ceiling, heard them murmur, "Somebody forgot it!" and proceed to improvise an arched division.

Here on the hill halfway between Beverly and heaven, nothing reaches the floor or goes to the ceiling, not the kitchen cabinets, nor dressing-room closets, nor living-room walls. Everything is suspended. Time after time, we found the seven-foot walls, which separate the entrance hall and living room, blocked-in clear to the ceiling . . . on the theory that somebody, the architect or blueprinter, had goofed.

On this count it would not be fair to say that our house was built. It was rebuilt. Like some of my manuscripts, which are revised six times before they go to press, certain parts of our house were done over six times in order to accomplish what the blueprint had specified in the first place.

Now, our totally modern house is finished. Yet on the kitchen breakfast counter are five type-written sheets with lists of tasks to be completed: Carpenter, the bar doors don't slide. Sheet Metal, the fan area over the stove needs lining. Floormen, the vinyl is coming up under the cabinets. Plasterer, you neglected the heater closet. Painter, catch the front door where the shower-door men nicked it. Electrician, where is the toaster outlet? . . .

We have no furniture, only a bed, a card table and a redwood rocker. But every time I drive up the hill and see perched on the crest the rows of pure white columns or swim in my white-tiled Roman-bath pool, I am happy.

THE LITTLE TEMPLE, designed on a seven-foot module, is tranquil and ageless. Everything within and without is perfectly balanced. There are no angles, curves, nooks, jutting; no ornamentation per se, nothing that doesn't belong, organically. The true pitch of the design is music. People who come into our tempietto, anxious or harried, are soon quieted. They have succumbed to the effect of a work of art; a modern structure designed on the classical foundation of Greece and Rome.

Here I shall stay and write my books, the next about a fabulous woman and her family during the American Revolutionary War, then one about a European doctor, then one about a Greek explorer. We shall leave our house often, to travel and research. But we will always return.

Or will we? On our twenty-seventh anniversary our friend Robert Nathan wrote us a poem, which he called "To Irving and Jean." These are the last lines:

*And being married twenty-seven
May they, like Gods, inhabit still
Their shrine on that Olympian hill

Grown in soil or water, hardy foliage plants add to

"SOMEHOW, WHEN YOU COME into our living room, your eye goes right to the piano and the wall behind it," a young housewife said to me this fall, "and nothing ever looked right in the space till I had the idea of literally hanging a burst of big, bright foliage plants on that stretch of white plaster. I never realized what a difference a few green things could make in a room."

She is not alone in her discovery. Thousands of other families are learning that house plants can bring new beauty and interest into a room and add a great deal of enjoyment to everyday living.

Those who have purchased wisely in past autumns will find they have a nucleus for fresh decorating. Rearranging old plants that still look green and healthy is a far easier way to change the appearance of a room than shifting furniture (less hazardous to ankles and shins, too).

The big, bold foliage plants require least care and are longest lived. Of course, you can find all sizes of plants, with those that fit in three-inch pots the most numerous. The large ones that can't be squeezed into anything smaller than a twelve-inch tub sometimes substitute for furniture.

The tiled entrance hall of a Texas millionaire's house, for example, has no chairs, no table for telephone, calling cards or schoolbooks, no umbrella stand. The only furnishings are plants—and what a welcome they give! In the corner opposite the main door, they have been arranged in a curving bay which is edged with bricks high enough to conceal the clay flower pots. (The floor is lined with copper to protect the surface.) Further down the hall, the entrance to the living room is flanked with planters made of teak and cane displaying dieffenbachia, nephthytis, and ferns. Today's popular foliage plants don't need sun, and many of them thrive without the direct light from a window.

To gain confidence in decorating with house plants, try one plant in its pot plus the saucer that goes underneath, so furniture won't be marred. No one can go wrong on a philodendron or a bromeliad. Philodendrons are the foliage plants with leaves in diverse shapes and sizes (three inches to almost three feet). A spiky bromeliad may be more fun to own, particularly if it's an aechmea or a vriesia.

Bromeliads flourish no matter how high the temperature, how dry the air, or how little sun in the room. There's no question about how much or how often to water because the leaves form a cup which must not be left empty (fill with water on an average of once a week).

A bromeliad's foliage is richly colored and perhaps striped or mottled in other colors. The single flower spike will be vivid and won't look like any other flowers you've seen before (the vrisias are commonly called "flaming swords"). Best of all, because the leaves hold water, cut flowers from the florist shop can be arranged in the plant for parties or other special occasions.

All the advantages of a single bromeliad plant are found in a water garden, which is interesting to make yourself. If the container is only a four-inch wide compote, it will accommodate only one philodendron. A larger container will hold two-to-a-dozen plants, yet be no more trouble than the Chinese evergreens so often tritely placed in a potter's brick.

The people who have experimented with water gardens say that foliage plants are more satisfactory than flowering ones. The selection starts with the vines or trailing plants such as pothos, cissus, grape ivy, creeping fig, and tradescantia and goes on to tall, erect plants such as dracaena, dieffenbachia, nephthytis and philodendron in variety, fatholodera, podocarpus and so on. Plants grow more slowly in water than in soil, which practically guarantees that the garden won't have to be replanted for a full year and also will be satisfactory in a location where light is poor.

The container for a water garden may be a decorative one of any material, so long as it is shallow. Select as many house plants in appropriate sizes as you think are needed. You'll also need a supply of pin holders such as are used to arrange cut flowers, floral clay to fasten the holders to the bottom, and some charcoal pellets.

Start by taking plants from their pots, shaking off as much soil as possible, and then holding roots under running water until they're washed clean. A pin holder will hold one plant, roots and top, exactly where you want it to stand. By spacing pin holders in the container, tall and low plants can be grouped effectively. When you've decided on the arrangement, cover the bottom of the pin holders with clay and press them into the container. Do this before water is placed in it.

Not more than three inches of water should cover the roots of the plants. In some containers two inches will be maximum. Roots should be just covered with water, not swimming in it. Charcoal pellets keep the water sweet so that all you need to do is to add more water as it evaporates.

If neither water gardens nor bromeliads or philodendrons appeal to you, dozens of other foliage plants can be expected to look well indoors from fall until next May or June. Vines can be allowed to grow downward, if that is their bent, in a hanging container, or they can be trained upward on bark or totem poles (wire cylinders stuffed with sphagnum moss).

Flowering plants are more satisfactory as seasonal accents. Potted chrysanthemums in the market now should last three or four weeks, especially if you buy one with more buds than flowers. The Christmas poinsettia should be colorful for several weeks if no draft hits it. Flowering plants, incidentally, last longer if they don't stand in direct sunlight once buds start to open.

Don't be any more afraid to mix containers than you are to mix plants. An octagonal cement container for a four-foot dracaena, brass containers for a dieffenbachia, schefflera, and aralia, a footed iron urn for an orange tree are surprisingly harmonious at one end of a long living room. Containers for one or several plants may be trees and poles made of metal in various finishes, trays for the floor in front of a picture window, shelves of wood or glass, brackets suitable for period or modern homes. Hanging containers range from the plain porch basket of wire lined with moss to huge wicker bird cages from the orient.

The person who doesn't know an African violet from a geranium can be as successful as the one who can ask for the fascinating, modern foliage plants by their jawbreaking names. It's hard to go wrong on any foliage plants available in florist shop, supermarket, or variety store. If they look well in these stores, they will look better at home, for you can give a foliage plant more care than the shopkeeper does.

Convention Report Lists New Meetings; Revenue Increasing

Three new conventions have been sold for the Alan B. Shepard Convention Center here, according to a report released this week by William B. Lillyman, director of convention sales for Virginia Beach.

In a news letter sent out this week Lillyman reports that two state conventions and one national meeting have been booked for the Alan Shepard Center.

The state conventions listed are the Virginia State Citizens Radio Band Association for August 24-25, 1962, and the Virginia Hospital Association for November, 1963. The band group lists a membership of 775 and the hospital association has 500 members.

Superior Courts, Incorporated, is the national convention attracted by the Virginia Beach Center. This group will meet here in October or November of 1963 and is expected to have 1,000 delegates.

In his newsletter, Lillyman gave credit to local residents in helping to attract these new meetings. Hyman Harris was mentioned in connection with the band group. Miss Harriet Allstock helped attract the hospital meeting, and William J. Dekker participated in "selling" Superior Courts.

Revenue Rises
Lillyman also reported in the monthly newsletter that revenue had the Alan Shepard Center on the rise. He reports more than $8,000 income during the past two and one-half months which, he states, is exactly half of all revenue collected during all of the previous year.

In the letter Lillyman thanked Bruce Parlette, retiring president of the Virginia Beach Hotel, Motel and Cottage Association, for his aid and advice during the past year. At the same time Lillyman offered best wishes to Parlette's successor, Charles Gardner, who was recently installed as president of the hotel group.

UNITED THANKSGIVING SERVICE AT V.B. CHAPEL

The Rev. Richard Woodward, president of the Virginia Beach Ministerial Association, announced today the annual united Thanksgiving service this year will be held at the Virginia Beach Community Chapel on Laskin Rd., across from the Olympia Athletic & Health Club. Service will be at 10 a.m.

Speaker will be the Rev. John Keiser, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd.

Participating churches are Galilee Episcopal Church, Virginia Beach Methodist Church, First Presbyterian Church, First Baptist Church, Friends Meeting, St. Mark A.M.E., Mt. Olive Baptist Church and the Virginia Beach Community Chapel.

MAJOR PROVISIONS OF MERGER AGREEMENT AND PROPOSED CHARTER

NAME: City of Virginia Beach

EFFECTIVE DATE: January 1, 1963

SEAT OF GOVERNMENT: Princess Anne Court House

GOVERNMENT: Council-Manager

BOROUGH SYSTEM: Seven boroughs, namely, Virginia Beach, Princess Anne (formerly Seaboard District), Kempville, Lynnhaven, Bayside, Pungo and Blackwater.

Merger Group Opens Office

Backers of the consolidation of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County have opened an information office in Virginia Beach which is expected to serve as a headquarters much like previous political campaigns.

Ivan D. Mapp, county commissioner of the revenue, is chairman of the steering committee for the merger campaign. The committee is composed of all constitutional officers of the city and county.

The campaign headquarters is located at the corner of 19th street and Arctic avenue. It will be open each day and is expected to be manned during the day.

It is expected that the office will line up speakers and maintain a speakers bureau for any interested groups in Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County.

News Digest

BAYSIDE — A number of Chesapeake Beach residents are concerned about street changes proposed when the south approach road to the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel slices through their community.

But about a dozen homeowners who attended a Princess Anne County Planning Commission hearing on proposed road closings Monday did not raise any objections.

They did ask a lot of questions. Leon R. Johnson, chief engineer for the Bridge-Tunnel Commission, gave some answers. Thomas Adams, chairman of the Planning Commission, said the street closing request will be turned over to a special committee, which will meet with all parties concerned. He said he wants to be sure everyone clearly understands what is planned.

PRINCESS ANNE — Lt. Gov. Elect Mills E. Godwin was among state and local officials attending dedication ceremonies of Princess Anne County Court Monday.

The ceremonies marked the second new court to open in the county this year. Godwin said the building was "one of the finest I've seen anywhere in the state. I've been in many courts throughout the Commonwealth, and this court is good enough for anyone to be tried in for anything."

Judge J. Davis Reed accepted the court over which he will preside.

Circuit Court Judges Robert S. Wahab and Richard B. Kellam participated in the ceremonies.

PRINCESS ANNE — Harold Emmett Miller, 39, of Coral Gables, Fla., was convicted in Princess Anne Circuit Court today on charges of kidnapping and extorting money from his 74-year-old father.

Miller was also found guilty of malicious assault, robbery and abduction to deprive a person of his liberty. A charge of grand larceny was dismissed.

Sentencing was deferred until presentence report could be prepared.

KELLAM TO ADDRESS YOUNG DEMOCRATS

Sidney S. Kellam is scheduled to be the principal speaker at the monthly meeting of the Young Democratic Club to be held Tuesday evening at the Cape Henry Club in the Sir Walter Hotel.

The young Democrats are expected to hear Mr. Kellam speak on the proposed merger of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County.

Mosquito Control Service Extended To County Area

PRINCESS ANNE — The Princess Anne County Board of Supervisors has voted to add Wolfenare Plantation to the Virginia Beach-Princess Anne County Mosquito District.

The board approved the proposal of the Mosquito Control Commission at the regular board meeting Monday.

Mosquito control service will be extended to the subdivision, and the county will levy an extra tax on property there beginning next year, officials said.

In other actions Monday, the supervisors: Adopted a resolution asking the State Highway Department to pave 2 parking lots behind the main office building at Princess Anne Court House and bill the county for the work, estimated to cost $2,300.

Instructed the commonwealth's attorney to take civil action against the developer of Lynnhaven to force the improvement of some streets. Supervisor James Darden requested the action, saying he had received complaints from residents there.

Received and filed a report that the county issued 234 building permits during October for buildings valued at $3,243,724. This brought the value of building construction in the county this year to $34,008,217.

Decided to delay action on a request from Elizabeth City that the county endorse a proposed relocation of Route 168 in North Carolina adjacent to Princess Anne. The supervisors said they want to find out what Virginia highway officials think of the proposed route.

Accepted a low bid by the Clark Chevrolet Corp. for five new sanitation trucks. Clerk, one of three bidders, offered to provide the trucks on a trade-in basis at a net price of $10,486.28.

Accepted a low bid from Princess Anne Fuel Oil, Inc. to provide fuel oil for county buildings at Princess Anne Court House from Dec. 1, 1961, through Nov. 30, 1962. The bid, one of four received, was slightly more than 11½ cents per gallon.

PLAY OFFERED AT P. A. HIGH TONIGHT

"The Helmsman" a 3-act comedy will be presented tonight at the Princess Anne High School. It has been announced by the Princess Anne Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsors.

The comedy is a professional road show put on by Variety International Productions of Texas. Admission is $1.50 per person and tickets will be available at the box office or may be purchased at Alexander-Beegles in Virginia Beach.

P. A. JAYCEES BACK FROM CONFERENCE

Six members of the Princess Anne Junior Chamber of Commerce have returned from a quarterly workshop conference held last weekend at Natural Bridge, Virginia.

Those attending the meeting were Wilson B. Parsons, president; Paul Vestal, state director; Daniel Farley, vice president; Aubrey Munden, treasurer; Milton Woodlief, director; and Walter Munden, state vice president.

Council, Board Approve Merger; Jan. Vote Likely

The governing bodies of the City of Virginia Beach and the County of Princess Anne have unanimously approved a merger agreement and it may be that the proposal will be put to a vote of the people on January 4, 1962.

Last Friday both groups unanimously approved the merger agreement and the proposal was entered in the Princess Anne Circuit Court. The petition asked the judge to order a referendum on January 4, 1962. Judge Robert S. Wahab is expected to sign the referendum order after the consolidation agreement has been advertised for a four week period. (It appears in this newspaper this week and will be published for three additional weeks.)

Most of the details of the merger or consolidation agreement have been announced. The proposed charter for the new city would establish 11 departments, including a Department of Farm and Home Demonstration and a Department of Public Utilities.

Seven Boroughs
The new city would consist of seven boroughs with the name of the present Seaboard Magisterial District in the county being changed to the Borough of Princess Anne, thus retaining the historical name of Princess Anne within the new city.

The new city council would consist of 11 members, the same number and same individuals now serving the Virginia Beach city council and the county board of supervisors.

Basically the merger agreement is the same as that outlined last week by Sidney S. Kellam, co-chairman of the consolidated study committee. The new city would have a population in excess of 100,000 persons with a land area of approximately 265 square miles. It would have a council-manager form of government.

The joint agreement also includes these provisions, subject to the approval of the voters in January and the approval of the proposed charter by the General Assembly.

Publication — The agreement will be published once a week for four weeks before the referendum. (Officials said the proposed charter also will be published in full.)

Assumption of Debts — Special taxes would be levied in certain areas for a period of not more than 20 years for the purpose of paying off the debts in such areas. These debts to be assumed by each area, such as Virginia Beach, would include any incurred between now and consolidation.

City Council — The merged 11-man council, with members representing areas they now represent, would have to submit a new plan for election to the voters no later than Sept. 1971, and no earlier than five years after consolidation.

Constitutional Officers — Those in the county would continue to perform the same duties until their present terms expire. On Jan. 1, 1964, the present city sergeant of Virginia Beach would become the city's high constable, normally a council appointment. The city and county each have treasurers and revenue commissioners now, and persons in those offices would have to agree who would be treasurer and revenue commissioner of the new city. If they did not agree by the merger date, the Circuit Court would designate one as principal and the other as deputy in each case.

Cavaliers Gain Sixth Victory

Passes, two extra points and a determined band of Princess Anne Cavaliers turned back an equally determined Woodrow Wilson eleven in Portsmouth as Princess Anne posted a 14 to 13 victory over the Presidents.

Down at halftime, the Cavaliers unleashed their aerial offensive in the third period to forge out front by a point and hold that scant margin for the victory.

Buster O'Brien completed eight out of an even dozen attempts, including two touchdown passes. The first came to climax a sustained ground attack in the opening quarter when the Cavaliers marched via ground from their own 28 to the Wilson 31. O'Brien hit Jim Miller for the tally with 5:25 remaining. Carr's placement was good.

From that point, a low pass from center and fumbles on successive attempted punts kept the Cavaliers in trouble until the half. Wilson advanced from the PA 18 to deadlock the count. Tommy Morgan picked up nine and Ray Baker plowed over from the six for the touchdown. Lawson booted the extra

Local Golfers Among Bermuda Tourney Entries

HAMILTON, Bermuda — A team of four golfers from Virginia Beach's Princess Anne Country Club will compete in the ninth annual international Goodwill Tournament in Bermuda December 5-7.

Professional Leo Kernan and three club members will be seeking victory in a record field of 85 teams from the United States, Canada, Scotland, Barbados and Bermuda.

Amateur team members, all from Va. are: James G. Parke, 901 Greenway Court; Roy Charles, 7701 Argyle Ave.; and Rudy Tucker, Thalia Drive.

The Goodwill is a 54-hole, best-amateur event in which the pro and his amateur players, the latter using handicaps, establish the best "team" score on each hole.

Last year, Princess Anne was in 14th place, and the tournament was won—for the first time—by a Bermuda team, Riddell's Bay Golf & Country Club. The winning score was 187, 20 strokes under par.

On December 9, Kernan and the 84 other pro golfers will compete in the Goodwill Professional Championship, a separate tournament which is played on the world-famous Mid Ocean Club course.

Also entered from Virginia is the Country Club of Virginia, Richmond.

Southampton Is Seahawk Victim

Showing more fight and desire than they have in weeks, Virginia Beach Seahawks hit the winning trail again Friday night with an 8 to 0 victory over Southampton.

A second quarter touchdown and a late fourth period safety meant the margin of victory for the Hawks.

Halfback Mike Reese scored the game's lone touchdown from two yards out, capping a long Virginia Beach drive.

John Ardents and Eric Yates of Virginia Beach combined to score the two-point safety by nailing Southampton's Woody Marks in the end zone mid way through the third quarter.

Southampton has taken possession at their own 20 and was pushed back to its two yard line before Reese was thrown in the end zone.

Bridge Players At Plaza Bowl

The International Contract Bridge team composed of Russ Humphries and Jim Austin defeated the local challengers Eugene Nonni and Ray Dixon yesterday afternoon during a hotly contested Contract Bridge session at the Plaza Bowl. The Internationals were never behind, and at the completion of seven rubbers were 4240 points ahead.

Many interested onlookers and "kibitzers" were amazed at the daring bidding of the famed-International team. Their successful double finishes were roundly applauded.

During a consolation match at Birdneck Point which lasted until 3 a.m., Eugene Nonni and his new partner Robert Tata (manager of the Plaza Bowl) held "all the cards" and defeated the Internationals by 7400 points.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

Question And Answer Time

Now that the governing bodies of the City of Virginia Beach and the County of Princess Anne have agreed on a merger plan for the two areas and are offering a proposed charter for the new city in a legal advertisement appearing in this newspaper this week, the Sun-News feels that now is the time for questions to be asked and those questioned should be answered.

One of the prime questions on the lips of many individuals is "will it raise taxes?" This is a logical question and a good one. The best that we can ascertain by accepting the majority opinion and the wording of the proposed new city charter is that a merger of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County would not raise taxes.

From the conversation of the man-in-the-street it is evident that the great majority of persons here favor the merger. However, now is the time to raise questions that might be in a person's mind.

For the next few weeks The Sun-News is requesting and is hopeful that its readers will write to the paper on the merger proposal. Letters to the editor are especially invited at this time. Consolidation of the city and county is an important matter and want the views of our readers. As questions are raised the Sun-News will attempt to answer them.

Remember, put your views on this subject in writing and send it along to the editor of the Sun-News. In this way the public can become better informed in this important subject.

WHAT OTHERS ARE SAYING

Free Enterprise Produces Abundance

The Iron Curtain countries have long been plagued with food shortages. Bare subsistence diets are the rule rather than the exception. Meat is a rarity. The pitifully small quantities of it that the average family obtains is of poor quality and is exorbitantly priced.

The regimented citizens of these "Workers' Parades" will, it is safe to say, never be allowed to read an item that appeared in a recent issue of the Michigan Farmer. It pointed out that this year Americans will consume an average of 85 pounds of beef, 64.5 pounds of pork, 6.1 pounds of veal, and 4.4 pounds of lamb, along with an abundance of dairy and poultry products.

Then it adds that the average worker needs only 20 minutes of working time to earn enough to pay for a pound of meat—as against 35 minutes some 30 years ago. Putting it another way, the retail price of meat has increased less than 10 per cent in the last 10 years, as against a whopping 37 per cent increase in average hourly earnings.

The American meat industry, in all its ramifications—producer, packer, retailer—is a competitive, free enterprise operation. It is ruled by the natural law of supply and demand—not by the fiat of dictators. The results speak for themselves—plentiful supplies.

Where The Theory Doesn't Apply

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States opposes government in business. However, in a recent publication, it says this: "Speaking of government in business, there's one area where everyone concedes Uncle Sam does belong—operating the postal service. But it ought to be run at peak efficiency and on a self-supporting basis."

That is far, far from the case now. Since World War II, post office deficits have swelled the national debt by $8.3 billion. In this year alone, the deficit will top $800 million—thus, as the Chamber puts it, "helping to feed the inflation which shrinks the purchasing power of your dollar and forces interest rates upward."

Nothing was done about the deficit at the 1961 session of Congress, despite Administration proposals for rate revisions.

FORT STORY Tellings

First Chief of Transportation A Visitor to Fort Story

FORT STORY, Va. — Major General Charles P. Gross (USA Retired), the first Chief of Transportation visited Fort Story last week.

Although the prime purpose of his trip was to visit his daughter and son-in-law, Colonel and Mrs. Walter D. Swank, Deputy Commanding Officer of Fort Story, the retired Chief of Transportation has been able to view some of the latest Transportation Corps equipment and techniques. While visiting Ft. Eustis he served as Reviewing Officer at the October Garrison Review, and last week was present at a demonstration of the Rough Terrain Crane there at Fort Story.

In an interview here, the retired Maj. Gen. said, "The TC is in good hands." He remarked that he was impressed by what he had seen and added, "In 1942, civilian experts from different transportation fields were called in to handle the transportation logistics job. They were not really soldiers and the soldiers were not really technicians."

"VIKINGS" LEAD FORT STORY LITTLE LEAGUE

FORT STORY, Va.—The Vikings clinched at least a tie for the Little League Football Championship at Fort Story as they grounded the Eagles, 27-12, and the Colts kept their fading title hopes alive as they stopped the Chargers, 39-19, in games played on November 4.

Pat Cronin again starred for the Vikings as he scored 4 touchdowns and added three points after touchdowns, to lead his team to a 27-12 victory over the Eagles. The Vikings played outstanding defense as they held the Eagles scoreless in the second half.

The Colts paced by their 1-2 punch of Jimmy Burke and Gene Rice jumped off to a 26-7 half-time lead and pulled away to top the last place Chargers, 39-19.

Mrs. Spencer Lott and Mrs. William Hudgins planning the YWCA Harvest Time Tea which was held at the Presbyterian Church Monday afternoon. Mrs. I. B. ## First Baptist Church Will Launch Building Plan Sun.

Preliminary preparation has been completed and the building fund campaign of the First Baptist Church for $225,000 will be launched Sunday with a special worker's dedication service, it has been announced by T. G. Adams, general chairman.

Last week the congregation was presented the details of the building program and campaign at a loyalty dinner attended by some 225 members and their families. The overall program for complete educational facilities and a new sanctuary will cost $375,000. The $225,000 currently sought will enable the church to proceed with immediate construction.

Advance gifts chairman K. L. Jagd and Frank D. Tarrall, Jr., reported Wednesday night that this phase of the campaign had passed the halfway point. "We expect to have at least $100,000 for the workers to start on next week," they said.

Rev. H. Wadell Waters, church pastor, stated yesterday that the church is in desperate need of additional space and "balanced facilities" both for "present needs and immediate growth." "The characteristics of this area are rapidly changing," he said.

Hunters Sharpen Shooting Eye At Princess Anne Gun Club

Shotguns were popping at Princess Anne Gun Club over the weekend. Among the many sportsmen sharpening up for the hunting season were J. Owen Campbell, Bob Boyd, John Doyle, Ray Clark, Tim Wilson, Mac Hillman and son, Rueben Trant, Dr. Thrasher, his three sons, Bob, Allen and Pat, Dr. St. George, his son, Job, Rudy Hoffer, Charlie Scott, Henry Herberline and J. W. Wood, Jr.

Trap shooting is ideal practice for the long gun; duck hunters and skeet for the scatter gun—field hunters.

The club has scheduled their second annual Hunter's Special Skeet Shoot. These shoots have proven quite popular for hunters in the area. Especially for those who wish to get in some real practice for wing shooting and safe handling of guns before the sportsmen are invited to attend this shoot. Prizes will be awarded to first and second in each class.

Dates for the events will be Saturday and Sunday, November 25-26. Shooting from 12:00 noon, both days.

For all Shotgun Shooters: The Club will hold an Old Fashioned Turkey Shoot, Saturday, November 18, from 10:00 a.m. until dark. For further information, call Bob Pinnix from 1:00 p.m. daily, Phone 428-9560.

The Rifle and Pistol Club, with slow starting but great shooting can happily announce that Anthony Oberholz, Executive Officer, took four first places out of a possible 7 in Expert Class at Dam Neck Shoot Sunday, Shooting a 381 out of a possible 400. We heartily congratulate Obey on this accomplishment.

Defense Theme Stressed By DAR

The Princess Anne County Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution met at the home of Mrs. Thomas H. Fallwell, 8808 Rundall Lane, Lynnhaven, Saturday, Nov. 11th at 2 p.m.

The Regent, Mrs. E. Guy Robertson, presided.

Following the usual business session with reports by officers and committee chairmen, Mrs. A. H. Bannan, Chairman of National Defense, gave a challenging talk on that subject, and the Chapter was also reminded again of the theme chosen by the President General for her regime: "For Evil to Triumph, Good Men Need Only do Nothing."

Attention was called to the participation of the Chapter in the December Naturalization Court.

Plans were made to send clothing immediately to a State institution, and Christmas gifts at Christmas time for the inmates.

The meeting of the Chapter December 9th will be the 10th anniversary celebration, as well as the Christmas party when gifts are exchanged. An interesting program on American Indians was given by Mrs. Fred M. Robinson, substituting for Mrs. D. Y. Malbon, State Chairman of "American Indians," who was unable to be present.

After adjournment a pleasant social hour was enjoyed as the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Noel Fallwell, served delicious refreshments.

Guests of the Club now may shoot on the pistol range for a fee of $1.50 for 2 hours. Come and join us on the Firing Line, for a nice clean sport, as well as association with shooters from many walks of life.

A Reminder

Postmaster Crosswhite Urges Early Christmas Mailing Now

"It's time to start planning your Christmas card and gift mailings," Postmaster J. T. Crosswhite, Jr. said today as he launched his 1961 "Mail Early For Christmas" Campaign.

Looking ahead to what may be the biggest Christmas season ever, the Postmaster said further, "Here are the things to watch to help in getting every Christmas card and package delivered before December 25th."

CHECK your Christmas card and gift lists carefully. Be sure each address is complete with full name, street and number, city, zone and state. Avoid abbreviations of city and state names.

FOR YOUR GIFT PACKAGES, secure heavy wrapping paper, sturdy corrugated cartons, strong cord and adhesive tape. Remember, also, that you can include your Christmas card or letter inside your gift packages if you will add the appropriate First Class mail stamps to the postage for the package itself.

STOCK UP ON POSTAGE STAMPS — By doing this soon, you'll save lots of time that might be spent standing in line later on. When you go to the Post Office, ask for a supply of labels which read, "ALL FOR LOCAL DELIVERY" and "ALL FOR OUT OF TOWN DELIVERY." So that before you mail your Christmas cards you can sort them into two groups, with the addresses all facing one way, thus expediting delivery.

FIRST CLASS POSTAGE IS BEST for mailing your Christmas cards. All cards sent by 4 cent postage may include a personal handwritten message, and they'll be forwarded or returned, if that becomes necessary. Be sure to put your return address on your Christmas card envelopes. It's socially correct to do this, and enables both you and your friends to keep your mailing lists up-to-date.

Predicting that this year's Christmas mail will set a new time record, even exceeding the number of pieces that were handled here in the pre-holiday season of 1960, the Postmaster pointed out the importance of planning your Christmas mailings now to avoid a lot of headaches when the Christmas rush comes in earnest.

He said further, that through the excellent cooperation of the public during recent Christmas seasons, he has been able to get all of the Christmas cards and packages dispatched and delivered before Christmas Eve.

"We can all make the 1961 'Mail Early For Christmas' Campaign a big success," he continued, "if we'll all take a personal responsibility in planning our Christmas mailings so that cards and gift packages going to most distant points are mailed by December 10th, and earlier, if possible. Christmas packages for local destinations should be mailed by December 15th, and be sure to mail your Christmas cards for friends and relatives in this area at least a week before Christmas."

LOCAL FLORIST TO SPEAK TO CLUB

From Father to Son

Fred A. Haycox, Jr., left, is shown accepting the keys to a new building that will house offices and shop of the Asphalt Roads and Materials Co. at Rosemont from his father, Fred A. ## SONS TAKE OVER MANAGEMENT OF ASPHALT, BUILDING FIRMS

Changes are taking place in a 40-year-old asphalt, concrete and building business in this area, but the change is an internal one and one that will hardly be noticed by the general public.

After 40 years in the building business, Fred A. Haycox, Sr. is stepping aside in favor of his two sons in the business with plant and offices located at Virginia Beach boulevard and Haycox Drive at Rosemont.

Last Saturday the senior Haycox turned over the keys to a new office building to Fred, Jr., who is president of the Asphalt Roads and Materials Company. The new building will serve as general offices and shop for this company. The asphalt plant and yard are adjacent to the offices.

Officers of the Asphalt Roads and Materials Company, in addition to Fred Haycox, Jr., are M. A. Niegro, vice president and general superintendent; and Mrs. L. M. Moore, secretary.

Along with the changeover in the asphalt firm, Haycox announced that the general construction business which operates as Haycox Construction Company has been shifted to another son, William C. Haycox. This firm will be headquartered in the building that formally housed both companies.

William C. Haycox is president of the construction firm while Joe Brown serves as vice president and general superintendent.

Both firms have been among the most active in their fields throughout the past 40 years. The construction firm has built many of the area's post war school buildings. It has also

Dam Neck Has First Skipper As Speaker

The U.S. Fleet Anti-Air Warfare Training Center at Dam Neck celebrated its 20th anniversary last Friday with a luncheon hosted by Capt. R. R. Green, commanding officer. Principal speaker and special guest was Rear Admiral Philip D. Gallery, USN (retired) of Alexandria, Va.

When still a lieutenant, Gallery was ordered to Dam Neck as the first officer in charge in November, 1941. Dam Neck has since grown from a few frame buildings, quonset huts, and machine gun range into a 20 million dollar fleet training activity specializing in anti-air warfare.

Admiral Gallery spoke at the luncheon and again later that afternoon to an all hands assembly of officers and men.

Admiral Gallery recalled that when he reported to the Commandant of the 5th Naval District in 1941 it took him two days to find out his embryo command was under construction as some place called "little neck, or dam creek or something like that". Interest in the anti-aircraft range increased tremendously only a few weeks later when WWII began. Over 300,000 officers and men were trained here during the war. At the peak of operations, gun crews fired as much as one million rounds of ammunition each day.

Admiral Gallery also pointed out that he had predicted in 1944, upon being relieved, that Dam Neck would outlive the post war demobilization.

The city manager shall hold such hearing as he may deem advisable and shall review the estimates and other data pertinent to the preparation of the budget and make such revisions in such estimates as he may deem proper, subject to the laws of the Commonwealth relating to obligatory expenditures for any purpose, except that in the case of the school board he may recommend a revision only in its total estimated expenditures. The budget shall be prepared in accordance with accepted principles of municipal accounting and budgetary procedures and techniques.

Section 5.04. BALANCED BUDGET. In no event shall the expenditures recommended by the city manager in the budget exceed the receipts estimated, taking into account the estimated cash surplus or deficit at the end of the current fiscal year, unless the city manager shall recommend an increase in the rate of ad valorem taxes on real estate and tangible personal property or other new or increased taxes or licenses within the power of the city to levy and collect in the ensuing fiscal year the receipts from which estimated on the basis of the average experience with the same or similar taxes during the three tax years last past, will make up the difference. He shall also introduce at the same time any ordinances levying a new tax or altering the rate on any existing tax necessary to balance the budget as provided in Section 5.04.

Section 5.07. PUBLIC HEARING. The Council shall hold a public hearing on the budget as submitted, at which all interested persons shall be given an opportunity to be heard. The council shall cause to be published a notice of the time and place of the hearing not less than seven days prior to the date of the hearing.

Section 5.08. ADOPTION OF BUDGET. After the public hearing the council may make such changes in the budget as it may determine, except that no item of expenditure for debt service shall be reduced or omitted. The budget shall be adopted by the vote of at least a majority of all members of the council not later than 30 days prior to the end of the current fiscal year. Should the council take no action prior to such day, the budget shall be deemed to have been finally adopted as submitted. In no event shall the council adopt a budget in which the estimated total of expenditures exceeds receipts, unless at the same time it adopts measures to provide additional revenue estimated to be sufficient to make up the difference.

Princess Anne P.O. Commended In Bonds Sale

Postmaster Lankford D. Malone said today he had received a letter from William H. Neal, National Director of the U. S. Savings Bond Program, commending the local post office for the promotion and sale of Savings Stamps during the past year.

"In this 20th anniversary year of the United States Savings Bond Program," the letter read, "Americans in all walks of life, in communities throughout the country, own more than $44 billion in Series E and H Savings Bonds — an all-time record. You have had a real share in this success, and we in the Treasury are grateful for your efforts over the years to promote the sale of Savings Stamps and Bonds in behalf of your country."

"In these critical times, the sale of Savings Stamps and Bonds affords young and old alike an opportunity to help their country as they help themselves. To the extent that we can increase our sales, to the same extent do we strengthen the foundations of our national economy, upon which rests our efforts to preserve the peace and promote the general welfare of all people."

"During the school year your help is especially needed to sponsor and service the School Savings Programs in your area. In the country as a whole, some six million students are now attending schools where the Stamp Plan is in operation. We would like to see this number increased substantially during the coming year."

Postmaster Malone reminds the public that Savings Stamps are on sale at the post office at all times. Adults can buy them, too, he added — "an easy way to buy Savings Bonds on the installment plan."

New School

CARROLL GUIDING COX JUNIOR HIGH

(This is the seventh in a series of articles to appear each week on the men and women who serve as principals of Virginia Beach & Princess Anne County Schools.)
By RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS

GREAT NECK — Frank W. Cox High School sits sparkling and gleaming in its newness on Great Neck Road near the new Lynnhaven River Bridge. And sitting proudly behind the principal's desk is Walter N. Carroll.

Housing nearly 1300 8th & 9th grade students, the ultra-modern school is certainly one of the loveliest buildings in the county and its departmental equipment is unsurpassed.

In a well decorated office that reflects the modernistic design of the entire plant, Carroll oversees the routine of the school and guides it through its infancy pangs.

Brand News
Only two short months ago the school opened to the onslaught of students. Some of the classrooms are still in the process of being completed. But that hasn't undaunted the principal, his staff and the faculty. They have already created a program comparable to more established schools.

Dealing only with eighth and ninth grade students can present many challenges, Carroll said.

"These age groups can't be treated as children," he said. "You can't even call them children."

Learn Responsibility
"Our greatest challenge here is to teach the students self-discipline. Help them accept responsibilities they must use later in life. We are all working toward that goal."

Carroll accepted the principalship of Cox High School after serving as elementary supervisor of Princess Anne County Schools.

He earned his bachelor's degree in 1950 and his master's degree in 1955 from the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg.

Walter N. Carroll

A native of the county, he returned here to begin his career in education, first as teacher at Creeds High School then as principal of that school. In 1964 he became principal of the Little Creek Elementary School, a position he kept until becoming supervisor in 1958.

His professional affiliations include the Virginia Education Association, the National Education Association, the National Secondary Principals' Association, the Princess Anne County Teacher's Association, and the Association Supervision Curriculum Development.

Offices
He has served as secretary of the Tidewater Regional Supervisors for the past two years and is a past president of the Kappa Delta Pi.

Married to the former Doris Murden, also a native of Princess Anne County, they live in the Larkspur section of Kenneville with their two children, Janet, 9 and Jeffrey, 7.

Carroll is a member of the Community Methodist Church where he is presently serving as chairman of the Commission on Education.

Vet Officer To Visit Wednesday

Thomas A. Moore, Area Director in Norfolk for Tidewater, Division of War Veterans' Claims, a service officer for many years assisting veterans and their dependents, associated with the Virginia State Government (not Veterans Administration), which agency represents the claimant, operating under the Directorship of Harry F. Carper, Jr. of Roanoke, located in the V. A. building, makes his next itinerary visit to Virginia Beach at The Alan B. Shepard Convention Center, 19th Street and Pacific Avenue (the "Dome") on Wednesday, November 22, 1961.

Moore's hours to interview and make appointments to see that day are: Noon (12 o'clock) to 2:00 p.m.

Please note: Although Moore's trips to Virginia Beach are regularly scheduled for the second and fourth Thursday of each month, he is deviating from this usual schedule to make the aforementioned trip on Wednesday, November 22, 1961. This is because of the Thanksgiving holiday which falls on Thursday, November 23, 1961, the day he would normally be at the Beach.

Moore can be contacted also at his office, 305 McKevitt Building, 203 East City Hall Avenue in Norfolk, telephone MADison 9-6671.

London Bridge Army Captain Is Commended

Capt. Thomas C. Hunter Jr., resident engineer of the Baltimore District at Fort Meade, received his second Army Commendation Medal for meritorious service during the past two-year period ending May 31.

Capt. Hunter received his award from Col. Warren R. Johnson, Baltimore District Engineer.

As the representative of the contracting officer, Capt. Hunter is responsible for administering all new major construction at Fort Meade. The post's multi-million dollar construction program has included family housing projects, a 150-bed hospital, airfield, medical laboratory, chapel, barracks, marksmanship training area and other facilities.

Pioneer Phone Group Growing

Twenty-one years of service with an industry is not uncommon, but in the telephone industry it opens a new door for employees. The opened door is membership in the Telephone Pioneers of America.

Throughout the United States and Canada there are 63 chapters with over 200,000 telephone veterans who belong to the Pioneer organization. The Old Dominion Chapter here in Virginia has over 1,600 members on its rolls who are still active in the business or who have retired.

It was just fifty years ago, on November 2, 1911, that the Telephone Pioneers of America was founded. It is now celebrating its Golden Anniversary. The organization still closely adheres to its original goals of fellowship, loyalty and service.

Today, the Telephone Pioneers of America is the largest social industrial organization in the world.

The members have and are making valuable contributions to the telephone industry. Likewise, they are making comparable contributions to their respective communities.

In the Old Dominion Chapter there are councils and clubs in many Virginia localities. Its members do volunteer work in hospitals as nurses aides and work with handicapped persons in various capacities. In 1960 the Pioneers undertook the project of repairing "Talking Book Machines" for Virginia's visually handicapped. Prior to the membership taking over this work, hundreds of "Talking Book Machines" are now returned to service within a week and provide hours of enjoyment to those less fortunate.

Water Supply Big Problem in World

Within a decade, American—the land of plenty—may be faced with a critical water shortage, according to a new brochure, "The Crisis Just Around the Corner."

Citing repeated warnings by President Kennedy, Senator Robert S. Kerr and the House Science and Astronautics Committee, the booklet, released by the National Water Institute, points out the causes of the impending crisis and what can be done to avert it.

The culprit, according to the NWI, is not a shortage of water itself—either now or in the future—but a lack of facilities to store, transport and treat water and bring it to the user.

With population expanding enormously, bringing with it a corresponding rise in water consumption, a "billion feet of sewer pipe must be built and laid to service the 15 million homes now rising in the suburbs," warns the NWI.

Contributing to the oncoming peril is increased water consumption that by 1960, with a population increase 30% to 235 million, may hike daily demands to "150 billion gallons from today's 70-100 billion."

Adding to the insatiable thirst is a "wasteful stripping of the land" which without replacing the timber, allows flood waters to course unimpeded over the countryside, causing untold losses of lives and property; the brochure adds.

And, says the NWI, as industry, farming and irrigation search for new sources of supply needed to develop and process the fruits of their labor, even greater demands will be placed on the nation's total deliverable water supply of about 600 billion gallons a day.

Some communities recognizing the threat to their future existence, have taken action. An example, the brochure relates, is the Delaware River Basin project in which four states joined in a compact to "meet the water needs of these four states in years to come."

"Seventy municipalities in Buck County, Pennsylvania, are expected to participate in a master plan involving a 20-year program . . . to meet the water supply and waste treatment needs of the area."

And already an Ohio city with a pollution problem described as a "health situation beyond description," has removed that stigma by installing a modern sewage disposal plant.

A 7-point program is related by the NWI's brochure that hopes to enlighten the public on what it must know to help water and sewage utility managers meet increased water demands in their own local areas.

ment to those less fortunate. The Old Dominion Chapter Pioneers spend thousands of hours yearly giving of their time and talents to help others.

Frank's Pets

Local Pet Shop Busy Preparing For Christmas

VIRGINIA BEACH—The "maternity ward" at Frank's Pet Shop is a beehive of activity, preparing for the Christmas rush when youngsters throughout the area ask Santa Claus for parakeets, hamsters, guinea pigs and other pets.

Located at the rear of the 23rd Street shop, the ward is Frank Israel's answer to having healthy pets. Here he raises his own.

Fourteen pairs of parakeets are busy preparing for parenthood and one pair of rare African peach-faced love birds have the same idea.

Several of the cages already have scrawny, unfledged, newly hatched birds cuddled in the nests and each day brings more excitement as other eggs hatch.

Mother hamsters are busy stuffing up the nesting material for their expected family and one little mother proudly hovers over her new babies.

At one corner of the "maternity ward" are two large cages where three recently acquired Persian cats reside — two black cats, one tortoiseshell-colored one.

Big Family
Within the next three weeks Frank expects the ward to deliver about a dozen guinea pigs, 40 birds and no telling how many hamsters.

All of this happiness can end in sadness, however, for Frank must cull the little ones and destroy those that are not perfectly formed.

Frank went into the pet shop business three years ago after spending some time in the florist business because of his love of animals. He has been in his present location for two years.

Having a great knack with animals, many of the store "merchandise" become personal

Beauty of Switzerland Leaves Local Tourist Aghast

(This is the fourth of several stories by Mrs. Dale Fairless Witt, who recently toured Europe with the Virginia Beach Travel Service-WMOF sponsored "Europe in Autumn" tour, reporting on building trends and other interests in various key cities. Mrs. Witt took the trip in her position as president of the National Association of Home Builders Women's Auxiliary and as a consultant for Viking Construction Corp., builders of King's Grant.)

By DALE FAIRLESS WITT

Haven't typed a word for 3 days, as I have been so enthralled with the beauty of Switzerland! From the time we stepped off the plane in Zurich, everything has been perfect and there's so much to see. Our bus and guide "Rudy," met us at the airport and drove us through the business section of Zurich, past the University, on to Lucerne. He told us that classes are being taught at the University in seven languages and that many Americans go to school there. Again we saw the beautiful flower ball boats on the blue lake, snow capped mountains, and chalet type architecture with carved wooden balconies intermixed with modern apartments. It seems the housing shortage is acute in every country and construction of apartments meets the problem faster than building individual homes.

We arrived at beautiful hotel "Carlton Tivoli," which overlooks Lake Lucerne, with delightful rooms and small balconies, where we were served our breakfast rolls and coffee. Everywhere we found modern, clean, hotels with outstanding food and service. Being new to European travel, I learned that when you wished something, hair appointment, where to go, mail or what have you, the "concierge" is your answer! I guess he would be compared to our assistant hotel manager in the States. Of course, when you leave, he expects a small or large tip.

Our first afternoon was spent in shopping and most of it in one store, Buchers, famous the world over, for their watches, clocks, and jewelry. Even the most inexpensive of watches looks like a gem, when placed by one of their sophisticated salesmen or salesgirls, on the black velvet material for viewing them, and the prices that range from $5.00 up to many dollars is appealing.

We had dinner back at the hotel and watched the sun set over the mountains above the lake. This evening was dedicated to seeing if the show at the Casino was "acceptable" for the rest of the party—it was—one of the best of the shows we had seen. A twelve piece band, plus singers, and comics all did very well. Language is no barrier as most of it is in English. The Casino gambling has one game called "Boula," played very much like Roulette. With a one franc minimum and a five franc maximum, you could bet on red or black, odd or even, or the number, and after playing for an hour, I lost one franc and Janet Borror won three.

The next day after our usual mounds of butter, rolls, and good coffee, our guide Rudy, took the entire party by bus to the Transportation Exhibit. It's a very modern building full of cars, trains, antique vintage, & a model showing the present rail system, which is an engineering marvel when one thinks of the great heights these trains travel. He explained, with the use of a model, the work of the "Furcula" railway (the cog railway), showing us the safety features which we were to appreciate later, when, within the hour, we were on one that went up an incline greater than fifty percent. We really appreciated his showing us the safety features.

Breathtaking Ride
After arriving on top of Mt. Pilate everyone sighed, never realizing what was in store for us! After our chocolate in the bright sunshine at 8,000 feet & absorbing the breathtaking view, one of our party asked, "How do we get down?" and Rudy, called us to the other side of the mountain and pointed out two slim cables. "There!" Switching from chocolate to cognac seemed in order and away we went—sailing through the air in a cable car to the very bottom. A very smooth ride, although we remembered that a jet aircraft had struck and broken the cables on this mode of transportation a short while back. And to think I won't even ride a ferris wheel!

On shaky legs we walked through the village below and were greeted by the sight of honest to goodness chimney sweeps, children singing, and then by another of the superb Swiss trains and back to Lucerne.

Since Jody Edgar was having a birthday, we all celebrated with dinner at a famous restaurant (translation — Wild Man), eating beef fondant, raw beef served at the table in little cubes and each person cooked his own, plus all the extras and a beautiful calorie-filled chocolate cake with many many layers.

Upon arrival to Interlaken, again down the streets to see the shops and people. The stores would not be open again until Monday at noon, for everyone really enjoys the weekend. As our feet were beginning to have had it, we had an amusing carriage ride with Driver 28 (all the drivers have numbers and get their mail via their number) back to the hotel. He was very obliging, letting us twist his mustache for a picture.

At this point of the trip and since our room was equipped with a tub deep enough to drown in, we had a deep hot oil bubble bath, a facial, opened the windows to the fresh Swiss Alps air and crawled in between real linen sheets and snuggled under the down comforter to a wonderful night of sleep.

By-the-way, we learned today that "Alp" really refers to a place where cheese is made and the Alps were named for this. This is a section of mountain at different altitudes suitable for making cheese.

Joeh, they fed 495 people lunch, in addition to the ones that brought theirs with them. If you ever go, take a box lunch. Chocolate is delicious over here, some chocolate is filled with cognac, but a sandwich would have been good.

Also along the way, we saw ski tows, cable cars, hiking cars, hiking trails, chalets and always the view of the snow covered mountains.

We passed through a tunnel five miles long, getting off in the tunnel under the summit. A few were light headed and a little unsure on their feet, but managed to make it out to the observatory where the view was magnificent. We have had such wonderful luck with the weather. The sun felt warm enough to get a sunburn. Below us on the slopes we could see skiers doing their twists and turns, & the mountain peaks for many, many miles. This is the continental divide of Europe.

Glacier Palace

Three glaciers were visible and when we went out to walk on one, one of our party slipped and about joined the skiers. One high spot was the ice palace below the glacier, which has 300 feet of solid ice and has been carved out for 25 years. Huge rooms and settings in ice, man carved, in the middle of a glacier. Since a post office was on the premises, many mailed cards, some just rested in the sun on the balcony and tried to absorb the magnificence of it all. I sat on a bench overlooking a mountain slope and watched a foot take a small plane and put the skis down to the snow and then take off again.

The lady next to me was from Toledo, Ohio, the other side from Japan and the others??? The railroad was built as a private investment and has paid for itself 6 times, but is still first class, for the entire all-day trip cost about $10.00. The bob sled run now is free of snow and the guide laughingly said, "You need a good brakeman." I'd need more than that, I'd never get on that straight up, and

PUT NEW LIFE INTO YOUR OLD BOOKS

An old law book... a treasured volume of Shakespeare... the family Bible. If they've been in the family a long time and are leather-bound, they are apt to show signs of decay.

To put new life into their bindings and add new beauty to the leather, try treating them with lacquer.

It will give them good protection. Lacquer is especially useful in treating books that have become powdery and are almost ready for rebinding.

First clean the books well. Apply oil if you wish. Then spray or brush on two thin coats of lacquer, allowing the first to dry before applying the second.

A couple of words of warning, though. Lacquer should not be used on new books because it destroys the natural leather appearance. Also, do not use lacquer in a closed room or near a fire or open flame. Do not smoke when handling lacquer. The vapors and fumes are highly volatile.

TIPS ON STORING FOOD

Homemakers need a ready answer to home storage problems. Here are specific storage suggestions for the more common foods as well as some general tips on making good use of the refrigerator.

It's all right to keep small amounts of cooking and salad oils at room temperature for a short time. However, it is advisable to use these foods before their flavor begins to change. Mayonnaise and salad dressings should be kept in the refrigerator unless they're used within a few days. Even jellies, jams, and peanut butter, once opened, keep best in the refrigerator.

If we refrigerate eggs in the original carton or some other covered container, they do not lose moisture through their porous shells.

Potatoes need more careful storage than you may think. They keep best in a dark, dry, well-ventilated place at about 45 to 50 degrees. Too much light causes greening and loss of eating quality. In a warm place, potatoes shrivel and sprout; in a cold place the starch in the potatoes turns to sugar. If the flavor of stored potatoes becomes too sweet, it can be improved by moving them to a room-temperature storage place for a week or two.

Citrus fruits, melons, and pineapples actually have better eating quality when kept out of the refrigerator at room temperatures of 60 to 70 degrees. Although a short stay in the refrigerator doesn't noticeably harm them, a long period of refrigeration causes the skin of citrus fruits to become pitted and the flesh to discolor.

We need to distinguish between the types of food spoilage that makes foods unsafe to eat and those which do not. Important danger signs are off-odors in all foods and a sour taste in bland foods such as creamed potatoes and creamed chicken. Other signs of spoilage that make food unpleasant to eat, but not hazardous to health, are rancid odor and flavor of fats, mold or slime on the surface of meat, fermentation of fruit juices, and mold on bread.

There is little or no danger of food becoming unsafe to eat when it is kept in a refrigerator with a temperature of 42 degrees or below, because food poisoning bacteria can't grow at these temperatures.

YOUR TELEVISION SET

A television set can be a "problem" piece of furniture. Here are a few tips which may help.

Try combining the set with another cabinet of similar wood and hardware, and use a molding on a shelf placed above the two pieces. Thus, the two pieces are treated as one.

Use a cabinet with a flip-back lid or shutter doors that open and close. This can be built up on a base which serves as a place to sit when selecting channels. Though small in scale, the arrangement can fit in with the line of the wall as part of a grouping.

You can house a rolling television behind cabinet doors. You can fit it into a cabinet treated as a wall area. This is most convenient when the seating in a room is not arranged around the set. The table model is most acceptable in many small homes. It is less likely to dominate a room. You may want to build it in with cabinets. You can also use a turn table so you can view it from several places in the room.

No matter where you put the television set, be sure the screen is at eye level for viewing, and that seating is arranged about six feet away from the screen. Never look at television in the dark. Have the level of general lighting low, but well distributed. It should not shine on or reflect on the screen.

Duck, Geese Migration From Canada Now 'Almost Complete'

Migration of ducks and geese from the prairie region of western Canada is "almost complete" ... Two storms during the period October 19-November 2 brought snow and cold across the prairies and inspired the migratory movement.

Hence the wind-up to another waterfowl season in western Canada, as reported in the November edition of the Ducks Unlimited "Duckological," prepared by General Manager Angus Gavin.

First of the storms reports

TESTS FOR PEACE CORPS BEING GIVEN

Postmaster Crosswhite announced today that the entrance test for the Peace Corps will be given on Tuesday and Wednesday, November 28 and 29, 1961.

Within a few days information showing the place and time for the examination in your area will be posted on the bulletin board of the local post office, including stations and branches.

If you are interested in taking the test, be sure and watch for complete information at your post office.

Postmaster Crosswhite added that he would inform the press when the information has been received.

Gavin, followed "the classic pattern" by starting in Alberta (Oct. 19) and traversing northern Saskatchewan and Manitoba (Oct. 20-23). Snowfall varied, 4-6 inches in central Alberta and as much as 13 inches near Saskatoon. Temperatures generally dropped below 20 and went to zero in one instance. The cold modified as it moved east.

It was the initial storm which "triggered" the biggest migration of the fall. The major exodus took place at that time.

The second storm swept over the prairie provinces November 1-2 and moved out almost all the remaining ducks and geese, the remnant which had stayed despite the first onslaught of weather. Remnant of the remnant now consists of a few stubborn mallards and lesser scaup.

Gavin pinpoints the migration as "generally" light and duck-hunting as poor, except in isolated instances. Goose-hunting, however, he lists as "above average." The geese came in early and provided good hunting until forced out by weather.

The U. S. Atlantic Fleet is organized to exploit fully the capability of its carriers, their fighter and attack aircraft, and the supporting missile cruisers, destroyers, and submarines.

DISCOVERY

Maybe it seems odd to think that anyone has to "discover" the Bible. Yet stop and think how few of us really know this Book of books.

Time was when families read the Bible together, and most youngsters could quote their Scriptures. Biblical allusions were commonplace and understood by one and all.

Then somehow, over the years, a lot of people forgot about the Bible. Or they reserved it exclusively for Sundays in church.

Now, there is a great and blessed resurgence of Bible reading in our land—thanks to the great work of the American Bible Society. Youngsters like these are learning new truths for themselves. They are putting God's word not just into Sunday, but into every day.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor in each for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a source of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four most needed services which every person should receive regularly and support his Bible study.

Sunday	Monday	Tuesday	Wednesday
Romans 10:1-10	Proverbs 2:1-8	John 17:1-11	Hebrews 2:1-10
Psalm 119:33-40	Friday	Saturday
	119:105-112	119:1-24

THE TURKEY MAKES IT THANKSGIVING

The big golden turkey is the star at the Thanksgiving feast. And it's the bread stuffing that gives it its plump good looks and extra flavor. Try toasted yeast-raised bread crumbs combined with butter, seasonings and fresh mushrooms for a rich mellow stuffing for this year's bird.

BREAD AND MUSHROOM STUFFING

4½ quarts soft enriched yeast-raised bread crumbs
1 cup butter or margarine
1 cup chopped onion
½ cup chopped green pepper
½ pound sliced fresh mushrooms
¼ cup chopped parsley
1 tablespoon salt
2 teaspoons poultry seasoning
¼ teaspoon black pepper
Chicken stock or milk

Spread bread crumbs on baking sheet and toast lightly in oven. Sauté onion, green pepper, celery, mushrooms in butter till tender. Add bread crumbs, parsley and seasonings. Add chicken stock or milk to make stuffing as moist as desired. Lightly stuff neck and body cavities of a 12-pound turkey.

Colorful... nutritious... V-8 juice is the perfect lunch or dinner appetizer during the holiday season or any time of the year. Hot or cold... plain or fancy... its sparkling blend of flavors will enliven appetites.

Whether you serve it directly at the table as the first course to a family dinner or pass it in the living room as a pleasant start to an informal buffet supper, it will win loud acclaim and be most welcomed.

When you serve it cold... in your prettiest stemmed glasses be sure it is thoroughly chilled. It's easy to store a few cans in the refrigerator and have it handy for these occasions. When the menu calls for a hot "app-tizer" a cup of V-8 served hot and spiced... will give a magic touch to the foods that follow.

For a bright beginning to any meal... anytime... serves refreshing V-8!

V-8 Appetizer

½ to 1 teaspoon sweet basil
1 tablespoon hot water
1 can (12 ounces) V-8
In pint jar or bowl, combine basil and hot water; let stand several minutes to extract flavor.

ors. Add V-8; chill. Makes 3 servings.
For dessert suggestions, maybe you'll enjoy a change from the proverbial upkumpkin pie for Thanksgiving — so here are some Cranberry recipes.

Cranberry Spice Cake
½ cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 egg, beaten
1 cup raisins
¼ cup chopped nuts
1¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon Baking Powder
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon all spice
1 lb. can Cranberry Sauce (jellied or whole)

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Cream shortening and sugar; add egg. Stir in raisins and nuts. Combine dry ingredients and sift together; add to first mixture. Stir in cranberry sauce. Blend well and pour in well greased tube pan and bake for about 1 hour. Ice with cranberry cream cheese frosting. Make it with:
3 oz. package cream cheese
4 tablespoons cranberry

Jelly
1½ teaspoon salt
1 pound confectioner's sugar
Softened cream cheese with cranberry sauce. Add salt. Gradually add sugar beating until creamy.

Cranberry Chiffon Pie
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
½ cup cold water
1 lb. can cranberry sauce (jellied or whole)
1½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
2 teaspoons lemon juice
2 egg whites
2 tablespoons sugar
1 8-inch baked pastry shell

Place gelatin in small cup & add cold water, let stand two minutes; place cup in pan of boiling water until gelatin dissolves.

Add to jellied cranberry sauce that you have crushed with a fork. Add salt, lemon juice and rind, chill until mixture begins to set. Beat egg whites until stiff. Add sugar and beat. Fold into cranberry mixture. Pour into baked pastry shell and chill until firm. When ready to serve, top with whipped cream.

Wear White At Night Is AAA Poster Advice

Nearly 4,200 pedestrians were killed in night traffic accidents last year, the Tidewater Automobile Association reported today in urging school-age youngsters to wear white after dark. Frank Cox, Local Director, said that well over half of all pedestrian fatalities occur during hours of darkness. He said reduced visibility on the part of both motorists and pedestrian plays a major role in the death toll.

"If you plan to walk at night, wear or carry something white so that motorists will be able to see you," the AAA Club Official urged. "This precaution could save your life."

A safety poster illustrating the theme, "Wear White After Dark," is being distributed to schools in Virginia Beach as part of the regular monthly safety education program of Tidewater Automobile Association.

The new poster, designed by Lois May Hoffer, 12, a seventh-grade student at Taft Junior High School, Canton, Ohio, was a first place winner in the American Automobile Association's National Traffic Safety Poster Contest. The prize was awarded by a panel of nationally-known judges. The poster will be reproduced and distributed by AAA Motor Clubs throughout the country.

ARCTIC COMMAND HONORS STORY SERGEANT
FORT STORY, Va. — Sgt. Grover C. Brantley, hatch foreman with the 854th Transportation Company, received a Certificate of Achievement from Colonel Philip E. Pons, Commanding Officer, USATTC, Arctic.

Sergeant Brantley distinguished himself while serving as ships platoon sergeant of the DEW Mobile Terminal engaged in the Arctic resupply mission from July 22, 1961 to August 1961, in the area of Goose Bay, Labrador.

Particularly notable was the perfect safety record achieved by his platoon during the handling of difficult and heavy lifts into landing craft.

The service rendered by Sergeant Brantley during this period reflects favorably upon himself, his assigned unit and the Transportation Corps in general.

Hurd's Among Area's Best Known Restaurants

LYNNHAVEN — Way back off the beaten path, on a winding road bordering Lynnhaven Bay, sets an eating establishment that for 23 years has been making a growing name for itself. Not because of advertising or impressive facilities but because of its outstanding seafood.

For nearly a quarter of a century Hurd's has been growing in popularity with Tidewater residents.

Cured Loneliness
Always strictly a family affair, the restaurant opened originally as a form of therapy for Mrs. Grace Hurd who had been uprooted from her Norfolk home and placed in the "wilds" of the Lynnhaven woods when her husband, Richard, moved out of the city to take over a milk route for Birchard's Dairy.

"Sometimes I thought those trees were closing in on me," she said. "I know I'd go crazy if I didn't do something to occupy myself so I decided to try my hand at cooking and serving food."

The first restaurant was in a run-down building on the same property the present one is located. It seated about 40 people and Mrs. Hurd did all the cooking on two stoves, one coal and one oil. The menu included fried chicken and oysters with whatever vegetables or "fixins" the Hurd family happened to have on hand.

It was a modest beginning. An old record book, that would make a modern bookkeeper cringe, tells in penciled letters and figures what a struggle the early days were. One week Mrs. Hurd cleared $7.24. Another week it jumped to over $12. Then the following week she lost $8 on her business venture.

Gradually, however, the figures began an upward climb. Word of mouth advertising brought a great number of Navy personnel to the eating establishment during the early months of World War II. The first party at the restaurant, which drew crowds because of its "all the oysters you can eat for $1" slogan, had to eat off paper plates because Mrs. Hurd only had six dinner plates and couldn't afford to buy more. She borrowed silverware to feed the group and profits from this first party sent Hurd's on its way.

Family Project

Her three sons, Richard, who has since passed away, Roland and Daniel waited on tables while two daughters, Ruth and May, gave their mother a hand in the kitchen. "If I had had to pay help the restaurant never would have made it," Mrs. Hurd laughed.

"Those kids worked. When the boys weren't waiting on tables they were shelling oysters."

The restaurant continued to grow in popularity until in 1941, three years after it opened, Hurd's found it necessary to expand. They added a big front section onto their modest home that would seat 250 and opened to an eager clientele before the addition was even completed.

By now it was obvious the restaurant was first and foremost in the family so Mr. Hurd quit his job and devoted himself to the restaurant. He remained with it until his death this past April.

"People call me all the time to see if the restaurant is still open since Mr. Hurd died," Mrs. Hurd said. "They don't realize this is my baby. It always was. I guess it will be here as long as I am and then some."

Unusual Location

Location of the restaurant should be a great handicap

but its patrons have always supported it even when the roads were impassable.

"I've seen the time when a big party would hire three wreckers to take the cars in and out after a big rain. The mud was so deep the roads were nothing but bogs. My customers used to take off their shoes and wade in and I would give them a big tub to wash their feet in."

From all these experiences has grown the eating place known as Hurd's. Last month the restaurant took one more step toward expansion. Two other Hurd daughters, Pat and Barbara, reopened the drive-in restaurant at Oceana, a move that already promises to be successful.

During the war the Navy paper wrote an editorial on the popular eating place. It ended by saying "Don't be discouraged when that narrow, winding road goes on and on. It eventually ends at Hurd's."

These area residents are shown as they deplaned recently after a delightful tour of Europe. Starting from the bottom of the landing ramp and moving up the ladder are Leo Hoarty, John Addenbrook, Mrs. Dale Witt, Mrs. Katherine Hardy, Mrs. Basil Duncan, Carlisle Echols, Temple Seay, Basil Duncan, Mrs. John E. ## Distributive Education Lists Its Aims, Purposes at P. A. High

PRINCESS ANNE — Distributive Education is a comparatively new subject. Started by Louise Bernard in 1937, D. E. has grown immensely in Virginia. Its aims and purposes at Princess Anne High School are:

1. To provide the club members with a means of learning the field of distribution and of their significance to community life.

2. To develop leaders among the members who will be capable of handling important responsibilities in the field of distribution both now and in the future.

3. To provide a means of integrating the Distributive Education program with other school groups through joint sponsorship of project and recreational and social activities.

4. To give the student respect for training and a desire to keep abreast of current developments in distribution through the use of the training facilities available in the community and after graduation.

5. To help the students to develop and understanding of their employer's and their employee's problems, in order that the students may actually contribute to the organization by which they are employed.

6. To put into practice the philosophy that in receiving money for service, merchandise or ideas, each Distributor's Club member will give of his best in time and effort so that both buyer and seller will benefit.

At Princess Anne High School there are four Distributive Education classes. Students are taught orientation, human, relations, selling, merchandise information, visual merchandising, management, and the three R's. Every D. E. member must hold a position in the field of distribution. This is to acquire first-hand, on-the-job training and to gain experience.

Every student who studies Distributive Education is a member of the D. E. Club. This club is not only a local organization, but of state and national membership. It is a professional organization which operates on strict parliamentary procedure.

Newly elected officers are: Billy Gentry, President; Sandra Irish, First Vice President and also DECA State Secretary; Mickey Baker, Second Vice President; Marie Herring, Secretary; Sandra Waterfield, Treasurer; Ro Sturtevant, Publicity Manager; Indie Flora, Historian; and Earl Jacobs, Sergeant-at-Arms. Mr. George Coffey is club sponsor.

For 1962...an all-new kind of Ford!

the car that's just right for just about everybody
right between Galaxie and Falcon

You've never seen anything like it, because there's never been anything like it... until today. On the outside the new Ford Fairlane 500 measures a quick 197 inches from stem to stern. A good foot shorter than the cars from which it borrowed its name, it calls the suggest parking places home. At the same time, every inch as big as some of the biggest Fords ever built.

The new Fairlane 500 is priced way under previous Fairlanes; it is well under many compacts. But Fairlane economy doesn't stop with a pretty price tag. It runs to amazing gas savings—with either the world's first economy V-8 or the nickel-nursing Fairlane Six. And routine service has been reduced to a minimum—30,000 miles on many items, only twice a year or 6,000 miles on the rest. And it adjusts its own brakes.

As the pace of life in our nation accelerates, so apparently does our crime rate. According to the F.B.I.'s latest annual report, crime is increasing four times faster than our population growth. There were four serious crimes committed every minute last year, and almost twice as many crimes were recorded in 1960 as a decade ago. Robbery and burglary, larceny theft, and auto theft, in particular, have maintained a steady upward trend, increasing 18%, 14% and 9% respectively in a year. Approximately three hundred million dollars in money and property was stolen last year, a large portion of which was taken from business establishments and residents.

Bay Colony Man Builds Unique Fallout Shelter

BAY COLONY—When Lee LeCompte was in the Boy Scouts and later the Coast Guard he was taught to "Be Prepared." Now as a husband, father and homeowner, he is applying the same motto to everyday life with the construction of one of this community's first fallout shelters.

Located on a lot adjacent to the LeCompte's two-year-old home at the corner of Bruton Lane and Windsor Road, the shelter will be used for storage, a tool shed as well as "playhouse" for the couple's seven-year-old daughter, Jane Burrows.

Like insurance

"The shelter is just like an insurance policy," LeCompte said. "We don't plan to use it but if we should need it it's there. Besides, we can sure use it as a hurricane shelter if we have another storm scare."

The decision to build the structure was entirely his, LeCompte said, but when he told his wife, Jane, about it she agreed.

"I used to scoff at the idea of a shelter. Then all the big-wigs in Washington began talking about the necessity of one. I decided they must know something I don't know about this world situation and made up my mind to build one."

LeCompte eyed a boat sitting in the yard that had been used only a few times and decided the boat could be sold to make way for the new fallout shelter. He contacted E. C. Womack in Norfolk about building it ("Some people can build their own with a do-it-yourself shelter package, but not me") and the project was underway. The outer shell is now completed and workmen this week started on the interior.

The shelter is made to offer protection against the millions of tons of pulverized earth and debris that is usually sucked up about 15 miles high in a fireball following a nuclear explosion and spread out over hundreds of miles as radioactive dust.

Costing about $2300, the shelter will accommodate six people and provides a basic equipment kit that contains enough essentials to keep the family comfortable for as long as 14 days.

The 8'x12' structure (inside dimensions; with overall 14'1" x18'1" dimensions) is built of 4"x8"x16" solid slab concrete blocks in the outer shell, supported by 2"x3 5/8" steel beams to assure adequate blast protection and has an inner shell of 24 and 28-gauge galvanized steel walls and ceiling.

Well Equipped

Equipment includes a government approved radiation detector; a 4 cell-6 volt battery-operated lantern for emergency lighting; a transistor-operated Conelrad radio; retractable rust-proof aluminum bunks with mildew and rot-proof saran and rayon bedding; a pressurized dry chemical extinguisher for fire protection; extra-strength all-steel shelving for storage; a first aid kit that will meet most medical emergencies; and a chemical toilet.

To encourage the building of structures, the county places no tax on the shelters and there is no building permit fee for their construction.

Francis Ashbury Bazaar Planned

The annual bazaar and dinner of the Francis Ashbury Methodist Church, now meeting in the John B. Dey school on Great Neck Road, is scheduled for Saturday, November 18, 1961. The bazaar and dinner will be in the school auditorium, and doors will open at 2:00 p.m. and close at 8:00 p.m.

This year the booths will consist of Christmas arrangements and decorations, needlecraft, books, bake table, fish pond and grab bags for the children, gift table, plant table, vanilla, spices, Christmas cards and candy. There will also be a country story and a table that is sure to delight the children on which popcorn balls and candy apples will be sold.

A turkey dinner with all the trimmings will be served between the hours of 5:00 p.m. and 8:00 p.m. Tickets are $1.00 each for adults and 60 cents for children and may be obtained from any Francis Ashbury Woman's Society member or may be purchased at the bazaar.

All proceeds from the bazaar and dinner will go toward the building fund. Francis Ashbury Methodist Church has only been in existence two years, and is currently engaged in a building program. The proposed sanctuary is under construction and in its earliest stages, but it is hoped the completion will come by February 1962. The Church is located across the road from the John B. Dey school on Great Neck Road, Reverend Edward J. Taylor, Minister.

idea at first," LeCompte said, "but now they are keenly interested in it. I feel so strongly about these shelters that I will be glad to advise anyone on them if they will just call me."

LeCompte is in the sales division of the Virginia Tractor Company, distributors of Caterpillar Tractors and Lorraine Cranes.

Notes from Your COUNTY AGENT

By E. R. "DICK" COCKRELL, JR.

She: "I don't have a thing to wear, if anyone new came over, they'd think I was the cook!"

He: "Not if they stayed for dinner."

Efficiency, Not Size Determines Farm Profits

A recent summary of records from seven cash grain farms enrolled in the VPI Electronic Farm Record Program indicates that profits come with efficiency of operation rather than size.

As a group the farm averaged 278 acres of crops. The five best farms had only 148 acres of crops while the two unprofitable operations averaged 604 acres. Size is no substitute for efficiency.

Net farm income of the seven farms averaged $1,330. The five smaller farms had an average net income of $3,341, while the largest two had a net loss of $3,699. The five smaller units were smaller in equipment investment, man equivalents, and acres of crops.

The two losing farms were the only ones with equipment investments of over $10,000. They averaged $35,862 each invested in equipment. The total group of seven farms averaged $14,690 in equipment, contrasted to the average of $6,222 for the five money-making farms. High equipment investments raise farm expenses due to depreciation and repair expenses.

The five most profitable farms, however, made efficient use of their machinery and averaged only 1.1 man-equivalents. They spent only two percent of their receipts, or $258 for hired labor.

IT'S THE SEASON FOR WEED

Don't wait until next spring to do battle with weeds in your alfalfa fields. Give special attention now to new fall seedlings of alfalfa.

Each year many new seedlings of alfalfa are ruined by weeds. Chemicals applied when the weeds are small will give effective control.

To control such winter annuals as shepherd's purse, wild mustard, field cress, storksbill, and henbit, apply dinitro at the rate of 1 to 1½ pounds in 30 gallons of water per acre. Use a boom type sprayer and be sure you get complete coverage.

If the weed situation is severe in your alfalfa, use the dinitro when five or more true leaves have developed on the alfalfa. The alfalfa will be temporarily injured, but will recover rapidly and completely.

If the main weed problem is chickweed, then you can use CIPC, but only after the alfalfa becomes dormant. Use 2 pounds (active ingredient) of CIPC in 20 gallons of water. This chemical also will control German moss, a problem in many eastern Virginia areas.

During the first full growing season, mixtures of orchard grass and legumes can be treated only with dinitro to control chickweed and other winter annuals. After one full growing year, it is safe to use CIPC on orchard grass—legume mixtures to control chickweed.

CIPC can be applied any time during the winter for effective control of chickweed. Apply dinitro when the temperature is above 50°, but not when the temperature is expected to go above 80°.

COMMERCIAL GILT SALE SCHEDULED FOR MARCH

It's not been easy for Virginia's commercial hog producers to locate and buy top quality commercial gilts for replacements in their herds. But steps are being taken to overcome this difficulty.

Plans have been made for a commercial gilt and spotlight boar sale to be held March 14, 1962, at Courtland. The sale will include as many top quality commercial open gilts as are available, and 40 to 50 purebred boars of the best quality produced in Virginia. Increased interest in improving breeding stock and increasing hog numbers in Virginia has created a likely demand for breeding animals for replacements and for

Also selling will be Angus & Hereford bull calves, grading Choice and Fancy, and with a minimum pre-weaning gain of 1.85 pounds per day non-creep fed basis.

Another, and a new feature, will be the sale of 180 Angus heifers and 80 Hereford heifers grading Choice and Fancy, and with an average daily gain of 1.8 pounds per day. About ¼ of them will be commercial heifers sold without registration papers.

Beef cattle performance testing Virginia has come a long way since its formal beginning in 1955. Now, 190 beef herds representing some 9,000 cows in the state are on the BCIA program. About ¾ of the herds are registered; the others are commercial.

Performance records, are, to some extent, changing the purebred cattle picture in the state. Breeders are finding it harder each year to sell purebred animals on the basis of pedigree only. Everyone is becoming conscious of weight-for-age, as well as quality and pedigree.

The real purpose of the purebred herd in the beef business is to furnish seed stock for commercial herds. Most of the seed stock is in bulls. BCIA members have for three years been selling high-indexing feed-tested bulls in the sales after the feed test at Culpeper. And many with records have been sold on the farm. Until now no females with complete performance records have been sold at auction. We think this is the next step in cattle merchandising in Va.

WATCH OUT FOR LAMBING DISEASE

With the lambing season approaching, sheepmen will be wise to be on the lookout for lambing disease. This condition is known by many other names, such as pregnancy toxemia, ketosis of the ewe, twin lambing disease, etc., but by any name it can cost the sheepman money.

Ewes with this disease, and in the latter stages of pregnancy, will appear dull and show little interest in food. Affected ewes often appear blind and do not move when approached. On being touched or pushed, the ewe may stagger and then fall down.

Muscular spasm and convulsions may result, ending in

A THANKSGIVING MESSAGE

Rev. John David Keister
Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd

It is a common notion that possessing a lot of enjoyable things makes us thankful. But that is not so! A child is often spoiled by having too much. But a child with little can cherish what he has. Or a rich child can be grateful, and a poor child can be hard and unfeeling.

How do we become thankful? Gratitude cannot be forced. You cannot turn it on and off like a spigot. Gratitude is spontaneous, and not an act of will.

If, then, gratitude is not the result of material plenty, or self-produced "inner" feelings, where does it come from?

What is the secret of gratitude?

Gratitude—A Relationship

Perhaps a clue can be found in the experiences of life. Lovers often have deep appreciation. When they are together, life has a luster. A meal tastes better, a sunset is more beautiful, the stars are brighter. Because their lives are intertwined, their span of consciousness is widened, their awareness is deepened. Gratitude is kindled.

This often happens when we are with children. Our enjoyment and appreciation goes beyond its normal span. I have long outgrown blocks and teddy bears, but when I am playing with my three-year-old David and my five-year-old Kathy, I enjoy blocks and teddy bears. When we go for a walk and discover toads and dandelions, I have deepened wonder and gratitude because I see through their eyes.

Emerson found the clue: "O friend . . . through thee alone the sky is arched, through thee the rose is red, all things through thee take nobler form." Through bonds with family, neighbors, friends, children, we become thankful.

The Highest Relationship
If oneness with other people excites our gratitude, this is but a stepping stone to a higher oneness. In the novel "The Diary of a Country Priest," a young priest, is fatally stricken with cancer. A friend is about to rush off in panic fearing there would be no time for last rites. With his last breath, the priest says: "Does it matter? Grace is everywhere."

We live in the all-enveloping Providence. The air we breathe, the food we eat, the talent and strength by which we earn a living, the sleep which renews our body—what is all this but the strong hand of the maker. The face of Jesus, the presence of His Spirit in our heart, the desire to love, the moment of beauty, the fellowship of the goodly company, the hour of prayer, the release of forgiveness—what is this but the sweet breathe God.

No Unshared Gratitude
Is there a final clue? In the novel by Boris Pasternak, Dr. Zhivago is with his family in Moscow during the revolution. There is a terrible famine. By an unbelievable circumstance, the family has gotten hold of some duck and vodka. "The saddest thing of all was that their party was a kind of betrayal. You could not imagine anyone in the houses across the street eating or drinking in the same way at the same time. Beyond the windows lay silent, dark, hungry Moscow . . . and so it turned out that only a life similar to the life of those around us, merging with it without a ripple, is genuine life, and that unshared happiness is not happiness, so that duck and vodka, when they seem to be the only ones in town, are not even duck and vodka."

Unshared happiness is not happiness. And unshared gratitude is not gratitude. Can we sit down to our bulging Thanksgiving table, give thanks, and not share? Can we rejoice in our plenty when in our world, as Lucius Trent has said: "Children are chalk-faced and hunger-thinned and the hawk of death rides high on every wind." To know God as Father is to know our fellow man as brother. To know the good things of life come from God is to know they are intended for all his children.

As we share, we become more thankful.

Mystery Solved

What is the secret of gratitude? It is not what we possess that makes us grateful. It is what we appreciate with others . . . what we appreciate before God . . . and what we share.

Will it be a Thanksgiving Day?

Education Is Key TVDC Told

Education is a number one requirement in attracting industry to an area members of the executive committee of the Tidewater Virginia Development Council were told at a regional meeting held in the Thunderbolt Motor Lodge here last Thursday night.

Richard C. Holmquist, former plant site hunter for the General Electric Co., said here Thursday night that educational facilities were "No. 1" on the requirement list for half of the last 10 plants he helped locate.

Holmquist, recently named executive director of the Virginia Industrial Group, spoke at the 7th of eight regional meetings of the Tidewater Virginia Development Council's executive committee.

Turning his attention to Virginia Beach and vicinity, the industrial expert said the area not only shows growth in recent years, but also shows "the potential to grow even more and faster."

He said there is a good balance in this metropolitan community, and a "good plan" is necessary to retain that balance. He said agriculture and recreation are balancing factors.

Dr. Joseph S. Johnston, Norfolk District Superintendent of The Methodist Church, officiated at the special service held at 9:30 a.m. at the Plaza Bowl.

Special music was furnished by the church choir, under the direction of Ham Meador. The newly-organized Quarterly Conference voted to continue receiving charter members until January 1.

The Rev. Whitehurst was appointed to serve as pastor of the Princess Anne Plaza church at the Virginia Annual Conference meeting at Virginia Beach in June. During the summer he made a survey of the Princess Anne Plaza and Malibu communities in preparation for the beginning services.

NEW CHARTER ADVERTISED IN MERGER PLAN

The necessary legal machinery has been set in motion for the consolidation of the City of Virginia Beach and the County of Princess Anne and the proposal is expected to be brought to a vote of the people on January 4, 1962.

Several days ago both governing bodies of the two political subdivisions approved the proposed charter for the new city and that charter is currently being advertised the required four weeks. (It appears in this issue of the Sun-News.)

Upon completion of the advertising of the charter, Princess Anne Circuit Court is expected to set a date for the referendum. The January 4 date has been requested by Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County.

Last week officials of Virginia Beach and the county met with Norfolk City officials at a luncheon at the invitations of the Norfolk City Council.

Through Norfolk Mayor W. Fred Duckworth a delay in the beach-county merger movement was sought. However, Sidney S. Kellam, speaking for this area, said: "Fortune knocks but once. After that he send his daughter, Misfortune."

"So, the luncheon meeting resulted in a polite 'no delay' as the part of the beach and county in their consolidation drive. Since that meeting, however, forces here have set up regular headquarters and have announced that a speakers bureau has been formed. Any groups seeking speakers on the merger should contact the headquarters. The office is located at the corner of 19th street and Arctic avenue."

The proposed charter would have the new city divided into seven boroughs and would provide for a council-manager form of government.

Princess Anne Beats Warwick 16-6

LYNNHAVEN — Those two incomparable Princess Anne sophomores, Buster O'Brien and Charles Carr, led the Cavaliers to a 16-6 football victory over Warwick Friday night. This triumph in the Burian Bowl was the seventh in succession for Princess Anne.

On Tuesday Coach Pete Sacchon and his operatives bid for the most successful season in school history. The opposition here at Cox Stadium will be provided by unbeaten Oscar Smith.

Against Warwick O'Brien and Carr figured in all the scoring. O'Brien, the quarterback, scored once and passed to Carr for a second touchdown. In between Carr kicked a 33-yard field goal. The latter also added a conversion kick.

Warwick, beaten now five times in nine games, averted a shutout when Frank Emanuel intercepted a pass with 40 seconds left and ran 55 yards into the end zone. This 190-pound senior, an outstanding player all night at guard, stole three passes and recovered a Princess Anne fumble.

Fumbles dotted the early going. Warwick received the kick off, and with Buddy Kays leading the way moved to the Princess Anne 42, before bobbling away the ball. Tim Barrow recovered. The Cavaliers struck back to the Warwick 13 only to fumble themselves. And Emanuel was the man on the ball.

But on the last play of the first period Henry Harrell recovered a Warwick fumble at the Farmer three. Two plays later O'Brien went over from the one. Carr converted and the 7-0 lead held up through the second quarter.

Clock Watcher

Nothing in the world is more discouraging than a guest who doesn't know when to go home... especially if you have to get up as early as Chub Jackson, our local milkman.

Last week, poor Chub and his misus were entertaining a distant cousin from Center City who just wouldn't call it a night. The later it got, the more he talked, and the more unhappy Chub got.

But Chub finally found a way to shut him up. Just as his cousin started another long tale with, "And that reminds me of the time..." Chub jumped right up and said, "Good, you're right! It is getting late!"

From where I sit people who have respect and consideration for other folks' feelings never entertain their welcome. One of my neighbors, for example, prefers other beverages to beer, yet when he drops over he never objects if I have a glass of beer while he enjoys his coffee. It's thoughtfulness like this that keeps friendships from "icing out."

NAS Oceana Civilian League
We had a change in 1st place position tonight. Thompson's Amoco lost 3 to the Phantoms, and the Hellcats took 4 over the Skyways which puts them in first place by 1 pt. The girls in this league did some fine bowling tonight. Gloria Waters rolled 192 for a 490 set, while Melva Grimstead rolled a big 510 set. Edie Onley also had a nice 482, and Gloria Brown hit for a big 493. The ladies really outdid the men tonight.

Kinnach Bowling League
No changes for these men tonight. Skyriders are still in front. High sets were rolled by Denny Fular with 597 and Phil Hendy with 565. Had some good 200 games bowled. Phil Hendy had 227, Denny Fular had 215, John Poquette had 205 and Ed Greebien had 202.

Town & County Ladies
With only one more week of bowling left in this round it couldn't get closer. W B O F moved in front place by winning 3 pts. over Hirtz TV. Now D. E. Bonney and Hirtz TV are tied for 2nd place. There is only 1 pt. difference, so it's still anybody's ball game and next week will be the deciding factor. Ruth Henke, bowling on Hilltop Market Team rolled high set with 516, while Lorraine Kadas had high game of 198, also for Hilltop Market. Annette Long had a nice 494 set for Atlantic Fuel Oil Co.

Thursday, Nov. 30th marks the beginning of a two-week bowling clinic for the ladies. Starting at 10 a.m. there will be qualified instructors here to meet with the ladies and assist them in the game of bowling. The cost for the two weeks will be only $1, which includes nursery service, bowling equipment and two games of bowling. Any one wishing more information, just call us here at the Thunderbird. Hope many of the ladies will take advantage of this clinic. There will be free door prizes given each week, plus we will start your morning right with some coffee and donuts.

PLAZA BOWL
Johnnie's Girls League
Bowling started a little late this afternoon while they rescued a black and white striped cat from the ball return! You just never know who you'll see at the bowling lanes these days. Bay Jewelers took 4 pts. from The Jokers thanks to JoAnn Neathery rolling a 170-142-144 456 set. Cecelia Russell, sub for the Alley Cats helped her team to take 3 pts. from the Sleepers by rolling a 394 set. The Navettes took 4 points from the Lazy Four. Alice Rodes was in rare form again rolling a 181-163-151—495 set for the Navettes. Barbara Reeves of the Lazy Four had a 413 set. Nice rolling, girls. The Queen Bees took 4 pts. from the King Pins. Lorraine Spadoni of the Queen Bees rolled a 392 set to help her team win.

Giving Thanks At Thanksgiving

Thursday is Thanksgiving and among other things it will mark the beginning of another of our long holiday weekend celebrations. For some of us it will mean making a trip, probably driving over the highways. For others it will mean preparing for old friends to visit. For most it marks a time of hustle and bustle climaxed by the traditional turkey dinner that is the American Thanksgiving.

From the time of the very first Thanksgiving, the day has been one of feasting. More than any other symbol, the Pilgrim realized an abundance of food spread upon the table reflected God's grace in granting survival.

Today, America's blessed abundance of food reaches far beyond our family tables. We should remember that there are many people in the world who do not enjoy this abundance. We should count our blessings and seek ways to let other people share our abundance.

Thanksgiving is not a time to give thanks merely for material things. We should place real meaning in the word and give thanks to God for all our blessings.

We would like to take this opportunity to extend to all our citizens the wish for a happy and joyful Thanksgiving. We are indeed thankful living in these times and in this wonderful country.

Beach-County Has Close Ties

Many questions and much comment has been provoked by the proposed merger or consolidation of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County. To us it is the most natural thing in the world and a merger that should come off in an easy fashion.

The beach and county through the years have had a close and cordial relationship and the merger will merely be a legal step that will legally make the two areas one and the same.

In a sense the county and city have been merged for a long time. They share many offices and many services are performed on a reciprocal basis. The same courts at Princess Anne serve both the city and the county. The office of sheriff is shared by both localities and the two school systems are closely related.

For instance, many members of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce are from the county area. Both county and city residents have been working together for years for the common good of the whole area.

So, the merger of the two will merely make it official. The feeling of togetherness has been quite evident for a long time.

Our Changing Economic Face

Financial columnist Sylvia Porter tells us that in a mere 10 years the number of people owning shares in our corporations has skyrocketed two-and-a-half times. There were 6.6 million of these people when the New York Stock Exchange made its first census of shareholders in 1952. When the current census is completed and released next spring the total is expected to be 16 million and perhaps more.

Miss Porter cites a number of interesting facts that this new census has so far unearthed. Women shareholders outnumber men by 53 per cent to 47 per cent—the all-time high margin. The age of shareholders is dropping, with the average about 48, and that of new owners 35 or less. There has been a great increase in the importance of employee stock purchasing plans—one out of five companies listed on the New York exchange has a plan of this kind. And while New York, as is to be expected, has the largest shareholding population, massive growth has occurred all around the country, in Florida, California, and so on.

The average shareholder is certainly not rich. He's in the middle-income group, with an income in the $8,000 bracket. The average shareholder's income is somewhat less—$7,000-plus.

Miss Porter characterizes the growth in shareownership as "a remarkable financial revolution which is changing the economic face of America." We are witnessing the expansion of "people's capitalism" on an unprecedented scale. It is the opposite of "government capitalism," which is actually socialism.

PRESBYTERIAN CHOR TO SING DECEMBER 3rd

The Senior Choir of the First Presbyterian Church of Virginia Beach, assisted by the Junior Choir, will present the second annual performance of Handel's "The Messiah" on Sunday afternoon, December 3, at 5 p.m. in the sanctuary at 36th and Pacific Ave.

The Rev. Henry Morgan, minister of the church, will conduct the oratorio, and Mrs. Irene A. Korte, choir director and organist, will accompany.

New Doctors Building Here Prepares For Opening

This is the new Doctors Building located in the 400 block of 25th Street here that is scheduled to open soon. The new medical center will have offices for five doctors. The building was designed by T. David FitzGibbon, AIA, and was built by Fred A. Haycox Co. (Photo by Boice)

CANCER

More progress has been made against cancer of the uterus than any other site, with the death rate cut in half over the last 25 years.

During the same period, lung cancer in men has increased more rapidly than any other cause of death—almost 500%.

The American Cancer Society and the National Cancer Institute have designated 1962 as Cancer Progress Year in recognition of 25 years of progress against the disease.

tors, and "they will be destroyed if they don't watch it."

Robert O. Gill, director of the industrial development section of the Virginia Department of Conservation and Economic Development, praised the TVDC for its fact-gathering work, which he said provides hunters of industrial plant sites with what they need.

Sidney S. Kellam, regional vice-president of the TVDC, presided at the dinner meeting of the council's executive committee.

The Rev. P. Rowland Wagner, pastor emeritus of Central Baptist Church in Norfolk, will be the guest speaker.

Virginia Cruise Sets February Date For 1962

NORFOLK—Next year's Virginia Cruise to the Caribbean is scheduled to leave Norfolk on February 17 aboard the S. S. STATENDAM of the Holland-America Line, it was announced recently by J. Rives Worsham, president of the Virginia Cruise Corporation.

Seven ports of call are scheduled for the two-week cruise. Ports of call include San Juan, Puerto Rico; St. Thomas, Virgin Islands; St. Lucia, Grenada and Trinidad, all in the British West Indies; Curacao, Netherlands Antilles; and Cap Haitien, Haiti. The cruise is scheduled to return to Norfolk on March 3.

Sightseeing tours at all ports of call are being arranged by cruise authorities.

The 1962 Caribbean cruise will be the 18th cruise or tour sponsored by the Virginia Cruise Corporation since it was organized in 1951. The first Virginia Cruise was made aboard the S. S. NIEUW AMSTERDAM of the Holland-America Line in 1951 and called at the Caribbean ports of Curacao, Caracas, Venezuela, and Kingston, Jamaica.

Although advance reservations for the 1962 cruise are heavy, the reservation office reports that space is still available, if interested parties act promptly.

The S.S. STATENDAM is completely air-conditioned and cruise authorities claim "that cuisine aboard Holland-America Line ships ranks with the world's best."

The Virginia Cruise Corporation was chartered as a non-profit corporation in 1951 to demonstrate the feasibility of

Post Office Will Distribute Livestock Survey Cards Dec. 1

Acting Postmaster Joseph T. Crosswhite, Jr., announced today that Rural Mail Carriers and Star Route Contractors will begin distributing December 1, 1961 Livestock Survey Cards to farmer patrons on their routes about November 22.

This is the third of three regular surveys made with farmer patrons each year through the cooperation of your Post Office and the Department of Agriculture. The first was a June 1 livestock survey and the second was a September acreage survey.

The December 1 survey provides the Virginia Cooperative Crop Reporting Service in Richmond with basic information for estimating the number of cattle and calves, hogs and pigs, sheep and lambs, and chicken on farms at the end of the year. In addition to end-of-year inventory counts, the number of milk cows, the calf crop, the wool crop, fall sows farrowed and pigs saved and plans for spring farrowing are also determined from information obtained from the December 1 livestock survey.

This is a sample survey and only a small number of farmers will receive a survey card. To assure that your community is operating passenger services from Virginia ports. It is composed of the Twenty-first Street Business Area Association of Norfolk, the Norfolk Port and Industrial Authority and the Va. State Chamber of Commerce.

Management of the cruise is vested in the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce at 611 E. Franklin St., Richmond. Mrs. Roberta D. Aiken is in charge of reservations.

Prayer of thanksgiving

SLOWLY, WITH FERVENT FEELING.

"The day passed so quickly — there just wasn't time!"

We've said that about many days. Never say it about Thanksgiving.

For it isn't true . . .

All days pass at the same steady pace. We have the same daily portion of time—to spend as we think best.

Take time to be thankful.

And be thankful for time!

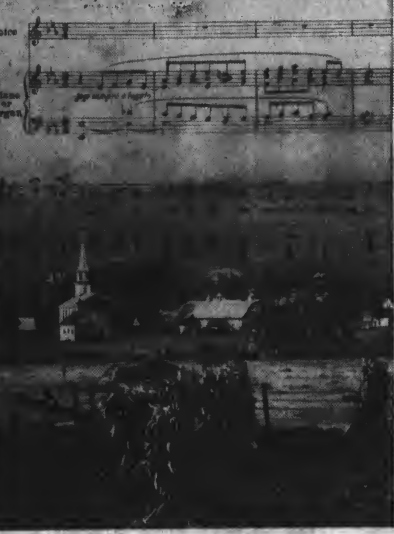

Our souls do not realize their destiny in one hurrying leap.

An hour of thanksgiving. An hour of worship.

An hour of Bible study. An hour of service for our Church. Thus we grow . . . SLOWLY, WITH FERVENT FEELING.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor in each for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a schoolhouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Visit to Nice, France Highlights European Trip

(This is the fifth of several stories by Mrs. Dale Fairless Witt, presently touring Europe with the Virginia Beach Travel Service - WBOF sponsored "Europe in Autumn" tour, reporting on building trends and other interests in various key cities. Mrs. Witt took the trip in her position as president of Home Builders Women's Auxiliary and as a consultant for Viking Construction Corp., builders of King's Grant.)

By DALE FAIRLESS WITT

Our arrival from Geneva to Nice was very comfortable and again a very modern, clean airport with very little inconvenience, as far as customs or baggage, with all its modern equipment.

Our local guide met us and all 24 pieces of baggage were accounted for. By the way, traveling trick that John Addenbrook used certainly helped, and could be used by all individuals traveling. This was marking all baggage with identifying color strip tags, put on baggage cards. These were yellow with two bright blue stripes, which made possible quick identification, & throughout the whole trip only one bag was misplaced temporarily. When I got home, it out for colored luggage tags!

We drove along the blue, blue, blue, Mediterranean to the hotel and the one side looked like Miami Beach, with its swish modern, apartments and hotels; while on the other was the long promenade, which on a warmer day would be filled with sunbathers. The beach of tiny rocks didn't look too comfortable but scattered here and there were several bodies in bikinis.

Stayed at the Plaza Hotel and our room had a balcony overlooking the main square of Nice, France, and a view of the bay. What a sight to see upon arriving at sunset! Our guide arranged immediately for me to have a rental car with the agency next to the hotel, as all I had been thinking about for the last two stops was to get out and drive. A robin egg blue, Carravale convertible, with 4 gears, many buttons, unusual lights, for $10.00 per day. Not to let any of the time get away from us, Janet Borre, John Adenbrook, and I (at the wheel) I told them I had never driven such a car after they got into it (John is still shaking) and then as we started into the traffic and on our way to Antibes and Cannes, we really ran into difficulties as everyone kept honking their lights, (which means to me, a policeman around the corner or radar). Many miles later, I caught on that everyone else was driving with their lights off and the only time they put them on was to make noise at me or when they approached an intersection. . . . At least they do drive on the right side of the road.

Antibes reminded us of Greenwich Village, full of beatniks and artists, with its many little winding streets full of bearded characters and gals with long flowing hair. On to Cannes and as we got on a thruway by mistake, really made time (no lights of course). By the time we arrived at Cannes and after reading all the ads for COMPARE, that is what we had Janet said "good". I said "ugh" and John was too nervous to care. . . . He drove us back to Nice.

Riviera Coast
The next day, in order to not miss a minute, we were up very early and having our coffee out on our terrace as the sun came up over the mountain and off (driving) to Monaco by 8:30. Much easier driving in the daylight! And what a contrast! As we drove along the "Cote D'Azur" (as the Riviera coast is called) with many shades of blue; it was a beautiful day and Janet Borre tuned in her transistor; so we were riding along to the strains of "Alexander's Ragtime Band!" Everywhere in Europe we heard American music, but this seemed a little incongruous. All roads from Nice lead to Monaco it seems, but we took the low road which at times seemed a mile high, when we looked down to the surf breaking on the rocks below us, or up to the top of the rocky cliffs.

Everywhere, especially in Monaco, which is such a tiny country, you see modern homes clinging to the side of the mountains. Construction, here again, of masonry with very little wood. The only thing to mar the beauty was the initials burned into the walls everywhere by the French Moreccans. The drive took us about 25 minutes longer than the natives find sure, as we were so busy looking and taking pictures (I took over 600 color pictures with my Leica). All the roads are so well marked, traveling is easy, and everywhere the policemen are so cordial — even if you're wrong, they doff their hats and motion you on.

Up a winding road from the business section of Monaco, about four square blocks lead to THE CASTLE and here, when they aren't traveling, live Princess Grace and her King. So much has been written of their life that little could be added, but we did visit the Oceanic Museum, walked in the garden along the cliffs, and then visited the church where they were married. Here we witnessed a most touching scene. As Janet was not Catholic, she preferred to walk down a side aisle while I said my little prayer for my family. While we were in the church, a young couple holding hands entered and walked hand in hand to the altar and then over to the burning candles for the Blessed Virgin. Here they lighted a candle and then kissed. Janet and I walked out with tears in our eyes (one of those rare moments you catch) and then the anti-climax! As they walked down the steps of the church, the girl reached into her purse and turned on her transistor, and out came the loudest blasting rock and roll I've ever heard. Europe's fascination is probably everywhere you see this: the blending of the old customs with the new, whether it's in houses, dress, language, or customs. We found out later that this is the way they became formally engaged to be married.

As we had a busy day, we didn't see Monte Carlo, but hurried back over the low road to Nice and on to a southern route we had planned. Our first stop was on the road from Venice to the Sea at Renoirs Home, where he painted many of his famous works. Very primitive and high on the side of a hill, with many grape vines and flower beds looking out a magnificent view of the "Cote D'Azur". As our immediate destination was the village of Venice, we continued on the winding road from the sea. This is where we took the picture of the cemeteries—a story in itself—with all of the elaborate statuary, carvings, and all above ground in the side of the mountain.

Geraniums in Bloom
The only way to see Venice is by foot, with its narrow (4 ft. wide) streets and rough cobblestone. By now my black ripple soled shoes have stretched two sizes, but still move in the right direction when pointed. Janet and I wandered in and out of galleries, only looking, as no one understood us anyway (must study French), in and out of antique shops, and just plain looked at picturesque old old ladies, knitting or smoking a pipe, along the way in the courtyard; the children, as everywhere look so healthy! Hunger forced us to look for chocolate, which we had on a balcony overlooking the valley with its geraniums everywhere. In fact in Switzerland, Denmark, Vienna, and France, the beautiful colored geraniums in full bloom are everywhere you look.

One artist, "Isabel", we visited through an interpreter in her studio, told us she was planning on exhibiting in the United States next spring in San Francisco. She was most gracious and to us appeared very talented, about mid-fifty in age.

We had planned to visit Grasse, where the perfumes of France get their oils, but as it was late we only had time for a glimpse of St. Raphael, a monastery, and back to Nice and into our best finery.

Bedecked in our scarps of mink, black cocktail dresses and rhinestones (no diamonds lying around loose), Janet, John and I started for Monte Carlo. I drove because I had the International Drivers License issued by AAA. We took the same route to Monaco, but at night to look down, it looked like a million pearls of lights strung along the way and to look up, the hillside was dotted with lights for nearly every square inch.

Bowling in Monaco

We had dinner at a very fine restaurant in Monaco and then on to the Casino. You must pay admission and show your passport. Most of the games looked very complicated and not being a gambler, I left the crap table to Janet and John; they didn't stay long at these either. Then we discovered adjacent to the gambling casino, four new bowling lanes had just been installed and since bowling had been non-existent in the countries or cities we had visited so far, we decided to bowl. It must be very new, as the French men that were bowling had a bucket of champagne by the score table, kept no score, but did take time out for champagne and stops and marks, and curved balls, etc., meant nothing to them. We bowled in our usual way and did keep score, stuffy, eh? But fun, because I beat John A.

Early the next morning another plane and another country to say hello to. This was our roughest flight and we stopped at Barcelona, changed planes, and on to Madrid.

GREAT NECK—John B. Dey, Elementary School Principal Bruce McGuire is a quiet, slightly serious man with an easy manner who is quick to speak out on one thing . . . education is his chosen field, he loves it and "wouldn't change one thing" even if he could.

"I live in a world of women," he laughed. "The teachers here at school and my wife and young daughter at home. That's a wonderful life for a man."

Having served the first two of his seven years in education as a teacher (Princess Anne High School history classes), McGuire can well appreciate the problems elementary teachers face today.

Need Time

Time is perhaps the greatest problem, he said. "As a matter of fact, I believe the greatest problem in education itself is finding time to include all the things a child needs."

"A teacher realizes a child could learn more than he is getting if she had the time to offer it. Eventually I believe we will have foreign languages in the elementary schools but when that happens something else will have to give way. There just is not enough time for a teacher to do all these things."

McGuire went on to point out that he did not believe the 12-month school term was the answer to this problem for chances are such a change in the school set-up would cause many added problems.

First of all the student would not be receptive to studies during the summer months when they customarily would be on vacation. Second, the teachers need the summer months to brush up on college courses. And third, many changes, such as air conditioning, would have to be made in the school buildings.

"Someday we may go to a 12-

month school term," he said, "but I certainly don't see it in the near future."

Creativity in the schools is one of the greatest advancements made in education in the past 20 years, McGuire said. "Today the teacher is urged to be creative in classroom procedure, a far cry from the days when the teacher taught strictly by the book, never varying her delivery. Students also are encouraged to express themselves creatively. This is all very healthy."

Special Programs

Because the teachers are more creative today, the principal, the students are becoming more individualistic. John B. Dey School, for instance, has some eight or nine classes

Thanksgiving Day, again—My wish for you is a wonderful day with your family. Whatever your plans, have a good time!

After this happy holiday is over, we must settle down to the realization Christmas is only a few weeks away, so let's plan some of the tasks at hand.

First, we must prepare good, wholesome meals for the family. Cold days call for a really tempting meat dish. How about Barbecued Meat Loaves?

Here's extra goodness in meat loaves. It's ground beef that plays the leading role. Ground beef is one of the homemaker's most popular meat choices, according to Reba Staggs, home economist well versed in the field of meat and meat cookery.

Probably its most important role is found in that of the ever popular hamburger — meat loaf also comes in for its share of honors as it highlights ground beef as well as other ground meats.

Individual Barbecued Meat Loaves certainly is a creation which gives due honor to ground beef.

Individual Barbecued Meat Loaves
1 pound ground beef
1/4 pound bulk pork sausage
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons chopped onion
2 tablespoons finely chopped celery
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 cup corn flakes
1 egg, beaten
1/2 cup tomato sauce
Mix all ingredients and shape into 5 small meat loaves about 2 1/2 x 3 1/2 inches. Place loaves in a shallow baking dish, allowing about an inch between loaves. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) 30 minutes. Spoon about 2 tablespoons Barbecue Sauce over top of each meat loaf. Return to oven and bake 10 minutes. Yield: 5 servings.

Barbecue Sauce
1/2 cup tomato sauce
1 small clove garlic, minced
1 tablespoon brown sugar
1 teaspoon vinegar
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Combine all ingredients in a small saucepan. Simmer 5 to 10 minutes.

WHAT? Deviled Sweetbreads
... M... GOOD!
Don't be surprised. Give this variety meat specialty, Deviled Sweetbreads, a try. Serve them to your family. It'll be a challenge, but undoubtedly your family will be asking for seconds.

Reba Staggs, meat expert and home economist, advocates the use of variety meats in adding diversity to the weekly menus and in furnishing nutrients in extraordinary amounts.

But how are they prepared? The sweetbreads are first cooked in water to which a small amount of vinegar or lemon juice has been added. Allow 1 tablespoon vinegar for each quart of water. Simmer about 20 minutes. Then they are broken into small pieces and coated with a spicy mixture of Worcestershire sauce, paprika, dry mustard and egg yolk. Crushed corn flakes complete the formal attire before the sweetbreads are deep-fat fried.

Deviled Sweetbreads
1 pound sweetbreads
1 quart water
1 tablespoon lemon juice or vinegar
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons vinegar
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1/8 teaspoon paprika
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 egg yolks
3 tablespoons melted butter
1/2 cup finely crushed corn flakes
Lard for deep-fat frying
Place sweetbreads, water, 1 tablespoon lemon juice or vinegar and 1 teaspoon salt in a saucepan. Cover and simmer 20 minutes. Drain and remove membrane. Break into 2-inch pieces. Mix together 2 teaspoons vinegar, Worcestershire sauce, paprika, mustard, pepper, 1 teaspoon salt and egg yolks. Add melted butter. Dip sweetbread pieces first into egg yolk mixture, then in crushed corn flakes. Fry in deep lard (300° F.) until browned, about 2 minutes. Drain on absorbent paper. Serve immediately. Yield: 4 servings.

PREMIER BEEF AND YORKSHIRE PUDDING SOON
There is nothing quite so classic as a Standing Rib Roast of Beef and Yorkshire Pudding for a New Year's Day celebration.

The English carry-over of this famous custom is even popular in homes which do not boast of English heritage.

This meat cut, the standing rib roast of beef, is characterized by many as a "royal entree." To some, it's an entire used only for special occasions.

Reba Staggs, home economist and critic of cooking customs, comments that Yorkshire Pudding is almost a "must" as a standing rib roast of beef accompaniment. Easily prepared from the drippings of the standing rib, the Yorkshire Pudding tradition has been brought across the ocean and now is firmly rooted in many an American home as typical family fare.

A standing rib roast of beef is simply prepared by placing the roast, rib ends down, on a rack in an open roasting pan. For a roast that's juicy and tender, roast the meat in a 300° F. oven. Roast the meat at this temperature throughout the cooking period.

Cook to the desired degree of doneness, allowing approximately 18 to 20 minutes per pound for rare, 22 to 25 minutes for medium and 27 to 30 minutes for well done.

YORKSHIRE PUDDING
1 cup sifted enriched flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
2 eggs
3 tablespoons beef drippings
Sift together flour and salt. Add milk gradually, stirring to form smooth paste. Beat eggs and add to mixture. Remove roast, pour off drippings from roasting pan and measure back 3 tablespoons. Pour in batter. Bake in a moderately hot oven (400° F.) for 30 to 40 minutes. Cut into squares and serve around meat. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

Your Social Security
In order to speed up your claim, perhaps the most important proof you should bring with you when you come in to file application for social security benefits is proof of age.

There are various old records or documents that can be used as proof of age. If no original birth registration record is available (which generally is the case with older people), such records or documents as old insurance policies, old family Bible records written in ink, marriage certificates, children's birth certificates, and so forth, may be used.

If none of the above are available, you can write to the Bureau of the Census in Pittsburgh, Kansas, and request a census search. Your social security office will be glad to furnish the request form and give assistance in completing it, if necessary.

When proof of death is required, this may be either a death certificate or a statement of death completed by the funeral home. The Social Security Administration provides a special form for the funeral director to use.

If there are children under 18, you should bring certified birth certificates of the children (not uncertified photostatic copies of birth certificates).

A widow must bring a copy of the marriage certificate, which may be received from the register of deeds (or other custodian if the marriage took place in another state). If her husband had worked for wages, she should bring in a copy of his last W-2 Form also; and if he was self-employed, she should bring in a copy of his last year's income tax return, just like the one he sent to Internal Revenue, and also the proof of payment of the self-employment tax. If it was paid by check, this should be the cancelled check — if by money order, the money order stub; or the receipt given by Internal Revenue if the tax was paid directly to that agency.

noted at most sales this fall. Most of the replacement demand was for heifers grading choice and fancy. Heifers prices have held up remarkably well this season. However, the spread in price between steers and heifers will probably be over $4 per cwt. when the final figures are in.

Another factor on the demand side of the picture should not be overlooked. Many cattle feeders, particularly in the corn belt area, have a large investment in mechanized feeding facilities. For instance, one cattleman buying calves in Virginia last week has over $80,000 invested in a mechanized feeding set-up which will feed over 300 head of cattle in less than 15 minutes. There are many more like him and most of them think they cannot afford to let their set-up stay idle. Others are simply optimistic about general economic conditions and the outlook for fat cattle prices next year. No one will really know for several months whether or not feeder cattle prices were as they should have been this fall.

LEARN LESSON FROM LAST YEAR

Heavy snows during the months of February and March the last two winters led to heavy damage to oats in some parts of Virginia.

Actually, the culprit was halo blight, a disease caused by a bacterium. Until 1959 halo blight had been observed only as a minor leaf blighting disease.

However, with the heavy snows apparently predisposing some oat varieties to the disease, halo blight emerged as a killer. It affected not only the leaves, but the crowns of oats and in some cases led to the winter killing of the affected plants.

Damage was most noticeable in the northern Piedmont and Coastal Plain areas. Differences

McGuire "migrated" from the hills of North Carolina, from a small town called Brevard, to the sand dunes of Virginia Beach through the encouragement of Miss Louise Luxford, elementary school supervisor.

"She conducted a recruiting program for teachers at Wake Forest College and I was so impressed I interviewed for a position here. I believe a school system reflects in the person who represents it. I was so impressed with Miss Luxford I knew I would enjoy working with her school system."

Having received his BA degree from Wake Forest College, McGuire went on and received his masters degree from the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg. He served as assistant principal at Oceana School for two years before taking the top position at John B. Dey three years ago.

The boyish-looking young principal lives in Laurel Manor with his wife, Lorraine, and their 2½-year-old daughter, Laurie. Here the well-kept yard reflects the hobby of its owner. "I like to dig in the earth with my hands. It's an outlet for me. What is it they say about you can take the boy out of the country but you can't take the country out of the boy? I guess that's me. Most of the things I plant and replant live a n d thrive so I guess you might call me a successful gardener."

were noted in the resistance of various oat varieties to the disease.

Of recommended varieties, Arlington, Atlantic, Bronco, Forkeddeer, Fullwood, Lee, and Moregrain proved susceptible. Woodgrain was intermediate in susceptibility, and Dubois and Victrograin 48-93 was resistant.

In commercial fields of oats, Arlington was the most severely affected variety observed.

As the pace of life in our nation accelerates, so apparently does our crime rate. According to the F.B.I.'s latest annual report, crime is increasing four times faster than our population growth. There were four serious crimes committed every minute last year, and almost twice as many crimes were recorded in 1960 as a decade ago. Robbery and burglary, larceny theft, and auto theft, in particular, have maintained a steady upward trend, increasing 18%, 14% and 9% respectively in a year. Approximately three hundred million dollars in money and property was stolen last year, a large portion of which was taken from business establishments and residents.

First Gopher (in trap): "The traps on this course are quite annoying, aren't they?"
Second gopher (trying to putt): "They sure are, Would you mind closing yours?"

FEED CALVES ACCORDING TO THEIR DESTINY

One beef calf's main course may be only an appetizer for another calf.

This means that a farmer must know what he plans to do with his calves next spring, and feed them accordingly. There are several options, and only the individual stockman can determine his goal.

For instance, one may wish to turn his calves out on grass and sell them the following fall. In this case most likely he will be content to put about 100 lbs. of additional weight on the calves.

Or, he may want to sell them in the spring. If so, he should try to put on an additional 200 to 250 pounds over the winter. Another option is to keep them on dry lot feed and fatten them for the fall market without any pasture. So, he should aim to put on all the weight he can on his calves in the winter with roughage before starting a grain program.

First, the farmer must have a plan, and then he must have the feed to carry it out. Naturally the quality of hay and silage is important and will largely determine how much grain supplement will be needed.

The man putting 100 pounds on his calves, with good legume hays or silage cut at the proper stage and stored the best possible way, can do the job with about two pounds daily of ground corn, oats, or barley and all the roughage the calves can eat through the winter.

But if the goal is a 200-pound weight increase, he will have to increase grain to five or six pounds daily with the same high quality roughage.

If the poor quality legume hay and silage are fed, the farmer will have to almost double his grain to get the same amount of gain as with the high quality roughages.

Mixed hay will require a pound of protein supplement plus enough grain to get the desired winter gains. Here, too, a pound or so of grain will be enough if the goal is 100 lbs. of winter gain, but the farmer must go to about five pounds of grain per day if he wants 200-pound gains.

With high quality corn silage, a pound of protein and a pound of grain daily will be enough with all the silage a calf can eat—if he is to be turned out on pasture the next spring.

If more gain is desired (with good corn silage) it is only necessary to up the grain to four or five pounds per day.

If sorghum silage is fed the calf will need the same amount of protein supplement as where corn silage is fed, but he will need more grain supplement to get the same gain. Remember that sorghum silage is only about three-fourths as good from a nutritive standpoint as corn silage.

LICE POPULATIONS
MOUNT QUICKLY

A two-lice parley can amount to 100,000 more lice in two months.

With this kind of breeding potential, cattlemen are well advised to do their best to prevent lice from becoming a problem in their herds.

Damage done by lice can be severe. For instance heavy infestation of the short-nosed cattle louse can result in anemia and possible eventual death of the animal.

This pest seems to prefer adult cattle while a relative, the long-nosed louse, it found most often on calves. This one is also a bloodsucker, another common type of cattle louse is the round-headed louse. This is a biting type, but is not a blood-sucker.

—mus tsir mot rom
Cattle infested with lice usually rub against fence posts, buildings or anything similar is available. In the process they may rub off large patches of hair. When the infestation becomes severe large numbers of lice around the eyes and ears of animals result in a darker color of these areas.

Lice don't infest all animals of a herd equally. For reasons little understood, lice seem to thrive and multiply more on some animals than on others. It has been suggested that skin texture, density of hair, body temperature, or specific elements in the animal's blood or a combination of these factors may make certain animals more inviting to lice.

Lice usually stay on an animal until they die. They lay eggs on the animal and the young hatch there.

The best control method is spraying, although dusting with powder is also helpful. Choose a spray material carefully. The residue problem has brought restrictions on drugs and chemicals that can be used to treat animals for lice, and the manner in which they can be used.

Write or call my office for the latest recommendations and regulations. Regardless of what product is used, read the label carefully and use exactly according to the directions printed on it.

It's Rat Killing Time Again

Anti-coagulant baits may not deal rats a swift knock-out blow—but they'll work.
Don't be discouraged if you don't see signs of dead rodents within a few days after putting out the anti-coagulant baits. The baits seldom kill with a single dose, but they are effective when the program is continuous. Rodents should feed on the bait for five successive days for it to be effective.

Anti-coagulants are chemicals that reduce or prevent normal clotting of blood. Rats and mice eat the poison and die from internal bleeding. Since the poisons do kill slowly, rodents don't become alarmed by deaths of others and continue to feed without fear. Some poisons cause rats and mice to become "bait shy".

Another advantage to the anti-coagulants is that they are not very toxic in a single dose to farm animals. So they are safer to use than other poisons. However, the bait should be located in a bait station or other protected area where only rodents can reach them.

More violent poisons such as Red Squill, Antu, zinc phosphide, and parium carbonate may be used, but they are usually more hazardous, and require more preparation.

It's rat killing season now. Cold weather is driving the rodents from the fields into buildings. Once a rodent population is under control, continuous sanitation and the placing of a few poison baits will help prevent re-infestation. Sanitation involves removing all debris, loose grain, and any other sources of shelter or food.

FEEDER CALF PRICES SURPRISE SOME PEOPLE

"What happened?" was a question heard from many people in the business of buying and selling feeder cattle this fall.

The price of feeder cattle was surprising to almost everybody.

Steer calves brought $1.50 to $2.00 per cwt., over last year, and heifer calves were up at least $1 per cwt., maybe more. If the finger could be pointed at only one thing, it likely would be at the abundance of feed. Most farmers in Virginia have plenty of hay, farms producing corn silage have a good crop, and a good corn yield is in prospect.

Cattle feeders north of Virginia have plenty of corn, and they were all out to buy cattle. Many yearlings and heavy steer calves moved to the feed lots of Maryland and Pennsylvania this fall.

Farmers in Indiana, Ohio and Michigan — many of whom signed up in the government corn program—still had a total feed crop almost equal to last year. Indications are that a lot of the corn went into silage. These feeders from the eastern cornbelt area usually buy lightweight steer calves and heifers, and this fall they were competing with the local cattle raisers for the lightweight steer calves, particularly those under 400 pounds. The greatest demand at most sales was for steer calves weighing between 350 and 400 pounds.

A greater-than-usual demand for replacement heifers was

County Roads To Get $908,000 In State Budget

PRINCESS ANNE — The State Highway Department plans to spend over $908,000 on Princess Anne County's secondary roads next year. This was the figure quoted on the department's final budget, presented to the County Board of Supervisors Monday.

The department plans to install a traffic light at the intersection of Rt. 615 and Rt. 809 at Long Creek bridge in the near future, study the possibility of an industrial access road for the proposed industrial site at Bay-side, and hopes to correct traffic problems on Rt. 58 into Kempsville Heights by next spring, department representatives said.

The State Highway Department will spend a great portion of next year's allotted money on improving and maintaining over 900 miles of county secondary roads.

In closed session, the board negotiated with attorney Les Lam to purchase a piece of land on which the $188,000 annex to the County Jail and the County Police Radio tower stands.

Survey Error

The annex, completed last March, and the tower were built on Lam's property as the result of an error in surveying. The attorney acquired the land from the estate of the late Judge Floyd E. Kellam, about three years ago.

The county bought the property for $5,000. At the same time the supervisors approved the purchase of two houses and lots on Court-house Road behind the school administration building. They agreed to pay Jimmy Kennedy $13,500 for his property and Robert P. O'Leary $12,500 for his. This land was bought for eventual expansion of county offices and parking facilities.

The board passed a resolution of support to the Hampton Roads Sanitation District Commission in building a proposed sewage treatment plant in the Burien Station section, near Little Creek Amphibious Base.

The proposed site is on Navy property south of Shore Drive, just west of the Norfolk & Western Railroad tracks. The plant will be part of the sanitation commission's expansion program in the next few years.

In other action, the board accepted the low bid of 12.9 cents per gallon from Princess Anne Fuel Oil for about 60,000 gallons of gas for county trucks and $2,803.59 plus trade-ins from Clark Chevrolet Corp. for three new police cars.

They also agreed to pay the county's monthly employees by Dec. 18.

WOODCOVE AT GREAT NECK ESTATES

New residents in the Woodcove at Great Neck Estates section of Princess Anne County will begin receiving the Virginia Beach Sun-News this week and every week throughout the next year, according to an announcement made today by Homer Cunningham, President of Cunningham - Malbon - Etheridge, Inc., Realtors.

City Is Safety Award Winner Second Year

VIRGINIA BEACH — Police Chief Reeves Johnson accepted a safety award from the Tidewater Automobile Association at City Council meeting last Monday for having no pedestrian deaths at the beach for two years.

"This record is a tribute to the city officials, the Police Department and your Chief of Police," the Association representative said in making the presentation. "You people here at the beach do such a good job protecting the people who walk along the streets."

Replica Memorial

Mayor Frank A. Dusch told the Council that the city may receive a figurehead from a Norwegian shipbuilder to replace the one from the sunken sailing ship Dictator that stood for many years on 16th Street.

"A Norwegian Captain stationed here with NATO has contacted a shipbuilder in Norway who may duplicate the figurehead from pictures," Mayor Dusch said.

The Norwegian ship Dictator sank in a storm on March 27, 1881 off Virginia Beach. The figurehead was found on the beach and mounted as a memorial on 16th Street but time and weather crumbled it a few years ago.

For 30 years the captain on the sunken ship, J. M. Jorgensen, visited the beach on the anniversary of the sinking to cast a wreath on the water. He lost his wife and infant son in the shipwreck.

In other action, the Council amended the master zoning ordinance to require 1,200 square feet of floor space instead of 1,000 in single-family dwelling units in R1 areas.

For Merger

They appropriated "up to $5,000" from surplus funds for legal fees in the proposed Virginia Beach-Princess Anne County merger study. They previously appropriated $5,000.

An appropriation of $2,000 was also approved to replace a deflatorator at the water pumping station.

Meetings Give People Answers On Merger Plan

VIRGINIA BEACH — Sidney S. Kellam, co-chairman of the 11-man study committee for the proposed Virginia Beach-Princess Anne County merger, spoke to a group of about 500 Lynnhaven Park, Birdneck Point, Bay Colony and North Virginia Beach residents Monday night at Lynnhaven Park School.

Appearing with Kellam on the stage were Frank W. Cat, Superintendent of Schools, who introduced the speaker, J. W. Wood, Kellam's co-chairman on the study group, and County Treasurer Jack Etheridge.

During a question and answer period, following Kellam's outline of the merger plans, many questions were asked by interested citizens.

Of particular interest were Kellam's comments in answer to a question on the possibility of a Virginia Beach-Norfolk road.

Road A Must

"Improvement of conditions on overcrowded Virginia Beach Boulevard is a must," he said. "If somebody doesn't build us a road by Jan. 1, 1963, then somebody must make a contribution. It's a must."

The January 1963 date is when the proposed merger will go into effect if it is voted on by county and beach residents on Jan. 4, 1962, and approved by the General Assembly when they meet later in January.

The possibility of Norfolk annexing more of the county prompted the merger action a few months ago and a former county resident who was annexed by Norfolk in 1959 stood up and told the group of his present status.

Too Late

"It's a shame this merger plan didn't come about when the City of Norfolk gobbled us up," he said. "None of their golden promises were ever carried out. We had had roads in the county but at least they were taken care of. Now that we are in the City of Norfolk we have no roads at all, no police force and our taxes have doubled. Sure, they reduced our water rate but they dumped a sewage tax on us to make up the difference and there is no sewage or sewer will be."

Another county resident who formerly lived in Fairfax County told how "the best and most prosperous" areas of that area were "gobbled up" by Alexandria and still another person said that taxes on property he owns in Bertley (an area of Norfolk), valued at $2,000, are $10 more a year than taxes he pays on his county property valued at over $12,000.

Two Issues

Water and representation were two of the most discussed aspects of the possible merger.

Beach Hospital Changes Status

VIRGINIA BEACH — The end of an era will come Friday when the area's first and only hospital closes its doors as a private facility and reopens them wide for the entire community as the General Hospital of Virginia Beach.

Started 13 years ago by Drs. W. L. Taylor, H. F. Dormire and James W. Todd, the three-story structure on 25th Street has given a helping hand to 20,657 patients since its opening date. The need was so great for an emergency facility of this type that the first month of its existence the hospital accommodated 175 patients.

Helped Thousands

Of the patients admitted during the past 13 years, 3,524 have been maternity cases and the hospital has been the first home of 3,579 newborn children. There have been 25 sets of twins born there in 13 years, and 4,447 operations.

From the very beginning, the hospital has been under the supervision and administration of Miss Harriet V. Allstock, a quiet, soft-spoken woman who has lived all her life on a large farm estate on Great Neck Point. She is a member of the American College of Hospital Administrators.

Many of the nurses have been service wives, some of them remaining here for as long as two and a half years, others only a few months, and they have come from every state in the Union, Miss Allstock said. This nursing staff has rendered 122,031 days of service over the 13-year period.

At present there are 45 employees at the hospital, 22 of them nurses, and there have never been less than 40 persons working there. During the hospital's existence this group has brought $1,069,753.94 into the community through salaries, Miss Allstock said.

Some Changes

When the hospital is converted to an open-staff community facility this week and the first step will be to renovate the first floor, which houses the doctor's offices, into more patient room, converting the present 40-bed capacity to nearly 50.

The top floor contains the operating room, delivery room, newborn nursery and semi-private rooms while the basement floor holds the emergency room, kitchen and X-ray rooms.

There will be no immediate personnel changes, Miss Allstock said. The new doctor staff will be announced later.

The new board of directors consists of:

One year term: L. F. Patrick, J. R. Haden, J. W. Musick, Robert B. Taylor, W. J. Vaughan,

New Steel Cars Weighing Less

Dieting and weight-loss, popular with many people, has now been embraced by the steel industry, according to "Steel Facts," published by American Iron and Steel Institute.

With the recent development of light gauge, high-strength steels, there has been a rash of weight reduction among many products made of steel. An example is a steel railroad car designed to carry automobiles, which lost 30 per cent of its weight through the use of high-strength, low alloy steel. A total weight reduction of 20,000 pounds was achieved.

Another railroad application is a stainless steel covered hopper car which lost 16 per cent of its weight through the use of light gauge stronger steel.

As the pace of life in our nation accelerates, so apparently does our crime rate. According to the F.B.I.'s latest annual report, crime is increasing four times faster than our population growth. There were four serious crimes committed every minute last year, and almost twice as many crimes were recorded in 1960 as a decade ago. Robbery and burglary, larceny theft, and auto theft, in particular, have maintained a steady upward trend, increasing 18%, 14% and 9% respectively in a year. Approximately three hundred million dollars in money and property was stolen last year, a large portion of which was taken from business establishments and residents.

EDITORIAL SPEAKING

A Hospital Era Closes

Friday will mark the closing of the Virginia Beach Hospital as a private facility and therein lies a story that dates back 13 years ago that three local doctors opened the hospital here.

The year was 1948 when Doctors W. L. Taylor, H. F. Dormire and James W. Todd opened the new private hospital at the corner of 25th street and Arctic avenue. It provided this community with a badly needed hospital facility.

Just what did the vision of these doctors mean to Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County. In the way of statistics this is what the establishment of the Virginia Beach Hospital in 1948 meant to this community:

Number of patients . . . . . 20,657
Maternity cases . . . . . 3,524
Sets of Twins . . . . . 25
Total Operations . . . . . 4,647

In addition to these statistics the nursing staff has rendered 122,031 nursing days to the hospital. The hospital and its staff has rendered a dedicated service to this community.

On Friday the hospital facility started by Doctors Taylor, Dormire and Todd will become the General Hospital of Virginia Beach

An Interesting Observation

The Virginia Beach-Princess Anne County merger plan seems to occupy a lot of time among Norfolk City officials and an interesting statement developed at this week's meeting of the Norfolk City Council, according to a news report carried in a Norfolk newspaper.

Councilman Sam T. Barfield said, in effect, that Norfolk should develop what it has and not worry about Princess Anne County and Virginia Beach. Mayor Duckworth is reported to have stated that he liked the idea but thought it ill-timed.

Barfield looked upon the impending merger as a challenge to Norfollians. He brought up the need for developing Ocean View as a resort.

We have felt all along that the merger of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County would not have an adverse effect on the City of Norfolk. It may very well be just the opposite as Councilman Barfield has pointed out.

Certainly we have not evidenced any ill feeling among Princess Anne County or Virginia Beach people toward the City of Norfolk. And, we certainly agree that Ocean View is a community of fine people and much can be done to develop Ocean View as a resort.

In the long run the merger of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County should work to the best interests of the entire area.

Why Railroads Are In Trouble

The Cincinnati Enquirer says: "The Nation's railroads are in trouble."

"So, many people will say, 'they're in trouble. We'll haul or go some other way.'"

"The pity of it is that so many people do think that they and their lives and the national economy are somehow detached—or at least detachable—from the welfare of the railroads."

The Enquirer's point, in substance, is that the railroads come about as close to being indispensable as anything can be. A set of statistics—taken from many that could be cited if one had enough space—certainly backs up that view. The rails carry 44 per cent of all intercity freight traffic and 25 per cent of the commercial passenger travel. Their payrolls run to $5 billion a year, divided among 750,000 people, and taxes reach $1 billion. And they certainly haven't spared the horses—the iron horses!—in attempting to make their services more attractive to the users. Since World War II they have spent the total of $16 billion on capital improvements—a sum which has bought, among a multitude of things, 28,000 diesel locomotives, 900,000 freight cars, and such miraculous innovations as push-button classification yards.

Why, then, are the railroads in trouble? The answer must be manifold—discriminatory tax treatment, subsidized or favored competitors, totally inadequate depreciation allowances—and, perhaps most important of all, regulatory laws and policies that stem, symbolically speaking, from the dark ages.

Another question: Who is affected by the railroad crisis? Answer: Everyone with an interest in the economic welfare and the military security of this country.

Great Void—Great Silence

Federal aid to education is a political issue, an economic issue, and a public issue. It will be at the forefront of the domestic issues the next Congress must consider.

So here is a very pertinent question indeed: How much support is there for putting the federal government, and the federal treasury, into the business of financing our schools—and, in all probability, eventually bailing them?

A man who strongly favors federal aid answers that for us. He is Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, Ribicoff. In a recent speech, as reported by The Washington Post, he said: "Mail urging the Congress to do something for education was infinitesimal. There was a great void, a great silence."

Did not this "great void, great silence" result from the fact that the majority of the American people regard education of their children as a local duty, right and responsibility? They do not want their children in schools where text books and study courses can be dictated from centralized government authority. That is not the pattern for education to follow in the United States.

Crack Down On Quacks

The medical profession and the government are now teamed to crack down on quacks who gyp the public out of a billion dollars a year—and, far more important still, do untold damage to the nation's health.

Scene of the teaming was the first National Congress on Medical Quackery in Washington, D.C., sponsored jointly by the American Medical Association and the Food and Drug Administration. Medical spokesmen, cabinet officers, top ranking federal officials and experts on the manifold quackery attended. All agreed on the urgent need for an intensive campaign to run medical tricksters out of business, and educate the public to the fallacies of quack claims.

That word "educate" is certainly the key. The laws and official actions on earth can't solve the problem unless the public at large understands the dreadful menace of the claims made by the quacks. These claims are especially prevalent in connection with diseases such as arthritis and cancer, where large areas of knowledge remain to be developed. Food fadism is another wide and profitable field of quackery. What one authority terms "nutritional nonsense" has led vast numbers of people to turn to diets which are definitely injurious to health and longevity—and which, on top of that, drain their pocketbooks.

This twin, medical-governmental attack on quackery deserves the fullest possible support and publicity. It might be pressed on the state and local levels, as well as the national. And, if it is to be successful, the biggest single factor will be public education and enlightenment.

SURFSIDE '61

By RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS

It really is a small world—as Dr. and Mrs. Fred Williams found out. While the Norfolk-Virginia Beach ophthalmologist and his vivacious wife were in New York attending a meeting at the New York Eye and Ear Infirmary, they sneaked a little time to window shop down Fifth Avenue.

Imagine the "double takes" when they came face-to-face with Miss Sally Sedgwick, a former Virginia Beach resident who only last year had taught the Williams' daughter, Marsha, in the third grade at Lincroft Park School.

Miss Sedgwick moved to New York this summer to accept a position with a large brokerage firm.

Me, Too

This country gal also found out it was a small world. While talking to Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Lippitt in their Lincroft Park home last week (the story about the couple and their prize winning dogs appears in the second section of this paper), the conversation brought out that I'm from Plant City, Fla. . . somehow this always creeps out. Since most people never heard of the place and couldn't care less I was amazed to learn that Mrs. Lippitt knew the city quite well. Seems the son of her best friend, in Atlanta, Ga., married a good friend of mine from Plant City and we had a gay time discussing mutual acquaintances.

A routed and rerouted envelope, postmarked Avion, Madrid, lay on my desk when I returned last week from a trip to Florida (there's that place again). After gently salvaging the stamp for John Quincy Adams, a true foreign-stamp fancier as well as our cracker-jack line type operator, I tote into the envelope with all the curiosity and awkwardness of a clumsy elephant.

"Was a lovely 5-page letter from two of my favorite people—Harry Taylor, the bounding comedian-pianist who makes such a hit each year at the Cavalier's Hunt Room, and his lovely wife, Lorraine."

The couple have been touring Europe ever since they left here early in September and will return to the states just in time for his opening at Arthur Godfrey's Kenilworth Hotel at Miami Beach.

Knowing that I'm a constant weight-watcher, he boastfully related that he lost 15 pounds on English and Irish cooking (which apparently didn't impress him and later lost 10 more on the "rather non-fattening food of Scandinavia."

Naturally some crazy things have happened to them. "First time we were on the Continent in a sleeper," Harry said, "this uniformed man with a paper and pencil barges in at 10 o'clock in the morning and wakes me up in a German accent with 'any whisky, gin, Scotch or cigarettes?' I said 'For Heaven's sake, no. Not this time of the morning.' So he turned around and walked out. My wife said 'that was no waiter. That was customs.'"

Devout Catholics, the couple were thrilled to get good seats at Pope John's 80th birthday and Third Anniversary Mass at St. Peter's in Rome. Harry got so carried away he bought "30 rosaries, a flock of medals and prayer books and had the Pope bless them for relatives."

"Can you imagine a nut using up all his $100 import quota on religious articles?" he asked. I can. Harry and Lorraine are both very generous people, often doing things for friends and churches along their busy path that are never publicized.

By the time this reaches print Harry Taylor will be pounding the piano, shooting his cap pistol, changing hats and viciously bouncing up and down on the piano stool before an audience at the Kenilworth. Lets hope they give him a big "welcome back."

Writer Needs Help

Remember the old, small-gauge, railroad that used to come into Virginia Beach? If you've lived here all your life you probably do, and if you ever took a ride on that train you might possibly have a souvenir ticket stuck away in the attic. Or maybe you have a picture of the old engine. Surely there must be someone around Virginia Beach with a few of these reminders of "by-gone days."

Mallory H. Ferrell, of Fayetteville, N. C., was visiting his parents on Pinewood Road during Thanksgiving week and dropped by the Sun-News office to say he is looking for some information, time tables, tickets or pictures of the railroad for a book he has been commissioned to write.

To be called "Virginia Creeper," the book will tell of the first five railroads into the state and the effect they had on its growth. The final chapter will be devoted to a wrap-up of all the railroads during the state's early days.

Since the Norfolk & Virginia Beach Railroad is to be one of the main subjects, it is imperative that Ferrell get hold of some of the above items. The railroad has progressed under three other names: Norfolk, Albemarle & Atlantic; Norfolk, Virginia Beach & Southern; and finally Norfolk & Southern.

Persons wishing more information may write the author at 308 Rush Road, Fayetteville, N. C.

Merger

Will Norfolk cut our water off? Is it democratic for Virginia Beach to have five representatives on the merged 11-man council with a population of under 9,000 and the county to have only six with a population of over 75,000?

"I don't believe Norfolk has any intention of cutting our water off," he said, "because they are getting double rates from us for the water we get. I don't think they dislike us enough not to make money on us."

He also stated that he believed Princess Anne has done more toward furnishing its own water from independent sources "than they are willing to tell us."

As to the representation questions, Kellam said that the inequality of Virginia Beach having five votes compared to each of the county's six boroughs having but one would be no greater than Blacksburg District, with 733 residents, now having the same voice as Bayside District with almost 29,000.

"If we were to judge it on that basis," he said, "Bayside would be entitled to 30 councilmen. Then where would you put the responsibility? Three years ago Norfolk annexed 38,000 of our people and I feel sure 37,000 of them were against it. Do you think they have representation on the Norfolk City Council? No. Now do you call that democratic?"

When Norfolk made the last annexation in 1959 they took in not only 38,000 people but county schools as well. If this should happen again, a woman asked, wouldn't Norfolk have to pay us for the schools?

"No ma'am," Kellam told her. "They must assume the remainder of the loan on each school but they will not reimburse us for what has already been spent."

A representative of the board of directors of the Cavalier Yacht and Country Club said that his group had unanimously endorsed the merger.

In a speech Tuesday noon before the Norfolk Civic Club, Kellam predicted that South Norfolk and Norfolk County may follow suit and also consider a merger.

Could Merge

"I have no official information," he said, "but I'm sure South Norfolk and Norfolk County are going to give some consideration to this. If they do merge and we become four independent cities (Virginia Beach, South Norfolk, Norfolk and Portsmouth) we must get together and solve a lot of problems. There is too much competition up and down the East Coast for us to do."

Kellam also spoke to the Princess Anne Jaycees at 7 p.m. Tuesday and at Princess Anne Court House at 8 p.m. Wednesday night he spoke to the Virginia Beach Fraternal Order of Police.

Other officials have also had a heavy schedule of speaking engagements on behalf of the proposed merger. John Pentecost, clerk of Princess Anne Circuit Court appeared before the Carolanne Farm Civic League Tuesday night at Kempsville Meadows School. Ivan D. Mapp, county commissioner of revenue, spoke at St. Gregory's Catholic Church Tuesday night and will speak at the Charity Methodist Men's Club tonight.

Mapp and V. Alfred (Jack) Etheridge, county treasurer, will appear together Friday before the Baylake Pines Civic League at Our Saviour's Lutheran Church.

Etheridge

Etheridge will be the second county man to hold a major state job in the past 10 years. Kellam became state director of Conservation and Development after resigning as county treasurer.

Etheridge, 43, served a four-year term as state senator before becoming county treasurer. He has also served as executive secretary of the County Board of Supervisors and is immediate past president of the Treasurer's Association of Virginia.

Citizens Urged To Buy Seals

VIRGINIA BEACH—The Tuberculosis and Health Association of Norfolk-Princess Anne Counties urges all citizens of the area to support the annual Christmas Seal Sale now in progress. Its annual Seal Sale is the TB Association's only source of funds to carry out its program of health education, research, case finding, diagnosis, treatment, and rehabilitation.

Tuberculosis Association Board members and Public Health officials throughout the nation are gravely concerned about public apathy in recent years due to a false sense of security. TB can be cured if it is discovered in time, but statistics show that among new patients the percentage found to have infections that resist the miracle drugs is on the increase.

Every responsible member of the community can enlist in the fight against TB:

1. By getting regular chest X-rays at the free clinics or asking your physician to include a chest X-ray when you have your annual or semi-annual physical checkups.

2. By mailing a check for your TB Christmas seals now. If you have not received a supply through the mail or would like additional sheets of seals call the TB & Health Association, Tel. 547-2041.

Garden Clubs Again Sponsor Yule Contest

The Council of Garden Clubs will again sponsor their annual Christmas Doorway Contest. As in past years, there will be three categories for the doorway awards: Most Beautiful; Most Original; Best Traditional.

The awards are silver engraved trays.

Council President, Mrs. E. F. Beake Jr., announced that groups of judges will judge the different areas of the county and city on Friday, December 22nd. Judging will be 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Winners of the preliminaries will be judged by three final judges on Saturday, December 23rd. Awards will be presented late on the afternoon of the 23rd.

If home-owners feel their home is located on an "out-of-the-way" road and desire to enter the contest, they may call the contest chairman, Mrs. John W. Field, GA 8-1152, before noon on December 21st.

Civilians Plan Council Meeting

Civilians of the Virginia, Princess Anne and other Tidewater clubs and their families are expected to join in unusual numbers with others of the Chesapeake district of Civitan International in a district quarterly council meeting Friday, Saturday and Sunday (Dec. 1-3) that is expected to attract unusually large attendance. It will take place at Williamsburg, reconstructed early and historic capital of Virginia, with Jamestown, first English settlement in America, close at hand.

Civilians of the Newport News club, hosts for the quarterly session, are making plans for maximum exploitation of the history-rich area for the Civitan families with a series of tours. These are planned particularly for wives and children of the delegates from other units in Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and the District of Columbia.

The Friday program will be given over to registration, informal tours and motion pictures of "Eighteenth Century Life" and "Williamsburg in the American Heritage" at the Williamsburg Information Center in the evening. Lone business item will be a meeting of the joint committee of the district's Foundation for Mentally Retarded Children and the district itself to draft a plan of financing the district-sponsored Georgetown University Clinic for Mentally Retarded Children.

Saturday's program will include tours for ladies and children and morning and afternoon council business sessions at the Motor House Lodge. Civitan International Pres-Elect Fritz Kuler of Dallas, Tex., will be the principal speaker at a noon luncheon at the Lodge. A reception will be given by the Newport News hosts from 5:30 to 6:30, followed by the banquet at 6:30, marked by musical features and an address on "The Contribution of the Civinettes to Civitan" by Mrs. Paul Keen of Arlington, a leader of the Washington Civinettes. "Williamsburg Restored," a motion picture, will be presented at the Information Center theater afterward. In the afternoon also the ladies will be guests at a lecture by Mrs. Pennell, a Williamsburg restoration leader on "Flower Arrangements in Williamsburg."

Sunday's sessions will be marked by a religious service at nine, with Dr. Gosey of the Norfolk club, speaking. The morning business session will

Insurance Payments On Increase Among Families In Virginia

Virginia families received $50,500,000 in life insurance death payments in the first nine months of this year, compared with $47,800,000 in the corresponding period of last year, the Institute of Life Insurance reported today. The number of policies becoming claims in the first nine months was 34,100 which compares with 32,600 in the corresponding period of 1960.

"The tremendous rise in life insurance ownership in recent years is reflected in these current payments," Holgar J. Johnson, Institute president, said in announcing the figures. "For the country as whole, death payments made in the first nine months of this year were $172,400,000 greater than in the corresponding period of last year and $1,397,400,000 more than in the first nine months of 1951. This is a 7 percent rise over a year ago and more than twice the 1951 figure. Life insurance ownership has much more than doubled in these years."

in the corresponding period of 1961.

Of this year's nine-month aggregate death payments in this state, $25,700,000 was under 7,900 ordinary insurance policies; $18,000,000 was under 6,200 group life insurance certificates; and $8,800,000 was under 20,000 industrial insurance policies.

For the nation as a whole, $2,681,300,000 was paid as death claims under 1,820,000 policies in the first nine months of this year, compared with $2,506,900,000 under 1,532,200 policies in the like period last year. Of this year's payments, $1,503,900,000 was under 489,800 ordinary policies; $927,200,000 was under 363,000 group life certificates; and $250,200,000 was under 767,200 industrial policies.

Lakeview Shore Woman's Club Presents Doll House to Retarded Children's School

Monday, November 27, the Lakeview Shore Woman's Club presented a doll house, which they had made, to the Pre-School Training Center for Colored Retarded Children. Mrs. W. F. Wilson, president of the club made the presentation. It was accepted by Mrs. A. M. Whitaker, director of the Pre-School Training Center at the Phyllis Wheatley branch of the YWCA, 827 Park Avenue, Norfolk.

This is the third "doll house" that the club has made and donated to a worthy cause. In 1959 the club made their first doll house, which was a club project on which most of the members worked. It was donated to the School for Blind Children at Staunton, Va.

Last year the club undertook the same project "making a doll house" which was presented to the Norfolk Retarded Children's School to be used as a training aid for the children.

This year's doll house will also be used as a training aid for the Mentally Retarded Children.

The "doll house" is a strongly constructed, ranch type house approximately 5 foot, four inches by 4 feet. It contains wall-to-wall carpet, everywhere except the kitchen and bath, which has tile. The front door enters on the large living room which contains a corner fireplace, appropriate upholstered furniture, hand painted pictures on the walls, drapes at the windows, a trimmed Christmas tree in the corner, with old Santa Claus and very tiny Christmas gifts wrapped up under the tree.

The dining room has modern style dining room suite, drapes and opens on a deluxe kitchen with built-in cabinets and all appliances. The bedrooms are attractively furnished for the doll parents, a teenage girl and last of all a nursery for the doll baby. All the furnishing and accessories you would find in a modern home are on hand. Even tiny books in the bookcase.

All modern ranch type homes have an attached double garage and so does this one — complete with two cars. There is even a tiny oil can where possibly the doll father has just oiled the tri-cycle!

It is believed that the doll house will enable the children in the school to learn faster by associating the word "chair" with a doll chair.

Mrs. W. F. Wilson, club president, was chairman of the "doll house project" and her co-chairman was Mrs. D. E. Rowan. The following members donated their time and different materials in assembling this project: Mrs. R. L. Tyer, Mrs. J. T. Barnes, Mrs. D. C. McCullough, Mrs. D. L. Percefull, Mrs. J. E. Stout and Mrs. J. C. Clarke.

The house itself was built for the club by Mrs. Russell D. Christiansen.

Dr. Vincent Cornetta (left) K of C District Deputy, presents Edward Earley with a Past Grand Knights pin at a recent meeting of the Local Council No. 4632.

K of C Presents Christmas Theme In Road Display

VIRGINIA BEACH — Harried shoppers and motorists will be reminded of the true meaning of the coming Christmas season as they drive east on Virginia Beach Boulevard in the vicinity of London Bridge. In keeping with the national program of the Knights of Columbus to "Keep Christmas for Christ," the Virginia Beach Council No. 4632 has made arrangements for a nativity scene billboard poster.

Plans were also announced for the re-naming of a selected street of Virginia Beach as "Nativity Boulevard" during the Christmas season.

Honored guests at the November 15 meeting of the Council were Dr. Edward Millan, State Deputy, Dr. Vincent Cornetta, District Deputy, Mr. William Morieno, Grand Knight of Portsmouth Council No. 418, and Mr. Robert Koch, Grand Knight of Father Kealey Council No. 3549 of Norfolk. Dr. Millan was the featured speaker. Dr. Cornetta also presented a Past Grand Knight's Pin to Mr. Edward Earley in recognition of his past services to the Beach Council.

The next meeting of Virginia Beach Council No. 4632 will be on Wednesday, December 6 at 8:00 p.m. Members are urged to make this meeting as it marks a milestone in the history of the council.

French Group Plan Meeting Dec. 3rd

NORFOLK — The next meeting of the Salon francais will be held on Sunday, Dec. 3rd, at the Woman's Club, 524 Fairfax Ave. at 3 o'clock. A talk will be given in French on "The Impact of Castro on the Youth of Cuba" by Lieutenant Commander Harold Feeney, USN, illustrated with slides recently assembled on his tour as Intelligence Officer in Cuba.

One time Naval Attache at the U.S. Embassy in Paris, Lt. Comdr. Feeney is proficient in French, as well as in Spanish, Italian and several other languages, including Mandarin Chinese. He was Director of Cultural Relations in Ecuador in 1949-50, and has been in service also as Intelligence Officer in Panama. As a civilian Lt. Comdr. Feeney taught at the University of Pennsylvania and at the University of Southern California, he is presently serving at CINCLANTFLT.

The French Salon is open to all interested in the conversational use of the French language. Students of French and teachers are especially welcome, and are invited to remain, after the lecture, to meet the French members, in the social hour which follows. It is sponsored by the Woman's Club, and by Mr. Pierre Schmitz, French Consul in Norfolk. Mrs. Bertha Fanning Taylor is chairman and founder.

Racing Film Will Be Shown Here

The 1961 stock car racing speedorama on film, featuring the 1961 Southern 500, the 1961 Daytona 500, and the 1961 World 600, will be shown Wednesday night, December 6, at 8:30 p.m. at the Rendezvous, 7020 Virginia Beach Boulevard.

All three films are in color and sound and give all phases of the pageantry, and action in big time stock car racing on the super-speedway tracks.

Norfolk stock car drivers Bill Champion and Ray Platte have been invited to conduct a question and answer period after the documentaries have been shown.

THALIA PRINCIPAL FINDS NEW TEST IN YOUNG STUDENTS

(This is one of a series of articles to appear in this paper each week on the boys and girls who serve as principals of Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County schools.)

By RUBY JEAN PHILLIPS

THALIA — Teaching mathematics and science to high school students is quite different from serving as principal of an elementary school, as H. Otis Copley discovered when he took over as head of Thalia Elementary School this year.

Tearful Students

"The greatest adjustment I had to make," he said, "was learning to cope with these tiny fellows who cry over the least little thing. You seldom see tears in high school. The first few weeks I was an emotional wreck over crying children. But I've become accustomed to it and have learned how to handle the situations."

All of Copley's previous experience had been on the high school level until he accepted the post at Thalia. His first teaching position was at Kempsville, where he also coached the basketball team, along with his regular classes, for four years, then moved to Princess Anne High School.

As a matter of fact, he and his wife, the former Carolyn Story, met while both were teaching at Kempsville. She has since retired from the education field to rear their five-year-old son, James Otis, better known in the Copley family as Jimmy.

Copley's dark, crew cut hair, youthful face and athletic build gives the impression that he could run football plays as well as he runs a school but he claims the only sports he participates in is the teacher's bowling league. He is a faithful spectator, however, and attends every Princess Anne High School game.

H. OTIS COPLEY

Not too many years back he was more than a grandstand athlete, having played on his native Blackstone, Va. high school football, basketball and track teams.

Virginia Beach was no stranger to Copley when he moved here in 1949. He used to accompany his parents on a week's vacation here when he was a youngster and worked at various

GARDEN CLUBS WILL PRESENT CHRISTMAS SHOW IN NORFOLK

NORFOLK — "Miracles of Christmas" the 1961 Annual Christmas Flower Show of the Federation of Garden Clubs of Norfolk and Vicinity, Inc., will be held Dec. 2 from 3:15 to 10 p.m. and on Dec. 3 from 12:30 to 9 p.m. at the Municipal Auditorium (Norfolk Arena) 9th and Granby Streets, Norfolk, Va.

Mrs. H. O. Freeman of Lynnhaven is chairman of the show, and Mrs. W. H. Stith, co-chairman. Show staging will be directed by Fred Heutte and Ocie Barnes of the Bureau of Parks and Forestry, and by Mrs. Ralph Hill and Mrs. R. L. Pierce, federation staging chairmen.

New classes Mrs. Freeman have been planned in each of the two principal divisions, horticultural and artistic (arrangements, decorations).

New Division

New in the artistic division will be: "Round Yon Virgin," arrangements displayed in oval frame; "Light O' Day," decorated windows; and decorated lamp post lighting the way from lobby decorations through the center of the Arena to the stage. Also new will be exhibits of espaliered trees, hanging flat against the walls.

New in the horticultural division will be a class for a combination of five different evergreens, grown for perfection and arranged artistically in a suitable container.

The purpose of the show is to encourage amateur gardeners to grow and exhibit horticulture from their own gardens. No entries from professionals will be accepted. Entries will be judged Saturday by 33 National accredited flower show judges. Mrs. R. L. Munn and Mrs. W. C. Griffin are judging chairmen.

Proceeds Planned

Show proceeds will pay off the loan on the Garden Center Educational Building. Tickets may be brought from garden club members for 75 cents until Wednesday; at the door, tickets will cost 90 cents. (Exhibitors must purchase tickets, too). The Show, biggest event of the garden club year, grows in attendance each year. (Last year, attendance topped 10,000.)

Do-it-yourself Christmas decorators will glean some ideas from many classes, such as exhibits of Christmas doors, wreaths, sprays, trees, mantels, tables, hats, corsages, packages and other potentially decorative items.

The big exhibit on the Arena stage this year will be the annual conservation exhibit. Its theme this year will be "Church in the Wildwood," representing America's heritage of natural beauty through God. A "church," scaled to the Arena stage, will contain a century old organ belonging to Mrs. L. M. Caputo. A path will wind around the church, surrounded by the conservation exhibit.

The Educational Exhibit "Kiss Me Quiet" will feature traditional kissing rings and kissing balls of greenery, with a display giving step-by-step instruction for making the rings.

Green garlands and white lights accented with angels will decorate the exterior of the Arena; the angel theme will be carried out inside as well.

Mildred Alexander, Woman's Director WTAR-TV will cut the ribbons to officially open the show Saturday, Dec. 2 at 3:15 p.m. Mr. Raymond M. Horbak, Minister of Music, First Baptist Church, will lead his group in singing two musical selections. The Rev. S. J. Garrett, pastor of Thalia Methodist Church, will give the invocation.

The Federation has over 6,000 members in the 150 clubs. Our visitors come from throughout the State of Virginia, Maryland, Washington, D. C., New York, North Carolina and many other localities.

ARE Planning For Christmas

Three events in preparation for Christmas will take place at the Association for Research and Enlightenment headquarters, Atlantic Avenue and 67th Street, as follows: the Forum Program on Sunday, December 3rd at 3:30 p.m.; a pre-Christmas Prayer Retreat, December 8-10th, including Friday evening, all day Saturday and Sunday morning; and the Forum on Sunday, December 17th at 3:30 p.m.

Mrs. Marguerite Briggs will be the speaker at the Sunday Forum on December 3rd, speaking on "The Christmas Story." Mrs. Briggs is chairman of the board of the Association and in charge of its many programs. Then ensuing Prayer Retreat will be under her direction.

Mrs. Louise Eggleston of Norfolk, a well-known religious worker, will be the speaker at the December 17th Forum; her subject will be "Prayer."

A question-and-answer period will follow each Forum lecture, after which a buffet dinner will be served. These three events are open to the public.

Hobby Leads to National Title For Local Couple

VIRGINIA BEACH — An interest in hunting that developed into a hobby of training pointers for field trials has led a Virginia Beach couple and their three dogs to nation-wide and international fame.

"Rig A Jig," an English pointer owned by Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Lippitt of Linkhorn Park last month won the highly coveted International Pheasant Championship held at Kildere Plains Wildlife area in Harpersburg, Ohio. Twenty-two of the top dogs in the country competed in the trials.

Many Wins

But this is just one of the wins the Lippitts have to their credit. During the past eight years their dogs have brought home 112 placements, most of them by Dasher Whispering Ghost, 22 wins, The Rambling Rebel, 35, and Snider's Ice Delivery, 25.

A busy schedule of field trials keeps the sport-loving couple hopping since they attend between 35 and 40 trials a year together.

Traveling with the dogs is actually easier than traveling with children, Lippitt said. They ride in the rear of the station wagon, eat the special diet the Lippitts carry for them and are staked out outside the motels when their masters stop at night.

Rig A Jig, the top celebrity in the family at the present time, last year won the Junior Championship of Canada and this year, on his third birthday, won the Border International Trials at Saskatchewan. He is now in Arkansas running in the Southwestern Championship and when he finishes there he will compete in the Texas Open Championship.

The Lippitts came to Virginia

Beach in 1954 for a few days of golfing and relaxation and liked it so much they remained. Perhaps the main reason they stayed was because Mrs. Lippitt saw a house that had its own kennels where the prize dogs could romp in comfort. She showed the house to her husband, he, too, liked it, they bought it and became residents. Though in semi-retirement, Mr. Lippitt spends some of his time in Spring Lake, N. J. where he is chairman of the board of the large Mounmouth Hotel, a resort facility owned by he and his wife.

Added Room

For many years the trophies and awards their dogs had won were stuck away in drawers or cabinets but recently the Lippitts converted their garage into a trophy room. Many ribbons and framed commendations adorn the walls and the shelves are lined with silver bowls and goblets, each acquired in a different trial run.

There are other items also displayed in the room. A golf club and putter used by Alex Smith to win the Open Golf Championship in 1908; a carved powder horn used by Mrs. Lippitt's ancestors before the Revolution; a 400-year-old Buddha; and assorted museum pieces from the Civil War era. And,

Medical Building

HOSPITAL FOUNDER HERE OPENS NEW DOCTOR'S QUARTERS

VIRGINIA BEACH — As a young physician fresh out of internship at old St. Vincent's Hospital in Norfolk Dr. W. L. Taylor had enough foresight to pick the resort of Virginia Beach to begin his practice. The year was 1934 and the beach was little more than a few cottages and buildings settled among the sand dunes overlooking the Atlantic ocean.

Again Dr. Taylor showed his faith in Virginia Beach when, 13 years ago last August, he joined two other private practitioners, Dr. H. F. Doremire and Dr. M. H. Todd, in establishing an emergency facility to serve resort visitors as well as the growing number of permanent residents.

First Hospital

That was the beginning of Virginia Beach's only hospital, located on 25th Street. The big white brick building will end its status as a private hospital the first of December and become the General Hospital of Virginia Beach.

This week Dr. Taylor once more showed his faith in the city he had chosen by opening one of the finest medical centers in the Tidewater area . . . the Doctors Building on 25th Street, about one-half block from the hospital.

Planned for five doctors, the impressive building will again house the team of Doctors Taylor, Doremire and Todd and leave room for an assistant for Dr. Taylor and another for Dr. Doremire.

Designed by T. David Fitzgibbon and built by Fred A. Haycox Co., the Colonial Williamsburg-type structure is constructed of old, and finish Sanford brick with cement mortar tinted to match the ivory woodwork trim.

Two large waiting rooms dominate the front of the building. One is paneled with finished oak on one wall and decorator brick on another. The second waiting room is less elaborate but equally complete in equipment and detail.

Carrying out the Colonial decor, each window is equipped with a stained wood louvered blind. For the sake of easy cleanliness as well as beauty, the windows have imported Italian marble sills and each wall is half coated with a glazed finish, "shot" on by pressure. The ceilings are of white acoustic metal to insure privacy and quiet.

Individual Decors

Each doctor has selected a different color scheme: Dr. Taylor has beige walls with brown terrazzo tile floors; Dr. Todd chose "all white walls with light green floors; and Dr. Doremire decided on soft green throughout his rooms.

A Gift For Christmas Callers

Gay small boxes of super-delicious fudge, prettily wrapped, are a delightful gift to have ready under the tree for friends who drop in during the Christmas holidays. Candy-making chocolate is used in this very special recipe, since only the best will do at Christmas-time.

Chocolate Creme Fudge

1 package (8 squares) candy-making chocolate
1/4 cup marshmallow creme
1/4 teaspoon vanilla
Break chocolate squares in half. Place chocolate pieces, marshmallow creme, vanilla, butter, and nuts in bowl; set aside.
Combine evaporated milk and sugar in saucepan. Bring to a boil over low heat, stirring occasionally. Continue boiling, without stirring, until a small amount of mixture forms a soft ball in cold water (or to a temperature of 232°F.). Pour immediately over ingredients in bowl and stir until chocolate is melted and mixture is blended. Pour into greased 8x8-inch pan. Decorate with pecan halves, if desired. Cool; then cut into squares. Store in refrigerator. Makes about 1 1/2 pounds.

CHOC-O-MALLOW

1/2 cup Pet Instant
3 tablespoons water (in dry form)
1/2 cup semi-sweet chocolate pieces
1/4 cup sifted, powdered sugar
10 marshmallows
2 cups flaked or finely cut, shredded coconut or 1 cup finely cut nuts
In a 1-quart bowl mix Pet Instant and water. Add chocolate. Set bowl in pan of hot (not boiling) water over low heat. Stir until chocolate melts, about 3 minutes. Take bowl from water. Stir in sugar. With 2 forks, dip marshmallows, one at a time, into chocolate mixture, then roll in coconut or nuts to coat all sides. Put on waxed paper and chill until firm. If chocolate mixture becomes too thick for easy dipping, add a few drops of water. Makes 16.

BROWN SUGAR FUDGE

1/2 cup Pet Instant (in dry form)
2 cups sifted, powdered sugar
1/8 teaspoon salt

LEMON NUT BALLS

1/2 cup-Pet Instant (in dry form)
2 cups sifted, powdered sugar

WASHINGTON, D.C.—A Virginia Beach, Virginia, automobile dealership — Alphin Motors, Inc., 914 Seventeenth Street — has been appointed to sell the Mercury Meteor, a completely new-sized car which will be introduced this month.

The Mercury Meteor will be unveiled across the country on Thursday, November 30, at about 2,000 dealerships in the Lincoln-Mercury organization. Its introduction will climax the auto industry's fall showings of the 1962 models.

The Meteor is regarded by the Lincoln-Mercury Division as a balance between the industry's compact and big cars. Compared to its companions in the Mercury line, the Meteor is nine inches longer than the Comet and nearly a foot shorter than the Monterey.

William B. Grete, Lincoln-Mercury sales manager for the Washington district, points out that the Meteor challenges the economy of the compact cars yet offers the interior room of regular-size cars and riding qualities of big cars.

"It is not a stretched-out compact nor a cut-down big car. All sheet metal and basic chassis components are completely new and are not borrowed from last year's cars or other 1962 Mercury lines," Mr. Grete added.

In appearance, the Meteor emphasizes clean-lined styling. The car, which is built with a unitized body, incorporates features designed to reduce maintenance costs.

The new Meteor will be offered in four body styles — two and four-door sedans in both a standard and custom series.

"We have been unable to grant this, since a constant flow of individuals might have hindered the research effort. This has been unfortunate for us as well as our guests, since we take great pride in the laboratory and enjoy telling our friends the story of marine research in Virginia. We are very pleased to remove this barrier for our Open House Day festivities so that we can fully acquaint them with our facilities, our work and our goals."

Students in the Institute's graduate training program will guide groups through the buildings, and staff members will discuss with the guests the purposes of their research and also demonstrate laboratory equipment. Each tour will end in the Exhibit Room where a movie on oceanographic research may be viewed.

A special Open House preview has been scheduled for Saturday, December 2nd, with state and local officials, college officials and instructors, and marine scientists from other state and federal research groups invited to attend.

Cost of Living Is Personal Matter Controlled by Individual

"Cost of living reaches new high" "Slight drop in cost of living for September" "Consumer price index advances."

How often have you seen or heard similar statements? Taken literally, they seem to say that the consumer price index determines how much it will cost you to live, that all you can do is accept this and do what the consumer price index dictates.

Nothing could be further from the truth. Your cost of living depends on you, not on the consumer price index. Your cost of living may move in the same direction as the index; it might stand still while the index moves; it might move in the opposite direction from the index. Of course, if prices generally rise, your cost of living is bound to rise, but it still may not rise as far or as fast as the index. It depends on you.

The consumer price index is made up of a mixture of items. Even though the total index may be rising, prices of many items in the index and items you buy may be moving downward. For instance, let's suppose the index for the month of October did rise. Did this mean that your cost-of-living also rose? Not necessarily! Whether it did or not depended on you. There are many things you might have done to counteract the rise in the consumer price index.

For instance, in October you can figure on apple prices dropping. If you bought larger amounts of the items whose prices were falling, your cost-of-living might have gone down even though the consumer price index rose.

Too, you might be a "special item" or an "advertised item" shopper. If you were lucky in October and found several of these specials, it's entirely possible your cost-of-living went down while consumer prices generally moved upward.

So, you can use the consumer price index as a general guide as to what's happening in the market world. It does not, however, dictate your cost-of-living. This depends on you — your shopping wishes, your shopping habits, and your shopping skill.

Pointed to — crescent toe — square toe! Lo, the poor shopper — how's she to know?

It's not really so complicated to go shoe-shopping if you know a few rules. The main thing to remember is to be healthwise as well as fashion wise. Be sure your new shoes fit. And here are fashion tips:

Pointed toes are seen in day-time wear with a needle heel shaped to give the illusion of height. Decorations are occasionally ruffy, but a simple bow or detail is more often used. Plain pumps are more versatile.

The pointed opera pump is still the most popular shoe. Sling backs and mules with closed toes are "after-five" styles.

The crescent toe is plain or spectator style and a mid-heel is a good shoe for shopping or standing.

The square toe also is found in the more tailored shoes. Teenagers are still wearing the slip-on flats for dress. Or the low-dressy heel adds a group-up touch without too much height. Boots are popular still, particularly with leotards, slacks and swirling skirts.

Many leather textures are available this fall. Polished leather can be worn around the clock. Suede leather — found this year in a sport-resistant finish — can be worn any time of day or night, depending on the combinations of leathers and styling. The more casual grained leather is worn with tweeds, jerseys, or flannels. Patent leather is now a year-round shoe, but reserved for late day or dressy, afternoon occasions in the autumn. Lustre leather is a party shoe.

New in women's shoes is a tanning process for shoe soles that repels weather, increases the wear by 50 to 100 percent, makes the shoe more flexible, and prevents slipping on sidewalks and polished floors.

Ease in upkeep makes plastic covers practical for many uses — but generally they can't replace the comfort, appearance and decorative value of woven fabrics.

Plastics are practical for a recreation room, a family room, the nursery or child's room, etc. There are two kinds of upholstery plastic — nonsupported and supported. The nonsupported is a solid sheet of plastic not supported with a fabric backing. The back will have the same slick color as the front. This type is best used over a firm base such as a bench.

Supported plastic materials are built from a cloth base which has had a plastic coating applied to one surface. Some have a knitted fabric back

Ackels Firm Purchases Lumsden Realty Company

VIRGINIA BEACH — Lumsden Realty, a real estate firm owned and operated in Virginia Beach for nearly a decade, by the husband and wife team of William B. Lumsden and Madeline M. Lumsden, sold its real estate interests recently to Ackels' Real Estate Company.

The Lumsden Agency was located in the Beach Theatre Building for about 10 years before moving to 800 Laskin Road the first of this year.

Ackels Real Estate Co., owned by Ethel A. Ackels, immediate past president of the Virginia Beach Real Estate Board and its Multiple Listing Service, has moved into the offices on Laskin Road formerly occupied by the Lumsden firm.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Lumsden will now be associated with the Ackels firm on a consultative basis. Mr. Lumsden is a charter member of the Virginia Beach Real Estate Board as well as the Multiple Listing Service.

In the expansion and reorganization program of Ackels Real Estate Co., Mrs. Ackels will serve as chairman of the newly formed board of directors. Near Admiral William H. Johnson (ret) will be executive, general sales manager and his wife, Mrs. Kathleen Vancider Johnson, will be executive secretary and office manager.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, who reside at 323 Boholink Drive in Birdneck Point, spent the past several years overseas after Adm. Johnson's final assignment at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station. He is a graduate of the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis. Mrs. Johnson was formerly associated with Dale Fairless Real Estate when the firm was operating in Virginia Beach.

Mr. Lumsden will now devote most of his time to promotional work with the Ackels firm and will continue his past work in procuring commercial leases, sites, etc. He was recently appointed special sales representative for the Virginia Beach-Ocean area in the sale of complete custom built homes and home sites for the Bow Creek custom built homes in the Bow Creek Country Club area of Princess Anne Plaza.

Although the Bow Creek custom built homes, each of which is built to the purchaser's specifications and restricted so that no two homes are outwardly alike, are new to the area, three have already been purchased and occupied, Lumsden said, and three are nearing completion with a possible Christmas occupancy.

One is a three-bedroom brick ranch style with a large family room and fireplace, spacious sunken living room and a slightly raised dining room and a kitchen that overlooks the fairways of the Bow Creek Country Club. It also features two tile baths, built-in electric range and oven, central oil duct heating, two-car garage, utility room, city sewage and water. All this for $25,000, Lumsden said.

Thalia Principal

jobs on the beach each summer during his college years.

Picked Beach
"I always liked it here and knew this is where I wanted to teach when I got out of school," he said.

With the exception of two years he spent in the Army, from 1954 to 1956, Copley has been in the County-Beach area since 1949, when he graduated from Hampden-Sydney College with a bachelor of science degree in education.

He later received his master's degree in education from the University of Virginia as a participant in the academic year institute sponsored by the National Science Foundation.

Received Grant
Receiving this foundation grant was a great boost to his teaching career, Copley said. Since he was a family man at the time, he could not afford to leave his work for a year for more schooling and felt that he might have to leave the education field entirely.

"When that grant came through for me, I realized I was meant to stay in the teaching profession and here I hope to stay."

He taught only one year, at Princess Anne High School, after completing the foundation's institute, a fact that causes some pangs of guilt occasionally, he said.

"When this principalship was offered me I wondered if it would be fair to leave by science and mathematics classes after the government had invested so much money in me. But I finally decided that it is just as important to guide these little fellows in the same subjects as it is high school students, so I believe I am still making their investment worthwhile."

A resident of Kempsville Heights, Copley has memberships in the Princess Anne County-Virginia Beach City Education Association, Virginia Education Association and The National Council of Teachers of Mathematics.

When the school secretary stuck her head inside the door and commented "make the write-up a good one, because we think our principal is one of the best," it was obvious that whatever amount the government might have invested in H. Otis Copley, he is well worth the consideration.

Esskay Company Buys Prize Beef

Most of the prize-winning cattle, hogs and lambs shown at the annual Eastern National Livestock Show at Timonium, Md., were purchased by The Wm. Schludenberg-T. J. Kurdie Company, producers of Esskay meats, largest meat-packing plant in the East.

Continuing more than a quarter-century of support of livestock producers, 4-H Club and Future Farmers of America exhibitors at the Show, the Baltimore company was high bidder for the Grand Champion steer, the Reserve Champion steer, the Champion Pen of 5, and the Champion Wm. F. Schludenberg Memorial steer. Out of 284 steers sold at the Show, Esskay bought 104, paying $2.55 a lb. on the hoof for the 980-pound Grand Champion, a total of $2,499.00. The animal was exhibited by Wesley Mast, 17, of Morgantown, Pa.

Other prize-winning animals purchased by Esskay included the Champion 4-H Club hog at $1.00 a pound, the Reserve Champion 4-H and seven other champion hogs. The company also bought the Grand Champion lamb at $2.50 a pound, which was also the Champion 4-H and Champion in the Wm. F. Schludenberg Memorial class; and the Reserve Champion lamb. Esskay purchased a total of 185 hogs and 84 lambs.

The Wm. F. Schludenberg Memorial Award went to Miss Nancy Groves of Cecilton, Md., for her steer entry.

With 14 clubs participating, Virginia has 28 recognized trials a year, more than any other state. Lippitt was the first president of the Association of Field Trial Clubs and is now director of the English Setter Club of New Jersey and the Virginia Amateur Field Trial Association.

With all of these accomplishments, the energetic couple are far from taking it easy. They are now getting ready for trials in Pinehurst, N. C. and the Sumter Game Cock Trials then on to Waynesboro and Albany, Ga.

The building includes at least 15 rooms, besides seven bath rooms, all of which is kept warm in the winter and cool in the summer with an automatic heater and air conditioning system located in a large furnace room.
Driveways at either end of the building lead to a spacious parking lot at the rear paved with asphalt and partially shaded by several large trees that escaped the clearing process and continue to grow out of their asphalt blanket.

Can't tell yet whether my son will follow in his Dad's footsteps. Blocks don't make an engineer. But he's learning some of the basic principles of physics with which many professions deal. On the way home from Church, when he talks about his lesson, I recognize familiar signs... character is still in the mold. Deep conviction, bold dedication come later. But he's grasping those basic truths on which great living rises. For a busy engineer who used to be hit-or-miss in his church attendance, fostering the growth of a soul is a fascinating experience... especially as I find my own faith deepening with every reverent day! Can't tell about his following my footsteps... But I've discovered new dimensions in life following his.

Speaking Fault Common Among Many Individuals

There's a good chance that you haven't learned to speak.

That is, you haven't learned to speak out clearly, so that those around you can hear and understand what you say. Millions of people are more or less handicapped in their everyday affairs because of slurred speech, mumbling, swallowing word endings and other violations of vocal expression that leave an impression of carelessness and lack of self-confidence.

Speech is our direct means of communication. Clear enunciation and a pleasant voice are among the greatest assets in modern society. This doesn't mean that everyone needs an orator, or even a public speaker. It does mean that we must make ourselves understood in our everyday dealings with the people around us.

Some people are fortunate enough to be born with voices that yield true, pure tones. From this group we obtain most of our vocal talent — singers, orators and radio and television announcers. Most of us have to be content with everyday quality of voice, but we at least can use it to the best advantage.

Some can gain from voice lessons. Not to become a singer, but just to develop a better voice quality. Almost everyone can gain from coaching in public speaking and dramatics.

Most important of all is the effort to express ourselves as clearly and as pleasantly as possible. It doesn't require a teacher to tell us that we must speak loud enough and distinctly enough to be understood.

The American Medical Association suggests that you try a simple experiment. Ask two or three close friends or relatives — those who will give you an honest answer — whether they can understand your speech all of the time. The answers may surprise you. Or, you can ask yourself the question: How often does someone ask me to repeat a word, phrase or sentence?

A few minutes a day for a week or two of concentrating on speaking distinctly will help to develop clear speech habits that will be invaluable in human relationships.

HERE'S WHERE YOU GET THE GOOD WORD ABOUT THE '62 JET-SMOOTH CHEVROLET

Jet-smooth ride

Jet-smooth ride, n. 1. The cloud-9 feeling of comfort that people in Chevrolet's enjoy wherever they go. 2. A supple Full Coil spring flexing at each wheel of a Chevrolet to absorb road shock. These are teamed with over 700 noise and vibration filters throughout the automobile so that the total effect is a ride of supreme quiet and smoothness. 3. The reason why so many Chevrolet-owning families leave home over so happily. 4. A habit-forming pleasure for which no cure is known, wanted or sought.

new V8-skidaddle, n. 1. The result of touching an accelerator that's linked to one of Chevrolet's new V8 engines (also known as "six-skidaddle" when engine is Chevrolet's trusty 135-hp. Six). 2. The moving power of Chevrolet's 1962 V8 engines. There are five of them, ranging from a standard 170-hp. version up to an optional-at-extra-cost 409-hp. powerhouse.

Body by Fisher craftsmanship, n. 1. The closest that a body manufacturer has come to the infinite care and skill of the jewelry maker. 2. The art and science of designing and forming metal into the strong, solid body structure of the 1962 Chevrolet. Typical hallmarks are long, smooth sheet metal shapes without ripples or blemishes, neatly joined seams, and doors and trunk lids that are carefully shaped and fitted into place for easy opening and closing. 3. Something you won't find in any other car in Chevrolet's field.

deep-well trunk, n. 1. The giant warehouse built into the rear of a 1962 Chevrolet. 2. A trunk that loads at the bumper level and has a capacity of 29.7 cubic feet. It is built with an extra-deep recess in its floor so that it can easily accept odd-shaped outside objects.

slim-roof styling

comfort-high seats, n. 1. Thought by many to be the most comfortable things to happen to the bottom side of the human lap since dad's overstuffed armchair. 2. Seats that are high enough to support and relax the thighs and weight-bearing muscles of the body (better for sitting, better for seeing). By providing resilient, deep-padded support throughout the backrest and seat itself, they bring on a remarkable feeling of comfort and well-being.

front fender underakirts, n. 1. An advance that's causing people to say things like "What won't those Chevrolet engineers come up with next!" 2. Sturdy steel linings that are under the front fenders of 1962 Chevrolet to add extra protection against flying stones, mud, slush, road salt and that old bugaboo, corrosion. 3. One of many ways the 1962 Chevrolet is built to stay beautiful.

rich new interiors, n. 1. One of the principal reasons why people step into the 1962 Chevrolet and promptly feel luxurious all over. 2. An arresting combination of lovely, long-lived materials used in an elegant way to decorate the new Chevrolet's passenger compartment and tickle the fancy of its occupants. 3. A harmonizing blend of the functional — such as the clean-cut, neatly ordered instrument panel — with the tasteful and the fresh.

slim-roof styling, n. 1. The clean-lined lines that typify the 1962 Chevrolet and contribute so much to its look of elegance. 2. Sometimes followed by words such as "Wow!" and "Look at that, will you!" 3. The happy result of inspired designers who are steeped in the art of using imagination and restraint.

One-Stop Shopping Center

One-Stop Shopping Center, n. 1. Where people go to get the most car for their money and get exactly the kind of car they want. 2. A concentration point for the 33 cars Chevrolet offers for 1962. These come in three lines: The elegant new Jet-smooth Chevrolet which gives you just about everything you could hope to find in an expensive car — without the expense. The new-size Chevy II that brings you sensibility at its Sunday best via nine models, including a hardtop, sedan, a convertible and station wagon. The sporty new Corvair which retains the rear-engine tradition and nimble steering that made it a rally star and adds many new touches to please people with sports-car fever and a budget to answer to. And the Corvette, which offers new refinements, new V8 power. 3. What '62 values are way up but prices are the same — or less — on comparably equipped models. 4. A Chevrolet dealer's place of business, which includes a showroom manned by friendly and knowledgeable salesmen; a large, carefully stocked parts department; a modern service center where factory-trained mechanics ply their skill; and best-buy OK used cars. 5. The place where you enter a new world of worth in automobiles. 6. Where most Americans go for a pleasant, instant cure the moment the new-car bug bites them.
